L. H. Van Winkle, appointed by Governor O'Connell to succeed Attorney-General Brown, has let it be known that he will make an active campaign for the office. J. O. Bailey, assistant attorney-general under Mr. Brown and a vice candidate last year, resigned his position and already has started an active campaign for the office. Joseph A. Benjamin, also an assistant in the offices of the attorney-general, is said to have informed friends that he, too, is considering the opportunity to get into the race.

J. J. Johnson of Multnomah county has long wanted to be attorney-general, according to word reaching Salem, and it was predicted here today that he would make his formal announcement within the next two or three days. Mr. Johnson once made the race for attorney-general as a Grange candidate, but was defeated in the primary election.
