S-5, Submerged 55 Miles at Sea, Held Near Surface by Calves of Rescuers.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 2.—A radio message received shortly after 3 o'clock at the Philadelphia navy-yard via Cape May from the army transport General Goethals said that all the men had been taken from the S-5. All the crew are now on the steamer Olanthus. The captain of the S-5 was the last man taken out.

The radio message said the crew were in bad shape, but were recovering. No one was injured. The crew had been submerged 42 hours.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Sept. 2.—A wireless message from the United States steamship General Goethals, picked up at Farmington, Conn., last night, reported the United States submarine S-5 had been submerged 35 hours, and asked that destroyers be sent to her rescue.

The submarine's last position was reported in latitude 38:26 north and longitude 74 west, virtually due east of the Delaware cape.

The radio was received by David L. Moore, who has a wireless outfit at his home in Farmington. It read: "On board U. S. S. General Goethals, at sea, September 2.—Send destroyer with gear to relieve crew in submerged submarine S-5. Been in this condition 35 hours. Bring material for cutting through hull."

Inquiry at the United States submarine base at New London brought a statement from officers that nothing was known there about the report. Officers said, however, a submarine could remain submerged for a much longer period than 35 hours without danger to the crew.

The United States destroyer Overton sailed from the navy-yard tonight to the rescue of the submarine. Officials expected her to reach the submerged vessel at daybreak.

DANIELS CONFIRMS SINKING

Rescue Boats Ordered to Aid With Equipment to Cut Hull.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels confirmed the report of the sinking of the S-5 tonight and said assistance had been ordered to her assistance.

Naval commanders at both New York and Philadelphia, Mr. Daniels added, had been ordered to detail available vessels and equipment for the rescue work. The department had received nothing more tonight than was contained in wireless messages already made public, he said.

The United States submarine S-5 was being kept barely at the surface of the ocean, 55 miles east of Cape Henlopen, tonight by a precarious hold secured on her stern by the General Goethals, an army transport, while a dozen vessels of the navy raced from various points to her rescue.

With her crew the S-5 had been submerged for 35 hours, but through a contest with the crew of the General Goethals, enough air was being pumped to keep the men alive until naval equipment rushed on the fastest vessels available could get there to complete the rescue.

Captain B. Hutchinson, assistant chief of operations, said the battleship Ohio from the southern drill ground was under way for the spot, as were two destroyers from the Norfolk base, a destroyer with special constructors and special equipment from Philadelphia and a fourth destroyer and the torpedo ship Bridgeport from New York.

The rescue vessels were under orders to get the men out first, Captain Hutchinson said, by raising and cutting into the submarine. Messages from the General Goethals said sufficient air had been gotten into the hull to "revive" the crew and explained that the subs' position in the water was almost vertical.

Cables from the submarine's stern to the General Goethals proved sufficient to hold her to the surface and men were landed who cut the hole through which the air pipe was introduced. Ordinarily the air supply in a submarine of her type, Captain Hutchinson said, would suffice to keep her crew alive 72 hours, but her peculiar position would indicate much air had been lost.

The S-5 had been on special recruiting duty along the coast. She is commanded by Lieutenant-Commander C. M. Cook. Her present position was given as latitude 38:26 north and longitude 74:05. Besides the General, stood by and it is believed that the rescue vessels were ordered to cut the side out of the submarine. Her present position probably made it useless to attempt to take any of her men out of the occasionally used route of the torpedo tubes, he explained, because the tubes are in

2 TRAINS ARE STOLEN FROM FREIGHT CREWS

ROBBERS ABANDON 21-CAR DRAG, TAKE ANOTHER.

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—A freight train

of 21 cars loaded with automobiles and other merchandise was stolen tonight from the train crew at Cicero, a suburb, and driven by the train robbers to Bensenville, Ill., where it was abandoned. The train was taken from the yards of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad after the crew had been beaten and thrown off. Police arrived in time to arrest five men who had not had time to join their companions on the stolen train. Railroad officials immediately began an investigation to learn if any of the merchandise in the cars had been taken.

