Husband and Wife Affair. "Second—The republican campaign in Maine was a husband and wife affair. Guy Gannet is the national committeeman from that state and his wife is state chairman for the women. There you are—husband and wife entering politics together on the same basis, just as they live in the home. And see what they have done by their united effort. It is just a fine example of the husband and of America in the home. Carrying the home into politics the way it should be carried—that's it.

News Pleases Suffragette. Mrs. Upton was notified over long distance telephone this afternoon that both houses of the Connecticut legis-

both houses of the Connecticut legislature had ratified suffrage, thus making the 37th state to ratify.

Mrs. Upton was deeply pleased with the news. She declared at once that this clinched the 19th amendment.

"This makes the 37th state. Now there is nothing in the way of women
yoting. Had Connecticut not ratified, there would have been some litigavoting. Had Connecticut not ratified, there would have been some litigation, which would not have prevented suffrage but would have caused some trouble and embarrassment. Now the 19th amendment is ratified as certainly as the 14th or 15th or any other amendment to the constitution.

the election in this state.

Throughout the day in Seattle there were lines of voters waiting their turn at the voting machines.

The light democratic vote was not disappointing to democratic leaders, they asserted. George E. Ryan, vice-chairman of the democratic state committee, predicted yesterday that the democrats would not cast more than 25,000 votes in the entire state. than 25,000 votes in the entire state, explaining that as there is only one contest for state nominations many party members would not go to the polls for that fight.

Four years ago the democrats cast

5.562 votes in the primary election, but Ryan insisted there would be a failing off today. When the early reports came in from Scattle and King county polling places, Ryan declared they justified his prediction and had no significance in regard to the November vote. In some city precincts the propor-tion of republican to democratic votes ran as high as 15 to 1.
