HEALTH BODY PLANNED Officers of Cities of Pacific Coast May Organize. John C. Abele is acting health officer, having been placed in charge of the health bureau by City Commissioner Mann during the absence of

Dr. George Parrish, city health officer, who left Portland Sunday for San Francisco, where he will attend the annual convention of health officers of the United States. Dr. Parrish plans to attempt the formation of an association of health officers of Pacific coast cities. For two months past he has been quietly working to this end, having addressed letters to all the health officials on the coast. Dr. Parrish believes that, inasmuch as the health problems confronting the Pacific coast cities are usually similar, an association composed of the officials of the coast will be extremely valuable.

HARD LUCK LEADS TO JAIL

TWO YOUTHS GET 90 AND 60 DAYS FOR THEFT OF COATS.

Money Lost in Walla Walla Pool Hall Poker Game, Pair Ride Blinds to Portland.

Hard luck and the rainy weather combined brought two boys, Walter Smith, 22, and Fay Scoffer, 20, to grief in municipal court yesterday when they were sentenced by Municipal Judge Rossman to 90 and 60 days respectively for larceny of two overcoats.

The boys told the judge that they had been working in the harvest fields in eastern Oregon and Washington, but while in Walla Walla they sat in on a pool hall poker game which reduced their finances almost to zero. Arriving in Pendleton, their financial straits were such that the older boy, Smith, was forced to sell his only coat to obtain the necessary funds to eat, and when they journeyed to Portland via the "blind baggage" route, Smith was in his shirt sleeves. In Portland, the boys were picked up through the streets penniless and jobless. It was raining, and Smith was coatless. They passed a car parked on Fifth and Stark streets Friday in which reposed two overcoats, the property of C. C. Emil and his son of 852 Kerby street, who were visiting a doctor's office. Smith admitted in court that he had taken the overcoats at that time, but they were not missed by the owners until the next day, when the police were notified.

Both coats have been recovered. One was in a pawnshop and the other was in the hands of Stoffer when he was arrested after visiting several pawnshops, according to the police.

Arguments for and against a change of venue for the trial of the five men charged with the murder of Sheriff Till Taylor, today were heard in Pendleton, Ore., by Circuit Judge Phelps. He is expected to make his decision tomorrow or Wednesday.

Looking up at Head Waiter Balda while at dinner in the restaurant a day or two ago, a guest remarked:

"I've been in many lands and eaten after many cooks but your dinners successfully compete with any of them anywhere. How you can do it for $1 beats me."

This is the testimonial of a man who knows good living—of which eating is such a big part.

NAVY MAY CUT FORCE

Acceptance of Increase in Wage Is Only Way to Prevent Decrease.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 13.—A reduction of 25 per cent in the navy yard forces will be necessary unless the machinists accept the 5 per cent wage increase awarded naval employes, Secretary Daniels said today.

He explained that a lack of funds would make this course imperative. Persia has no distilleries, breweries or saloons, and native wine is the only intoxicating beverage used.

Since that day he has worn glasses and still has far from good eyesight.

The damage was done before he even had a warning.

Those who work indoors under conditions which strain the eyes can often be fitted with glasses which need only be worn at work, thus adding years to the efficiency of the eye.

But it must be done in time. Do not wait for a warning.

We will be glad to make an examination and give you a dependable report on their condition.
