JOLT TO CANDIDATES

Spirited Contests Staged for Four Offices.

6 SEEK SUPERIOR BENCH

J. O. Blair and George Simpson to Battle Again in November; Johnson Wins Sheriff Race.

VANCOUVER, Wash., Sept. 15.—(Special.)—Today, the first after the primaries, caused many surprises in Clarke county, especially among the candidates for office. There were four offices for which there was spirited contests and it was not until late today that the results could be given with any degree of assurance that they were nearly correct.

The office of superior judge of Clarke county, on the non-partisan judiciary ticket, had six contestants. J. O. Blair was high man with 1410 votes, George Simpson, second, with 1098. These two will fight it out to a finish at the general election. The others in the race were as follows: A. E. Miller, 913; W. W. Sparks, 762; W. E. Yates, now county attorney, 647; and H. W. Arnold, 125.

The contest for sheriff was won by George M. Johnson, incumbent, who will be nominated on the republican ticket to go on the ballot in the general election. Nomination by the republicans here is supposed to assure election. Johnson received 52 of 55 precincts, 3768; W. D. Sappington, 2045; Axel Ober, 125.

The fight for county attorney was won by Joseph Hall, county clerk, who received 189 votes against 1955 by Justice L. Sutherland, county superintendent of schools, was nominated to succeed himself, getting 218 votes to 1818 by W. E. Dudley.

The closest contest here was for county commissioner in the 12th district. Latest unofficial figures give William Paul a lead of seven votes. This may be changed by the official count and it is so close that a recount may be asked. George E. Walter ran third and L. E. Conant fourth for the same office.

Walter A. Schwarz was nominated engineer by receiving as many votes as his two opponents, E. C. Strowbridge and C. O. Dummell, together. M. E. Carson, commissioner for the 17th district, nominating himself; Fred Brooker running second and T. W. Finnegan third.

Frank E. Vaughan won the office of justice of the peace over Cedric (Hap) Miller, overseas veteran. Victor H. Limber was nominated for county coroner over Louis Schlemlein by more than a two-to-one majority. John Schaefer, without opposition, was nominated for county clerk. J. L. Garret, incumbent, county auditor; T. E. Henriksen, incumbent, county treasurer; John G. Williams, incumbent, county assessor.

Vessey Takes Constable Honors. Tom Vessey was nominated as constable over J. A. Walters by almost two-to-one vote. George McCoy was nominated for state senator by more than 100 majority over Henry Craswell. E. W. Ryan and George W. Hopp were nominated for representatives from this county without opposition. Mr. Hopp, editor of the Carmas Post of Camas, is reported to be seriously ill at his home.

The totals for the offices of state have not been tabulated yet, but it is expected they will be tomorrow. CORONER RACE SPLITS COUNTY Contest Bitter in Walla Walla. Sheriff Race Lively Contest.

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Sept. 15.—(Special.)—Republican and democrat candidates nominated tickets yesterday, with the contests centering on the offices of sheriff, commissioner and coroner. The bitterest fight here was made for the coronership. Joe Chamberlain, deputy coroner, defeated Charles Calloway for the nomination on the republican ticket. The democrats were not represented.

For commissioner from the first district E. J. Cantonwine was nominated over three others by a heavy vote on the republican ticket. William Scuthers on the democratic ticket was without competition. Charles J. Springer was nominated by the republicans for sheriff, defeating four others, including David Yates, incumbent, by a heavy vote. Earl K. Melrose defeated Lee Barnes, democrat, by a two to one vote for the nomination.

Others named on the republican ticket without opposition were E. J. Brunton, county clerk; Guy Allen Turner, auditor; E. S. Buffum, treasurer; Earl W. Benson, prosecuting attorney; A. H. Johnson, assessor; Mary Gilliam, school superintendent; E. D. Kennedy, engineer; H. H. Hancock, commissioner third district.

The democrats named Giles C. Callahan for prosecuting attorney. Legislative nominees are: Representatives, 11th district, O. T. Cornwell, senator, 12th district, D. H. Cox, senator, 12th district, W. H. Kirkman, representative, 13th district, N. B. Atkinson and Harry A. Reynolds, representatives.

The democrats named Charles W. Materson, senator from the 12th district, and F. P. Klahr, representative, 15th district. PACIFIC COUNTY GOES HART Lamping Is Second With 394 Against Governor's 1223.

SOUTH BEND, Wash., Sept. 15.—(Special.)—With 12 small precincts to be heard from, 25 precincts of Pacific county give Hart 1223, Lamping 394 and Hartley 254. Jones for senator received 966, Ingalls 143 and Hudson 239. Whitcomb, for state representative, won over Norman by a majority of 899. Whitcomb carried Raymond, which was considered a Norman stronghold, where the latter anticipated the support of the labor vote. The farmers voted heavily against Norman, who planned on their support, presuming they had faith in his non-partisan league tendencies.

McDonald, for sheriff, won over Kniseby by a sweeping majority. Loveland for treasurer won over Fougbe by the largest majority of any of the candidates. Brown, for assessor, won over Knapp by a small majority. Gibbs, for county engineer, won over Macey by a small majority. Morris; sheriff, Elmer Gibson; county attorney, George Acree; judge superior court, Ben Shoeks and George D. Austin; auditor, Miss Ethel Baker; county commissioner, 1st district, W. E. Johnson; county commissioner, 2d district, Will Dineen.

In the 30th district the race between Oliver S. Morris and C. W. McClure for state representative is very close, but Morris is a few votes to the good. In all other instances the leaders are so far ahead there is no doubt of the result.

