Official Action Is Held Impossible.

CONFERENCE SERIES HELD

Nominee Discusses Financial and Other Issues, Asking Co-operation of Business.

MARION, O., Sept. 23.—Senator Harding, setting forth his views on the Irish problem for the first time since his nomination, declared in a statement today that it was "not a question for official America" and would be classed as "internal and domestic" under the league of nations. He did not state specifically what his policy would be if elected president, but he suggested that the nation "already had" "mediated abroad peacefully" and that official action by the Washington government would be quite a different thing from an expression of sympathy, such as the senate adopted more than a year ago.

ROBBER APPEALS TERM

SUPREME COURT HEARS CASE OF LARK EVANS.

Woman Accomplice, Alleged to Be
His Wife, Is in Custody

SALEM, Or., Sept. 23.—(Special.)—The Oregon supreme court today heard arguments in the appeal case of Lark Evans, who is under sentence of from one to 15 years in the state penitentiary, following conviction in the Jackson county circuit court on a charge of attack and robbery on the person of William White Evans, now in jail at Jacksonville, pending disposition of the appeal.

The motion picture before the supreme court tended to show that White was operating a for-hire car at Grants Pass, and on September 13, 1919, was engaged by Evans to drive the latter to a point a short distance from the city, acting under Evans' instructions White stopped the car near depot, from where a woman emerged and entered the machine. Evans then drove to the depot and returned about three miles from Grants Pass.

Arriving there, the prosecution alleged that White halted his car whereupon he was covered with a revolver in the hands of Evans. Evans then allegedly relieved White of $27. White later was ordered to drive to a secluded spot some distance from Jacksonville, where he was made to get out of the machine. Evans then tied and gagged his victim and made away with the machine.

Evans was afterward arrested at Klamath Falls and returned to Jacksonville, where he was tried and convicted.

The woman, who Evans alleged was his wife, is under arrest but has not yet been tried.

EDITOR DACKING COX EXEMPTED IN DRAFT

Governor's Aid in Evading
Service Is Charged.

R. P. SCRIPPS ON STAND

Complete Responsibility for Editorial
Policy of String of Newspapers Is Assumed.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 23.—Charges that Governor Cox urged draft exemption for one of the two sons of E. C. Scripps, head of a chain of newspapers and that government employees went to San Francisco at public expense at the time of the denational convention were inquired into today by the senate committee investigating campaign expenditures.

Robert H. Scripps, one of the two brothers mentioned in the draft exemption charges, told the committee that beyond recently published reports he knew nothing of any interest shown by Governor Cox in behalf of himself or his brother during operation of the draft. He acknowledged that the newspaper enterprise association, which he said was an "called organization" of the United Press news service, which he called his father owned the majority stock, had sent out Cox propaganda sheets along with its news matter to 70 newspapers.

Travel Inquiry Is Made.

The inquiry into alleged travel of government employees at government expense to San Francisco will be pursued by the committee, which called the records from the departments of justice and agriculture to show what employees had gone to San Francisco and how their expenses were paid by the government. Several vouchers showing such trips were examined today by the committee. Scripps said that all departments of the government might be called on for information of this character.

Do you know of any trips by officials of other departments, the navy for instance?" the chairman asked.

"No," said Scripps, who had presented vouchers of Frank K. Nebecker and R. H. Stewart, assistant attorney-general, and George M. Monroe, an examiner of titles, whose expenses he had not covered.

"Were there any official meetings held on the San Francisco trip?" the chairman asked.

"No," he answered, "there were none."

List of All Vouchers Asked.

Fees were directed to supply by Saturday a list of all employees of the department of justice who had turned in vouchers covering trips to San Francisco during the convention period and also any voucher submitted by Attorney-general Palmer himself.

Several vouchers showing such trips were examined today by the committee. Scripps said that all departments of the government might be called on for information of this character.

"No," said Scripps, who had presented vouchers of Frank K. Nebecker and R. H. Stewart, assistant attorney-general, and George M. Monroe, an examiner of titles, whose expenses he had not covered.

