not indebtedness of slightly more than $100,000.

A charge by Mr. Hays that as early as July, 1913, the democratic committee had installed an elaborate fund-raising organization in the Bond building, Washington, was explained by Mr. Cummings as a bureau for both propaganda and finance. He said that it "grew from a hope," but was reduced in size when it was found that the overhead charges for maintaining the organization exceeded the receipts by from $10,000 to $15,000 a month.

The two chairmen agreed that legislation looking toward central control of presidential campaigns was desirable. Senator Pomeroy argued that congress was powerless at present because the supreme court had held that presidential electors were state officials.

A suggestion that a constitutional amendment might be necessary to give congress oversight of presidential campaigns brought from Mr. Hays a proposal that the parties might unite in an effort to obtain such a change in the basic law.

Earlier in the day Mr. Hays had "hoped that this committee will recommend the passage of a bill regulating primary election expenses in national, congressional and senatorial campaigns." He also favored a provision that all primary elections for federal officers be held on a single day in every state.

Representative Flood estimated that $200,000 would be required by his democratic congressional committee to conduct its efforts properly, but presented figures to show that he had received only $700 in subscriptions. He turned the money over to the democratic national committee, he said, and expected that committee to finance his congressional campaigns.

Much Matter Franked. Examination of bills brought out that he had had printed by the public printer at Washington 1,300,000 copies of speeches by democratic congressmen. He had pledged his committee to pay $508.18 for the printing, he said. The speeches were being sent out under cover of the franking privilege by eliminating postage bills. His committee, he said, would need $20,000 for its administrative expenses. It pays no rent, as it uses the house office building at Washington for headquarters, he said.

Probable Purpose Stated. At the outset of the hearing Senator Kenyon introduced the newspaper accounts of Governor Cox's speech at Pittsburgh, the committee's telegram to him and the governor's reply.

Senator Reed, in testimony of the committee's duty had been earlier set as "to find every dollar" collected and expended by both national organizations. He said this course would have been followed whether Governor Cox had made a charge or not.

Without a charge the committee received the newspaper accounts of Governor Cox's speeches at Wheeling, W. Va.; Pittsburgh and New York. A shorthand account of the Pittsburgh speech was also placed in the record.

Will Hays, chairman of the republican national committee, was then called to the stand.

Small Contributions Sought. Mr. Hays told the senators at the outset of his testimony that the republican management welcomed "the opportunity further to extend the effort of the republican national committee to popularize the giving of money for campaign purposes by getting small contributions from a great many men and women, thus removing any possible opportunity for sinister influences in connection with money in politics."

He said this plan for raising money grew out of two primary causes: "The real desire to work a real reform in the elimination of any possible improper obligation and because experience in raising funds for war purposes had made popular drives a familiar activity that kind of action by a political organization."

"We particularly hoped that this activity would increase the political interest," he said.

Limit of $1000 Proposed. Mr. Hays explained that the plan was proposed early in 1919 and that the purpose has been to limit the contribution to $1000 for any one year from any individual or $1000 before the nominating convention and $1000 after.

Mr. Hays submitted to the committee a letter from George T. Carroll as "president of the New Jersey Association of Liquor Interests." He read from it sentences soliciting funds to carry on Cox propaganda with the ultimate object of obtaining an amendment to the Volstead act to permit sale of light wines and beers. The letter called Governor Cox a "promoted wet."

Mr. Hays described the organization of a general committee of ways and means, acting under the treasurer, to carry the work into each state, and of a state ways and means committee with a man as state chairman and a woman as vice-chairman and to endeavor to get a county chairman of ways and means and a woman vice-chairman and to carry such processes of organization as the localities might adopt organize just as in a Red Cross or Liberty loan campaign.

discussed arrangements made with both the senatorial and congressional campaign committees of the party to the end that there would be but one money-raising organization.

"In connection," he said, "it was understood between the national committee and these two committees that the collecting organization of the national committee would help raise the money for them, guaranteeing to them the amounts which they thought would be necessary for the congressional and senatorial campaigns."

