

NOMINATION PAPERS FILED BY KELLAHER

Four Aspirants Now in Race for Mayoralty.

PLATFORM IS NOT READY

Ex-Senator and ex-Member of City Commission Declares Statement Will Be Made.

Dan Kellaheer, ex-member of the state senate and later a member of the city commission, yesterday filed nomination papers for mayor with City Auditor Funk.

Mr. Kellaheer did not issue a formal statement announcing his candidacy, but said that it would be presented to the voters within a few days. When pressed for some idea of the platform he would use in his campaign Mr. Kellaheer stated that this would come when the "fireworks" began.

Filing of the nomination petitions by Mr. Kellaheer placed four men in the race for the office of chief executive of this city.

They are Mayor Baker, Herbert Gordon, Mr. Kellaheer and Norman S. Richards.

Kellaheer in City Council. Among those who attended petitions for Mr. Kellaheer's entrance into the mayoralty campaign were Henry E. McGinn, W. S. U'Ren, Thomas Mannix, W. H. Fitzgerald, copy editor and commissioner of the state of Oregon, and P. J. Hanley, an employment agent. A large number of the signers are either owners or employees of the employment agencies in the north end of the city.

Mr. Kellaheer was appointed to a seat in the city council to succeed George L. Baker, when he was elected mayor. Mr. Kellaheer was a candidate for commissioner in this election and was the highest man in the losers' list. He was succeeded by Dr. T. L. Perkins, who is now a candidate for city commissioner, and who served for a short term which covered the period between the time that S. C. Picard was elected as city commissioner and the time that he qualified.

Kellaheer fights for seat. Mr. Kellaheer was not content with the verdict of the voters on this occasion and used various methods, including a suit in the courts which proved unsuccessful in an effort to hold his seat on the city commission. For more than two months he attended all meetings of the city council with Dr. Perkins and the votes of both men were recorded on all business.

During the last year or so Mr. Kellaheer has been employed as secretary of the employment bureau of the Knights of Columbus and has also been in charge of the sale of bonds issued by the "Irish Republic" in the Portland district.

GEORGE WALSH works so fast in "Sink or Swim," the production which will open today at the Peoples theater, that several titled conspirators never seem to be able to get their plots against a princess well under way. "Sink or Swim" is said to be a whirlwind play, and Walsh, according to pre-viewers, keeps the action going so fast that before his big audiences were finished laughing at one incident they were howling at another. Walsh, as Dick Mason, is the son of a rich man and therefore shuns work; but his father believes if he sends Dick to Europe to take care of a cattle concession the youngster will come back a "regular" man.

Madge Kennedy's latest picture, which will follow "Sink or Swim," coming to the Peoples theater on Wednesday, is "Dollars and Sense," a screen version of the Saturday Evening Post story by Octavus Roy Cohen. Miss Kennedy plays the part of Hazel Farron, a chorus girl who is anxious to become a Broadway favorite.

Through her friend, Daisy Van Ness, another chorus girl, she meets a wealthy stage door Johnnie, Geoffrey cash.

BUILDING MATERIAL COST REMAINS HIGH

Normal Prices to Absorb 15 Years in Returning.

PRODUCTION IS LOW

N. J. Upham Sums Up Situation in Realty Circles at Meeting of Local Board.

"In spite of occasional brief reactions, building costs cannot commence to decline permanently for several years, and when the permanent decline starts it will be gradual and slow for 15 years or more, notwithstanding that meanwhile most other commodities will have shown a heavy decline."

Mr. N. J. Upham of Duluth, president of the International Realty associates, summed up the building situation yesterday noon in speaking before the Portland Realty board, at the regular weekly luncheon and meeting. Mr. Upham, whose company owns and has developed Westover terraces here, is in Portland on a business visit.

"The public has persistently believed," said Mr. Upham, who was the principal speaker, "that building costs would decline yet until the present moment they have seen prices go higher and higher. Last year's advance was caused on less than a normal year's construction. We must soon build a normal year's construction and soon start to overtake delays in business property in most of our cities and very sharp advances in houses. In about 10 per cent of our cities and very sharp advances in houses. In about 10 per cent of our cities and very sharp advances in houses. In about 10 per cent of our cities and very sharp advances in houses."

Building Now Profitable. In spite of the fact that construction will continue high and will gradually decrease in his opinion, Mr. Upham declared that building at this time would be a profitable investment because of the tremendous shortage of houses. Regarding real estate activity the speaker said: "Real estate activity has temporarily been retarded by restriction of bank credit and the reluctance of people to believe in continued high building costs. Both influences will gradually disappear. Already the signs indicate real estate activity in our cities. Investigation shows that there has been a substantial advance in business property in most of our cities and very sharp advances in houses. In about 10 per cent of our cities and very sharp advances in houses. In about 10 per cent of our cities and very sharp advances in houses."

Screen Gossip. "The Old Swimming Hole," immortalized by James Whitcomb Riley, is to be Charles Ray's next picture. Considerable acreage, with a river, has been leased, and the carpenters are busy bringing to life the water mill, and other structures depicted in this poetic gem by the Hoosier poet. No expense will be spared by Ray's producers in duplicating the exact locale made famous by the author.

Seneca Owen, who has one of the principal roles in "Lavender and Old Lace," now being filmed, was chatting with her director, Lloyd Ingraham. "This is a hard, hard world," remarked the director. "Yes, but do you know why?" asked the film star.

"All the soft jobs are taken," answered Miss Owen.

The present high cost of eggs means nothing in the life of Tom Satchel, whose diversion, and a profitable one, is raising chickens. He has several hundred hens that lay on an average 200 eggs a day. With eggs retailing at 7 cents each one can readily see where each cluck-cluck means cash-cash.

What They Read in the Klondike

By Mrs. Helen Green Van Campen, Author "Behind the Scenes," etc. In the Morning Telegraph, New York

"Every one wishes to hear about what is going on in the wide world, and you will be interested to know what is our most popular publication in the Northland. It is THE LITERARY DIGEST.

"I was out in the wild country looking over a mining prospect, and while on the move toward my destination, an old miner ran out from his shack and bid us stop. He said, 'GOT A LITERARY DIGEST for me?' I talked with him and he said he wanted THE LITERARY DIGEST because it told him about what was going on in the world—everywhere. He got his news in condensed form and liked it that way. I have since investigated and have found that virtually everyone up here looks to THE LITERARY DIGEST to tell them things. Not everyone takes the publication, of course, but when a man reads it he saves it and passes it on to a neighbor, who passes it along in the same fashion.

"Then he gives it to another old-timer, who sit down to read his LITERARY DIGEST. It is a serious matter with him; he does not merely skim through it; he reads it carefully, advertisements and all, like old man Jucklin did his Bible—from kivver to kivver."

"Then he gives it to another old-timer who also reads it from start to finish. Afterwards they light their pipes and engage in debate on the topics they have been reading about.

"And I, even I, have got the habit, too. Please mail a LITERARY DIGEST to me every week if you can think to do it."