A few hours later railroad officials and police were notified that another freight train, bound for Savannah, Ill., had been flagged by the same band, who rode off with the first train after throwing off the crew.

According to reports received by the police, the stealing of the trains followed several encounters between train crews and former employees who had joined the switchmen's strike here months ago and had lost their jobs.

"If the bridge failed, if trouble arose between the English-speaking nations, we would not be a foolhardy man who would look for any peace in the future," Sir Auckland said. "There would be collapse after collapse and civilization would not long exist."

Parties Much Concerned Over Results of Elections in Wisconsin and New Hampshire.

By MARK SULLIVAN. Copyright by the New York Evening Post, Inc. Published by Arrangement.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—(Special.)—Within the next two weeks a considerable number of important senatorial primaries will be held to fill vacancies occurring in the senate with the end of this term.

Next week, in addition to primaries in New Hampshire to determine Senator Morse's successor and the primary in Wisconsin to determine Senator Lenroot's successor, there will be, on September 7, primaries in Nevada to determine the successor to the present democratic senator, Charles B. Henderson. In the democratic primaries Senator Henderson will receive the nomination, for he has no opposition.

Among the republicans there are five candidates competing for the chance to oppose Senator Henderson on election day. Of these five probably the best known is Governor Tasker L. Oddie. Governor Oddie's nomination would probably give the republicans the best chance they have to defeat Henderson and add a republican to the senate. He is popular and has made a favorable record as governor.

Another candidate for the republican nomination is Brewster Adams, pastor of the Reno Baptist church, who is described as having "modern conceptions" of a clergyman's functions and is making a spectacular campaign. Mr. Adams was formerly a university settlement worker in New York, a member of the national child labor commission and a volunteer probation officer.

Miller is Vote-Getter. A third candidate for the republican nomination is Grant Miller, who in two previous elections ran for senator on socialist tickets. He left the socialists four years ago and came back to the republicans.

FREEDOM FROM JURISDICTION OF SEATTLE EXPECTED.

Portland's fight for removal from the supervision and jurisdiction of Seattle in the operations division of the shipping board is shaping toward success, according to a telegram received by the Portland Chamber of Commerce yesterday from W. D. B. Dodson, general manager of the chamber, who is conducting the fight for this port in the national capital.

When information was first received here that Admiral Benson, chairman of the United States shipping board, was about to divide the Pacific coast into two operating districts and make Seattle headquarters of the new district including Puget sound and the Columbia river, a sharp protest was filed by the chamber of commerce, port and dock commissions, and interested private business men. Portland at first asked merely to be replaced in the San Francisco district, but according to the message received from Mr. Dodson, Admiral Benson now inclines toward the establishment of Portland as the headquarters of a separate Columbia river district. Such action on the part of the admiral, who now constitutes the shipping board, is exactly what Portland interests have desired, but at first hesitated to ask.

R. A. Dean, general counsel for the shipping board, and special assistant to Chairman Benson, who visited all Pacific coast ports recently, immediately recognized, after a brief stay here, the injustice of Seattle's domination of Portland's affairs, and stated that, in his opinion, the matter could be corrected quickly upon his return to Washington yesterday.

T. R. JR. READY FOR FRAY

Campaign Tour to Begin at Kansas City, Mo., Monday.

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—Lieutenant-Colonel Theodore Roosevelt will start here Saturday to begin his western campaign tour in behalf of the republican presidential ticket.

The tour will open with a speech at Kansas City, Mo., Monday and include speeches at Pueblo, Colo., and Provo and Salt Lake city, Utah.

The committee heard Senator Miles Poindexter of Washington and Hermon Henke, treasurer of the National Young Men's Republican league, and then adjourned.

Republican "Boast" Cited. Mr. Moore told newspaper men that he would attempt to prove that the republican leaders had publicly announced last January that they planned to raise a $15,000,000 campaign fund and "had boasted of it." He declared that $25,000 had been raised in Atlanta, Ga., "prior to June 14 by a man who later became so disgusted when Senator Harding was nominated that he quit the party."