"Were there any official meetings held on the San Francisco trip?" the chairman asked.

"No," he answered, "there were none."

TRIP IS DISCUSSED.

To further questions he said that Attorney-general Palmer's campaign for the democratic presidential nomination and the fact that the democratic convention was held in San Francisco, were also made the trip, the witness said.

"Did they need two assistants out there?" asked Chairman Kenyon.

"The chairman asked they needed more than that," remarked Senator Reed.

Chairman Kenyon read from voucher lists names of department of justice employees who went to San Francisco about the time that Talbot, who described himself as a "letter writer" for the committee, denied use of any special form of letter for postmaster's stamps.

LETTERS SENT TO OFFICIALS' HOMES.

"If they got letters, it was just as other Democrats got them," he said, and added that because of postal regulations, letters of solicitation addressed to federal officers had been marked for delivery to home addresses.

"The maximum sum asked in any letter was $1000," Talbot said, and he thought about $200,000 had been subscribed as a result of this solicitation.

The committee's guns were also brought to bear on charges that federal publications had been used for democratic political propaganda purposes.

P. P. Claxton, head of the federal bureau of education, insisted that the bureau's semi-monthly paper, "School Life," had been conducted in a non-partisan spirit under his administration. He declared, however, that articles appearing in "School Service," a larger publication, published by his bureau from the former committee on public information and since suspended for lack of funds, were apparently intended to support the league of nations, but said the paper was not directly in control of the bureau.

BARNES' RECORDS ORDERED.

The committee today decided to order William Barnes Jr., New York, to produce subscription lists and other papers connected with publication of his book, "Republicanism in 1920."

He had protested that this was a private enterprise, but was overruled. Barnes obtained from his office at Albany a report showing that the total gross returns from subscriptions for the book was $72,675, of which the solicitors were to get from 50 to 55 per cent as commission.

During the quiz of Mr. Scripps, Senator Kenyon asked: "In sending out these you are carrying on propaganda for Governor Cox?"

"Yes," replied the witness.

"Are you receiving any money from the democratic national committee for this?"

"None."

"Doing it at your own expense as part of your campaign for Governor Cox?"

"That is right."

Oligarchy Editorials Read.

Chairman Kenyon read from the pink sheets editorials about the "senate oligarchy."

"Which you would tell us about this oligarchy," said Senator Reed, democrat, Missouri.

"Most of the newspapers using the term refer to senators Penrose, Smoot, Lodge and others," Mr. Scripps replied.

"That's a wide term—others," said Senator Reed. "Who do they mean?"

"They are supposed to boss the senate."

"A man who says that doesn't know about the senate," said Senator Reed. "I think it means they control the republican party," Mr. Scripps continued.

"I just want to say that I consider this talk about 'senate oligarchy' as rot, whether it comes from presidential candidates or not," said Senator Reed.

Questioned by Chairman Kenyon, Mr. Scripps said the pink sheets were going to 70 newspapers and were graded after he had sent about ten days in camp. He added he did not know that the president had personally acted in the case, merely that Scripps said he was made editorial director of the Scripps publications in a few weeks after the United States entered the war and that he was married.

"Think it is more important to do something like this in the public interest than to go out and shoulder a gun?" asked Senator Kenyon.

"I do," Mr. Scripps said.

Exemption Declared Withdrawn.

He added that he had withdrawn exemption claims after being sent to camp during the war and that he stayed there until he fully knew an appeal had been taken.

"Do you remember whether this exemption matter ever came to the attention personally of the president?" inquired Senator Pomeroy, democrat.

"I do not," Mr. Scripps said.

Mr. Scripps was followed by Don C. Peden, an employee of the department of justice in charge of expense accounts and vouchers, who produced certain expense accounts filed by days and months for July and August. Two of them showed that Frank K. Nebecker, assistant attorney-general, had a $1000 expense account government account, arriving July 20 and leaving July 7.

DEBONAIR CAPTAIN ACCUSED OF FRAUD

Adventurous Globe Trotter
Brought From Alaska.

LONG WAR RECORD GIVEN

Charles A. Morgan Declares Arrest
All Mistake—U. S. Commission
Won After Canadian Service.