Budget is Worked Out. "The campaign budget or estimate was worked out, beginning as of July 1, a total amount which would be needed for the actual campaign and this was $3,079,037.20," he said. Of this total $255,190 was apportioned to the speakers' bureau. Headquarters expenses were set at $750,824 for Washington, New York, Boston, Chicago, Denver and San Francisco, and rents for all headquarters were estimated at $45,843.

For publicity $1,346,500 was appropriated for miscellaneous objects, such as bureaus of clubs, shipping departments and distribution, freight, express, all traveling and other expenses incident to raising of money, $680,920 was set aside.

"It is my opinion that about this amount will be necessary for the national committee to spend," said Mr. Hays.

"This does not, of course, include the bayonet to enforce their will. That statement is also false."

Corruption Fund Scouted. "The $5 million have been contributed through a corrupt source in furtherance of a republican conspiracy to buy an underdog presidential campaign but a corruption fund, not will be less than $15,000,000." That statement is also false.

"That a quota fixing agreement is to be raised by certain cities amounting to over $3,000,000 was adopted at a meeting at which Mr. Upham and I were present." That charge is also false. No such quotas were ever adopted at any such meeting nor at any other time or place.

"He has made statements charging a 'slush fund' for corrupt purposes, subscribed in the names of dummy contributors; to be used to corrupt the electorate. These statements are also false."

"I now say that each and all of these several charges are absolutely false in what they say and libelous in their purposes."

"The wet hearers of any promises or agreements with any one whereby they will receive any favors in the event of republican victory?" Mr. Reed asked of Mr. Hays.

"No."

Rumors Are Disregarded. "We seem to be getting into a discussion of hearsay evidence again," Senator Kenyon interjected. "May I ask, Mr. Hays, whether you have collected for state and national committees such as you have promised to anyone?"

"Well, there is the statement about the $5 million which I have heard a lot of rumors for irresponsible persons, in which I have taken no particular stock," he replied.

When Mr. Hays started to read his newspaper clippings, Senator Reed observed that the committee had started to travel toward a point which might make a file of newspapers of the committee than the official stenographer's record.

"Do I understand that you think Governor Cox ought to be subpoenaed?" asked Senator Edgerly.

"If you are going to try this case on what the newspapers say, let us subpoena him," replied Senator Reed. He added that "under present circumstances" he did not think it was either Governor Cox or Senator Harding.

Democratic Fund Alleged. Mr. Hays offered three newspaper clippings reporting an alleged democratic fund of $100,000 without putting them in the record and suggesting that Clarence B. Miller, secretary of the republican national committee, who, he said, investigated the reports, be subpoenaed. The committee agreed.

A letter from the controller of the state of New York, dated August 24, 1919, was offered by Mr. Hays as evidence of what he called "democratic propaganda through misuse of original sources." He said that "aside from the failure of the senate to ratify the peace treaty there was nothing in the streets. She would never allow a light in their apartment during dark, with the result that Mr. Rauch lost the only time afforded him for reading his daily newspapers, he asserted."

Mrs. Rauch told her husband that she did not know her true name and never would learn it.

Mrs. Rauch then offered "the original letter of George T. Carroll, president of the New Jersey Federation of Liquor Interests." The letter said the association had "set out to do a part in the election of James M. Cox."

It said the Cox nomination was a "big victory for our interests," and that the Ohio governor could "be relied upon to support an amendment to the Volstead act" which would permit the sale of light wines and beers.

Though he has not the slightest idea what sort of a past it was, Louis D. Rauch is certain that he married a woman with a past. He set forth this conviction in a divorce suit filed in the circuit court yesterday against Mrs. Myrtle Rauch, who became Mrs. Rauch at Vancouver, Wash., April 10, 1920.

Everywhere Mrs. Rauch would go she would carry a large revolver, he asserted, and "she would act in a peculiar and suspicious manner with regard to meeting people or being seen on the streets."