Thurston County Contest Is Developing Close Vote. OLYMPIA, Wash., Sept. 15.—(Special.)—Late this afternoon Roy C. Hoage, with 1425 votes, and J. T. Endicott, with 1412, were fighting a close battle for sheriff, with only two precincts to hear from. Registration in the two absent precincts ran over 200, but the primary vote was estimated at not more than 150, which is still plenty to make either aspirant loser or winner.

Meanwhile Frank A. Weiler and Fred J. Brown staged another real race for county engineer. Brown counted up to the two last precincts with 1336 and Weiler with 1325, a difference of 11 votes.

Until the final decisive batch of votes is counted Val Milroy is figured 1987 to L. N. Holmes' 1815 for county clerk. For county auditor Harry L. Lewis has been renominated by a large majority over Marie H. Young.

W. C. Salter, for county treasurer, and Roscoe Fullerton, for prosecuting attorney, were without opposition in either party, as was Dr. Kenneth Farrow for coroner. George Gaston received the republican nomination for assessor over W. J. Abbot.

C. L. Carroll for county superintendent defeated G. E. Conn in the republican primary. C. G. Ashpaw and L. W. Hubbard had large majorities over Fred Hudson and Guy R. Taylor, who entered the republican contest for the legislature without previous active participation in republican affairs. Hudson and Taylor are said to have third party sympathy.

Senator P. H. Carlyon was unopposed for the republican nomination for state senator. The democratic vote in the county was negligible. Thurston county gave the republican vote a plurality of about 1700.

CHEHALIS GIVES RETURNS Seven Seek Renomination; Democratic Ticket Incomplete. CHEHALIS, Wash., Sept. 15.—(Special.)—The republican county ticket chosen at the primaries follows: State Senator, H. H. Swoford, Chehalis; sheriff, Frank Roberts; C. S. Cory and W. H. Kenoyer, Chehalis; auditor, Miss Eva Knight; Centralia; clerk, Miss Mary Grimm; Centralia; assessor, Frank Roberts; Chehalis; treasurer, James McClure; Chehalis; assessor, J. H. Leatherwood; Centralia; superintendent, Miss Z. May Meighen, Chehalis; engineer, E. Allen; C. Bechly, Chehalis; attorney, Herman Allen; Chehalis; coroner, David Livingston, Centralia; commissioner, first district, Robert Somerville; third district, not yet known.

Miss Meighen and Miss Knight, and Mr. McClure, Mr. Leatherwood, Mr. Beachley, Mr. Allen and Mr. Somerville are incumbents, while Mr. Roberts is a deputy sheriff. Mr. Swoford was member of the house last term and Mr. Kenoyer was a former house member.

Owing to the fact that few candidates had been nominated, their county ticket is incomplete, the following being the only regularly-chosen candidates: J. J. Scollard, senator, Chehalis; J. H. Roberts, representative, Centralia; A. C. Hughes, sheriff, Centralia; Albert Buxton, assessor, Centralia.

Fifty precincts out of 78 give: W. A. Reynolds, judge, for renomination, a total of 2318 votes; J. E. Willis 1583; G. L. Thacker 1566. Reynolds is expected to lead in the final. Defeat of J. S. Siler, democrat, claimed eastern Lewis county's vote, with the result that he lost by a shade to a second Chehalis man. Senator Jones has 2300 votes in the 50 precincts to 846 for Ingalls. Hart for governor, has 2177, Hartley 976.

Results of County Republican Primary Election Announced. ABERDEEN, Wash., Sept. 15.—(Special.)—The following county republican ticket was nominated at the primaries today: Representatives, 25th district, H. B. Dollar and Yarde Stieglitz; representative, 30th district, Oliver S. Morris; sheriff, Elmer Gibson; county attorney, George Acree; judge superior court, Ben Shoeks and George D. Abel; county clerk, Miss Bessie Daws; county treasurer, Miss Olive France Dunning; superintendent of schools, Miss Geneva Johnson; coroner, Dr. O. R. Austin; auditor, Miss Ethel Baker; county commissioner, 1st district, W. E. Johnson; county commissioner, 2d district, Will Dineen.

party, 200 in number, gathered in Montesano yesterday and after listening to many speeches, nominated a complete county ticket, excepting for county clerk and justice of the peace, for Cosmopolis. Harry Livermore was nominated for representative from the Hoquiam district.

JONES AND HART LEAD (Continued From First Page.) was as follows: Tolman 71,952, Holcomb 68,654, Bridges 65,422, Beale 51,998.

The only contest in the democratic primaries was for the gubernatorial nomination. Four candidates entered this race—A. E. Judd of Chehalis, who was backed by the old lister faction; E. T. Mathes, mayor of Bellingham; Judge W. W. Black of Everett, and J. G. O'Hara of Seattle. Black and Mathes are having a close race in the full precincts reported. The vote stands: Black 2544, Mathes 2969, Judd 1752, O'Hara 886.

A large vote was cast in the state, the heavier balloting coming late in the day, particularly in the city precincts. As always heretofore in a primary election in this state and as predicted again this year, the republican vote far exceeded the democratic.

Official returns from 350 precincts out of 393 in King county show that eight of the nine judges of the superior court received more than half of the total vote cast for judges in Tuesday's primaries and therefore will be unopposed in the November election. The successful aspirants are Judge J. T. Ronald, Judge King Dykeman, Judge A. W. Frazer, Judge Hoyd J. Tallman, Judge Mitchell Gilting, Otis W. Brinker, Austin E. Griffiths and Judge Calvin S. Hall, their vote standing in the order of their names.
