Portland's baseball athletes did Portiand's baseball athletes did a little road work on soft-boiled eggs and finecut yesterday and gained enough strength to wander out to the ball yard and trim Sacramento in the initial game of the series, 5 to 6.

It was a case of Southpaw Sam Ross against Kenneth Penner, and Ross demonstrated a marked superiority, both with his tee shots and his short

One of Portland's five runs vesterday was scored in the second inning on a walk to Schaller, an infield out and Kingdon's hit to left. This 1-0 allanment continued until the sixth, when the Beavers sent three scurrying across the plate. Blue's walk, a single by Maisel, Cox's sacrifice and a double to right by Schaller accounted for the first two. Schaller crossed on Koehler's single to right.

"Raw Meat" Bill Rodgers has just been inoculated with oyster glands. Evidently the operation was a success, for Bill never even so much as mewed at the ump, whereas in the old days the Sacramento manager would have been out there trying to commit mayhem.

Pitcher Sylvester Johnson joined the Beavers yesterday and will work in one game this week. Outfielder Barnabe also will be given a chance in right field. Gatewood was turned back to Spokane yesterday, A young pitcher from Yaklma, Valencia, warmed up for the Beavers in his first appearance here. Valencia first appearance here. Valencia comes from the California orange belt, but wasn't quite ripe when he tried out with Los Angeles last year.

The same cablegram contained the statement that Charles Cochran, the London promoter, will have no of Pitcher Moses Yellowhorse to the inning. Penner didn't have so much as a fly speck at which to throw.

His toss hit Sam on the shoulder and caromed off into right field. Ross wound up at second and scored on Blue's single to right.

But Rickard will be a bidder. One may gamble on that. And Jack tearns will do some thinking before he lets Curley go through with his Brooklyn plan.

A Proclamation:

President Wilson said—while we were in the throes of the great war-that there was such a thing as being too proud to fight.

I bore this statement in mind when I answered several of my customers yesterday who asked my salesmen and myself why it was that our goods were not "on sale" as they were in other stores. I said:

"I Feel Too Proud to Put on a Sale"

First: Because my goods are marked right—the lowest. This sayes the bad feeling that often arises through customers paying two prices; that is, by one man paying a big price at "No Sale" quotation to make up the loss on the other fellow who buys at "On Sale" quotation.

Second: I am proud to know that I can run my business flourishingly at the beginning of the fall season without resorting to a "Clearance Sale." I am proud to know that I have the confidence of the people of Portland, who show by their patronage that they believe in me and my upstairs system of trading.

> I am one of the pioneers of the upstairs clothing business. I started on the proverbial shoestring nearly eleven years ago, with a determination to give the people of Portland a square deal.

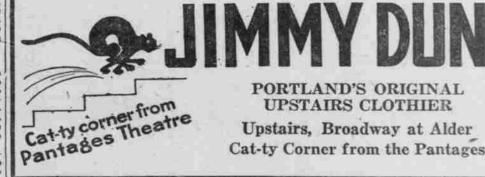

My success is proven by the fact that though I started business in a small back room in the Oregonian building I now need more space, even though I occupy about 70 by 50 feet on the second floor, having a stock room and tailor shop on the third floor, with my private stairway on the ground floor.

A WORD ON CLOTHING PRICES: The downward trend will be slow, owing to many prevailing conditions. When prices drop my upstairs prices will immediately reveal it.
