

BETTER TEETH FOR CHILDREN ASSURED

Much Expected of Portable Dental Clinic.

SERVICE IS FREE TO ALL

Great Benefit to Youngsters of Portland Promised by Junior Red Cross Enterprise.

Free dental service for all children in the Portland schools who desire now is furnished by the portable dental clinic, which has started on the rounds of the schools of the city.

The three portable outfits, each consisting of a dentist's chair and all the necessary instruments, all present are installed in the Stephens, Portsmouth and Lents schools.

"The dental clinic is a conspicuous feature of the dental program of this year," said Mrs. Blumauer yesterday, "and we consider it very important. If so much ill health is due to bad condition of the teeth, as so many doctors tell us, the immediate effect on the children should be beneficial."

"We have started a movement which we believe will be a saving to the taxpayers as well as a great help to the children themselves. If the only thing we accomplish is to teach children the sanitary care of their teeth it will be worth while."

The preliminary work of the first examination is done by the nurse, who assists the doctor in his work. She lines up the children and without the use of any instruments, determines the condition of the child's teeth. Then when the dentist comes the children who need his attention are ready.

Service Not Compulsory. "I hope it will be understood that nothing is compulsory about this," said Mrs. Blumauer, "if the children do not wish to have their teeth treated, they do not have to. Everything in connection with it is voluntary."

The school children through their paper drive this week are expected to raise part of the money needed to pay for dental equipment used in the clinics. Membership dues in the Junior Red Cross association also will assist in meeting these expenses.

The dental association through its committee, Dr. C. M. Harrison, Dr. Clarence Jones and Dr. Millard Holbrook, is helping to organize the dental work in the schools. The committee visited the three schools in which the work was started Monday and will meet frequently with the dentists who are serving in the schools.

Free dental service already is being given by the clinics in the City Hall and Neighborhood house, which will care for the children from the Fair St. Shattuck, Holman, Ladd and Couch schools.

BANK'S NEW HOME MODEL

LUMBERMEN'S TRUST COMPANY IS CONGRATULATED.

Bouquets and Baskets of Flowers in Evidence Carry Compliments of Scores of Citizens.

On the flower-decked desk of John A. Keating, president of the Lumbermen's Trust company, a stack of telegrams rested yesterday, drawn from every financial center in the country. They were messages of congratulation to the company over its entrance into the new and thoroughly modern quarters it now occupies in the Artisans' building, where the entire lower floor is bright with the splendid fixtures that signalize the change of location.

Yesterday and Monday were opening days for the Lumbermen's Trust company in its new quarters and other financial institutions of Portland expressed their good will with flowers—big baskets and bouquets carrying the compliments of scores. Hundreds of patrons of the company, together with a strong tide of the quixotic general public, have visited the new quarters, which are held to be examples of the last word in convenience and simple decorative effect.

The public lobby is 56 by 27 feet. At the right of the entrance on Broadway are the banking windows, to accommodate the new department inaugurated by the trust company. The bank and trust department occupies the space along the Oak street side of the ground floor, with the bond cages at the rear. The floor is of Napoleon gray marble, while the counters and cages are of Taverne marble. Many modern features, such as the huge vault, with microphone protection against burglary, and the company's private printing plant are noteworthy in the equipment.

Arson Feature in Parade Starts Merry Rumpus.

Proposed "Stunt" With Convict Uniform Stirs Governor and Is Soft Pedaled.

CONCESSION OF one of the feature "stunts" planned in connection with the fire-prevention parade scheduled next Saturday in Portland brought no end of grief to members of the fire-prevention parade committee, of which Aaron Frank is chairman.

Announcement was made that convicts serving time in the Oregon penitentiary for arson would be used in the parade as horrible examples for any person who might have any ideas of purposely setting a fire.

But the committee had no idea of

FIRE TRAPS PROTESTED

COUNCIL PLANS TO PROTECT PEOPLE AGAINST MENACE.

Elevator Shafts, Stairways, Light Wells and Dumb Waiters in Dwellings to Be Enclosed.

Several amendments to the proposed fire ordinance, now under consideration by the city council, have been presented to City Commissioner Barber by the Oregon chapter of the American Institute of Architects.

The ordinance, drafted under the direction of Fire Marshal Grenfell and Chief Building Inspector Plummer, if adopted, would require fire-proof enclosures of all elevator shafts, stairways, light wells and dumb waiters in all apartment houses, hotels and lodging houses. The amendments, presented by H. A. Whitney, representing the Oregon chapter, would permit present installations to stand, even though they were not constructed of fire-proof material. These amendments will be presented to the council tomorrow for preliminary consideration.

"Many of the light wells, stairways and dumb waiters in the hotels and lodging houses," said Mr. Whitney, "are constructed of lath and plaster. The purpose of the proposed ordinance is to eliminate draughts which permit fire to spread and cut off escape from the building."