Mr. Rauch's charge as to drafts drawn on government depositories was based, he told Senator Reed, "upon information received from George W. Bean of Tampa, Fla., republican national committee man of that state." He said a banker gave Mr. Bean the information.

Mrs. Rauch then offered "the original letter of George T. Carroll, president of the New Jersey Federation of Liquor Interests." The letter said the association had "set out to do a part in the election of James M. Cox."

It said the Cox nomination was a "big victory for our interests," and that the Ohio governor could "be relied upon to support an amendment to the Volstead act" which would permit the sale of light wines and beers.

"Money must be had if we are to maintain the necessary propaganda," read Mr. Hays from the letter, which was addressed to "Gabain Brothers." The witness submitted this letter and "what purported to be an original receipt for $25,000 given to J. W. Helms of Newark, N. J., as treasurer of the association."

Senator Reed brought out that Mr. Hays got the letter from the country club of Frelinghuysen of New Jersey.

After brief testimony by Representative D. Flood and J. L. Rhinock of the national democratic congressional committee the investigation was adjourned until tomorrow.

NO WET MONEY IN TREASURY, SAYS COX

Chairman Hays' Charge is Declared Absurd.

ANOTHER BOLT PROMISED

Governor Is Preparing Statement on Senator Harding's Proposed World Justice Court.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 30.—Governor Cox, answering testimony of Will H. Hays, chairman of the republican national committee, before the senate sub-committee investigating campaign expenditures in Chicago today, declared tonight that "the wets have not contributed a dollar to my campaign and they will not." He added that neither had the "drys" contributed.

The governor's statement was made after reading newspaper accounts of the hearing in Chicago before which chairman Hays read a letter purporting to be from G. T. Carroll, president of the New Jersey Federation of Liquor Interests, asking for contribution to help elect Cox.

Charge Declared Absurd. "It is very well understood, in this state in particular," Governor Cox said, "that the wets have not been active in politics for some time. Official reports to the secretary of state show that in the last year or two the wets have not apparently been able to make large campaign contributions for wet referendums. If Mr. Hays will take the time to investigate the official reports in Ohio he will find that the wets have never contributed a cent to any of my campaigns."

The governor declared any statements that the wets are contributing to his campaign to be untrue on its face," adding that he only made reply because "silence might be misconstrued."

New Statement Coming. The governor returned today from his eastern tour. He will speak at the Ohio state fair tomorrow afternoon on agriculture. He said he was preparing a statement on "the New York plan" meaning the plan for a world court of justice outlined by Senator Harding. The governor said he had been informed by a "close political observer" that the league of nations has overrunder party lines.

Governor Cox said he was surprised to see the general interest in politics displayed so early in New York. He said he had no comment to make on the attitude of organized labor toward his candidacy as expressed by President Gomperz and other labor officers.

SCALP TROUBLES ARE MANY

Specialist Says Different Hair and Scalp Ailments Require Different Treatment.

Prof. John H. Austin of Chicago, who now has offices at The Owl Drug Co., has devoted over forty years to the study of hair and scalp troubles. During this time he has found that only with the aid of a most powerful microscope is it possible to determine the exact type of ailment which the hair or scalp is afflicted.

People who really value their hair have come to consider private specialists as of as much importance as doctor or dentist, for how can anyone without the knowledge or experience to distinguish between such scalp disorders as seborrhea-oleosa, seborrhea sicca, alopecia, pityriasis, etc.?

Prof. Austin says that the use of mange cure, dandruff cures, hair tonics, vasoline and similar preparations, without knowing what you are trying to cure.

Men and women troubled with scalp ailments should see Prof. Austin, let him turn a powerful microscope upon their hair and show them the parasites which destroy the hair cells and roots, and they will be convinced that the particular trouble must be known before each case can be intelligently treated.

During the past two years, at The Owl Drug Co., Prof. Austin has taught thousands of people how to stop falling hair, remove dandruff, relieve itching scalp and grow new hair.
