In its essential details, the four-ption bonus bill of the American Legion meets with my approval and it is my belief that it will pass the senate at the coming session without many modifications," Senator Chamberiain declared, speaking on a sub-ject near to the heart of the legion-naires. "It will pass if men of the American Legion will do what Mayor Baker says—get behind it. The four million ex-service men in the United States hold the balance of power.

"If a thing is worth having you must fight for it. Select some good legionasires to keep their eyes on the gun all the time at Washington. Send back representatives to congress who are in favor of your legis-lation and you will get it through." Senator Chamberlain told of some of his activities as the head of the enate committee on military affairs lying a resume of his fight for betin France and for the release of mil. tary prisoners in federal peniten-Baker In Declared Unfit.

Rousing cheers from 700 veterans present greeted his negative refer-ence to Secretary of War Baker.

"I won't say anything about the secretary of war. I guess," declared the senator, smiling. Then his jaw shot out, slightly. "But I haven't been afraid to say things."

When the din subsided a bit, the senator decided to war a bit further. senator decided to go a bit further. "He's a good fellow," he praised, faintly. "He's all right as a gentle-

George H. Albright, Ticket Seller, Held Up at Early Morning Hour, and $34.90 Taken.

VANCOUVER, Wash., Oct. 4 .- (Spe clal.)—A robber held up George H.
Albright, ticket seller on the Oregon end of the Columbia river interstate bridge at 1:35 o'clock this morning and took $34.90. A man driving a machine passed a few minutes later and paid his money for his ticket, but Mr. Albright was somewhat excited and failed to give a ticket. When the man reached the ticket-taker on the draw span he was held up until Mr. Albright could be telephoned. He said that he got the money for the machine all right, so the man was permitted to go. Mr. Albright said that he had been held up and help was sent him at once.