"Inclosures, even if constructed of lath and plaster, will cut off draught until such time as guests in the hotels can make their way from the building."

"The architects, in considering the proposed legislation, felt that all unnecessary expense should be eliminated, although they also feel that every step should be taken to protect lives."

It is expected the final draft of the ordinance will be considered by the council a week from today.

POLICEWOMAN IS GUARDED

PROTECTION OF HOME OF MRS. TURNER ORDERED.

Loitering About House Believed to Be Result of Arrests of Two Men.

Chief of Police Jenkins last night ordered patrolmen to guard the home of Mrs. Carrie Turner, an operative of the women's protective bureau, as a result of reports that two men had been loitering around the neighborhood and frightening her.

Mrs. Turner arrested two men on a statutory charge last week, and the police believe that either they or their friends are planning revenge on the policewoman.

The presence of the prowlers was first discovered Sunday at 2 A. M. when Patrolman Reed arrested Rialto Lozenzo and Pietro Calcagno at Kirby and Mason streets, a few doors from Mrs. Turner's home at 891 Kirby street. The policeman did not know that Mrs. Turner was being annoyed, and the court, and as far as the issue is concerned the case is ended.

Several other counties were interested in the case, and they have voted bonds under the same ruling as Clackamas county, some of them even issuing and spending them.

Under the laws of 1913, a county was given authority to issue bonds for 2 per cent of the county's assessed valuation, and in 1919 a constitutional amendment was passed whereby a county could vote bonds up to 6 per cent of its assessed valuation.

The 5 per cent bonds were voted in this county, but before they were issued the question of their validity was taken to the supreme court, and the court ruled a county could not issue bonds up to 6 per cent under the machinery used for the 2 per cent bonds. The court ruled that it would be necessary for the legislature to pass additional legislation to float these new bonds.

The $1,700,000 bond issue was for hard-surface roads in Clackamas county, and the ruling of the supreme court put a stop to much of the work contemplated here this year.

In order to procure this money for roads it will be necessary for the legislature to make the necessary laws and for the people to vote on the bond issue again.

REPUBLICAN SENATE IS HELD VITAL NEED

Western Campaign Official Issues Statement.

WIDE OPTIMISM SEEN

John T. Adams Declares Majority of 12 Votes Should Be Obtained by Party.

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 5.—(Special.)—John T. Adams, vice-president of the republican national committee in charge of the western headquarters, today made the following statement of the senatorial situation: "The selection of a republican senate is almost as vital as the election of a republican president."

"If we are to have a real republican administration, we have got to have a majority of at least 12 such a majority cannot be had without the republicans in every state in the north, west and east, where senators will be elected this year, as well as the states bordering the solid south, work in the remaining weeks of the campaign as they have not worked since the Chicago convention."

Optimism Reported Everywhere. "Republicans everywhere are optimistic; the reasons for the optimism should be capitalized, not neglected. Any republican can visualize the situation Mr. Harding would face if he would be compelled to deal with a senate almost evenly divided."

"The issues before the senate will be tremendous. The ending of the war conditions, the question of a league of nations, the whole tax policy of the administration, the merchant marine, the tariff and a hundred other grave problems can be solved rightly only with the aid of the senate."

"The senate must be safely republican to solve them properly. To realize this one must consider the case of Senator Lenroot as an illustration."

Lenroot Type Held Needed. "The nation cannot afford to lose the services of Senator Lenroot. Senator Lenroot is not Wisconsin's asset alone. He is the nation's asset. Men like Lenroot, of great constructive ability, trained to legislative expertise and even-tempered, will be needed in the senate of the United States for a number of years to come."

"He is a republican and the republicans must have him. He is a liberal statesman who serves America and all the people first, last and all the time."

"Now Senator Lenroot is just one of the several eminent senators here in the middle west that the Harding administration must have. Their election is a necessity for country and party, and this necessarily ought to be pressed home on every voter at this time."

"It is as necessary that the senate be republican as it is that Mr. Harding be elected, as he will be by the greatest popular vote ever given any man for the highest office in the land. Let our aim be to make the senatorial contests as important as the contest for the presidency."

BOND REHEARING DENIED

SUPREME COURT PUTS END TO CLACKAMAS CASE.

Suit Involving $1,700,000 Highway Issue Affects Other Counties That Have Spent Funds.

OREGON CITY, Oct. 5.—The supreme court of Oregon has overruled a motion of Clackamas county asking a rehearing on the $1,700,000 bond issue which was declared invalid in a decision of the court, and as far as the issue is concerned the case is ended.

Several other counties were interested in the case, and they have voted bonds under the same ruling as Clackamas county, some of them even issuing and spending them.

Under the laws of 1913, a county was given authority to issue bonds for 2 per cent of the county's assessed valuation, and in 1919 a constitutional amendment was passed whereby a county could vote bonds up to 6 per cent of its assessed valuation.