Mr. Upham testified earlier that the quota for all of Georgia was $25,000 and said that $2058 was all that had been raised.

Failure to hear all witnesses today upset the committee's plan to meet in Pittsburgh next week and inquiry charges that the liquor interests there had assisted Attorney-General Palmer's campaign for the democratic nomination for president. That plan, however, has not been dropped and Senator Kenyon said before leaving tonight that the committee would go to Pittsburgh, probably soon after hearing the witnesses subpoenaed here.

Poindexter on Stand. Miles J. Poindexter of Washington, recent candidate for the republican presidential nomination and chairman of the republican senatorial committee, told the investigators today that the $5000 which his committee sent E. O. Weller, republican candidate for the senate from Maryland, was not an example of the general practice of the committee.

"There is no fixed rule or system by which candidates are helped," explained Senator Poindexter. "We supply funds for campaign activities upon which we have agreed with the candidate or his campaign organization."

Senator Kenyon brought out that the senatorial committee had an arrangement by which the former's maximum campaign fund of $200,000 was guaranteed by the national committee. In return all money collected by the senatorial committee are turned back to the party's national treasury. Senator Poindexter said. He added that Senator Frelinghuysen is chairman of a subcommittee in charge of collecting funds and that he in turn had organized an auxiliary committee headed by Elliot Wadsworth of New York.

Little Money Yet Raised.

"They have not raised any money to speak of," said Senator Poindexter, and Senator Reed of the investigating Proceedings will include Criminal and Civil Action and Involve Millions, Say Officials.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—(By the Associated Press.)—Prosecution of 324 contractors, marking the beginning of a move by the government to clean up its war contract controversies, has been ordered by the department of justice. The proceedings will include criminal and civil actions and involve "millions of dollars," officials said today.

Practically all of the cases embraced by the prosecution order were turned over by the war department, but there were indications that some cases would be received from other departments. The shipping board is understood to be planning to request criminal prosecution in half a dozen cases. Contractors on which action will be pressed were said to involve amounts "ranging from a few thousands to a few millions." They include agreements for the furnishing of supplies of many commodities, construction of camps, cantonments and warehouses and other facilities for the training of the army.

Preparatory to instituting legal proceedings in most cases, the government has started a re-checking of its data and figures, planning to pursue the investigation into the records of the firms and individuals whose contracts are questioned. This work will require several months.

Officials expressed belief that although the war department had failed to reach an agreement, many contracts would be settled out of court. The department abolished its fraud and graft investigating sections some months ago.

With respect to a score or more of the contract settlements in dispute there was the belief that "honest mistakes had been made by the contractor or sub-contractor and that an investigation of records would produce grounds on which adjustment could be easily made. It was said that in other cases, however, "plain fraud and conspiracy" had been proved so clearly that no other course was open except direct action looking to indictment.

Robert T. Scott, assistant to the attorney general, said it would be the policy of the government not to deal leniently with the fraud cases.

MARION, O., Sept. 2.—Senator Harding

today made two front porch speeches, held several conferences on political issues and campaign management and then attended a baseball game played here as a special compliment to his enthusiasm as a fan.

The Chicago Cubs, brought here by their owners to give the nominee his first glimpse this season of a major league club, defeated an improvised Marion team in an exhibition game, 2 to 1.

Senator Harding pitched the first three balls across the plate and during the game he and Mrs. Harding roared with several thousands of their neighbors for the home team.

Team Work Hoped For.

One of the nominee's speeches was to the Cubs team, which marched to his front porch and presented its compliments through President Veck. In a reply in baseball language, Senator Harding declared his hope in the campaign was to develop team work among the people so that the nation would still fly proudly "the pennant won at home and held respected throughout the world."

The other address was to a delegation of teachers' organizations and was in advocacy of better compensation. He declined, however, to accede to a request made by his callers that he endorse the Smith-Towner bill providing for a federal department of education and larger federal participation in school financing.
