We shall do that, whatever comes out in the trial. The work of the Near East relief is too vital to permit any consideration whatever to keep the facts hidden. "Against these charges, brought by men on trial for the offense of stealing the milk of starving babies, the Near East relief sets the work which it has accomplished and is now accomplishing: 54,600 little children here. Japan's representative already is hore complishing: 54.690 little children housed, clothed and fed; 56.032 children fed daily, while in the care of their families; 651.970 adults furnished the food relief that has kept them alive for the past two years; 63 hospitals with 6522 beds, constantly full; 128 clinics at which all those who apply are given medical treatment; 11 homes for girls rescued from Turkish harems and 229 orphanages scattered over a territory of more than 800.000 square miles, in which 558 American men and women are giving their lives to the salvaging of a nation.

"In comparison with this immense work now being conducted by the Near East relief the charges of extravagance brought by these men on trial affect the barest fraction of a percent of our total operations. The record speaks for itself."