SEATTLE, WASH., Sept. 23.—Charles A. Morgan, captain, debonair globe trotter and professed former member of "Perahing's Own" regiment and hero of Ypres, Vimy Ridge, Cantigny, Chateau-Thierry and other engagements, was brought to Seattle from Central Alaska late last night charged with embezzlement and obtaining money under false pretenses. He was started for Washington, D. C., at 10 o'clock this morning in custody of L. T. Erwin, United States marshal at Fairbanks, Alaska, to answer a charge brought by the Riggs National bank involving a check for $415.

Captain Morgan was arrested at Nenana canyon, 100 miles from Fairbanks, where he was serving as an engineer in the Alaska Engineering Commission. He was brought here by Deputy Marshal S. James Hagen and John Wood.

Arrest Declared Mistake.

"It's all a mistake," Captain Morgan said today at the city jail where he spent the night. "I've heard of the Riggs National bank, but I've never written a check on it in my life."

Captain Morgan said he did not know anything about the embezzlement charge, except that it is mentioned on the warrant for his arrest. He asserted the preliminary hearing would establish his innocence and bring his immediate release.

Captain Morgan didn't appear worried over the charges. He is a tall, broad-shouldered man of 37, clean shaven, with jet-black hair and brown eyes. He had smiled as he commented on the warrant for his arrest.

"I am a wandering locating engineer," he remarked, "and graduated from Boston Tech (Massachusetts Institute of Technology) in 1912, and he enlisted in the Canadian army as a private March 13, 1915, overseas with the machine gun section of the eighth battalion, known as the 'Little Black Devils' April 2, 1915. He was commissioned a second lieutenant in July, 1915. He was wounded three times while with the Canadians, with whom he participated in the battles of Ypres, Vimy Ridge, Messines Ridge and Somme. He was invalided home February 17, 1917, suffering from gas and a fractured rib from a bayonet wound through the right lung and below the left eye. He was discharged at Halifax April 19, 1917.

U. S. Captaincy Is Won.

On May 14, 1917, Morgan went to the first American officers' training camp at Fort Myers, Va., where he was commissioned a captain. He joined company A, 1st machine gun battalion, 8th division, soon afterwards he was sent overseas as one of 17 officers formerly serving with British or Canadian armies, in an instructor. They opened a machine gun school at Laugres, France, where Captain Morgan stayed until the opening of the battle of Cantigny, some two months later. He participated in this action with the 1st Division.

Morgan was wounded at 10:50 o'clock the morning of November 11, 1918, he said, 10 minutes before the armistice was scheduled to go into effect. Following his discharge from the hospital he was selected to serve in the 1st composite regiment, Perahing's Own. He came home

But it is equally true that we must awaken the conscience of American business to new interest in the welfare of American human beings. It is not enough for America that her business and commerce shall be honest; they must also be humane. Men, women and children of America are not commodities.

SALEM, Or., Sept. 23.—(Special.)—The Oregon supreme court today heard arguments in the appeal case of Lark Evans, who is under sentence of from one to 15 years in the state penitentiary, following conviction in the Jackson county circuit court on a charge of attack and robbery on the person of William White Evans, now in jail at Jacksonville, pending disposition of the appeal.

The motion picture before the supreme court tended to show that White was operating a for-hire car at Grants Pass, and on September 13, 1919, was engaged by Evans to drive the latter to a point a short distance from the city, acting under Evans' instructions White stopped the car near depot, from where a woman emerged and entered the machine. Evans then drove to the depot and returned about three miles from Grants Pass.

Arriving there, the prosecution alleged that White halted his car whereupon he was covered with a revolver in the hands of Evans. Evans then allegedly relieved White of $27. White later was ordered to drive to a secluded spot some distance from Jacksonville, where he was made to get out of the machine. Evans then tied and gagged his victim and made away with the machine.

Evans was afterward arrested at Klamath Falls and returned to Jacksonville, where he was tried and convicted.

The woman, who Evans alleged was his wife, is under arrest but has not yet been tried.
