

KELLAHER PROMISES 5-CENT CARFARES

Candidate Says He'll Improve
Telephone Service.

ECONOMY ANOTHER AIM

Meddling With Legitimate Control of Citizen Over Business or Property Is Opposed.

Dan Kellahe, candidate for mayor, issued a statement yesterday in which he said he intended to re-establish the 5-cent car fare, abolish everything in the machinery of government except the essentials, obtain courteous and efficient telephone service and oppose meddling with the legitimate control of a citizen over his business or property. Mr. Kellahe's statement, in full, follows:

I have decided to present myself as a candidate for the office of mayor of Portland. In doing so I deem it proper to present, in the principal outline, my conception of the needs of the city in the administration of this office and an impersonal criticism of what seems to me the shortcomings and omissions of the present regime.

These, to my mind, are serious, and would be, if permanent, intolerable; they are not compensated by the forensic charm of the present incumbent of the office. The city government has hitherto consisted, behind the beaming person of the mayor, of the impossible but irresistible influence of the local power and traction company and its correlated interests.

Fare Contract Cited.
This condition manifested itself when the contract for a 5-cent fare between the city and its people on the one side and the power company and its foreign interest holders on the other, was abrogated with the consent of the representatives of the people in the city hall disguised by a thin and transparent show of legal resistance.

My purpose is, when elected, to hold the company to its contract, its city to its rights, the public service commission to a verified statement of the positive actual cost of the company's plan and the courts to a constitutional interpretation of the validity of contracts, and this contract in particular. I believe that there is a way to reduce the fare to the legal and contracted sum of 5 cents, and I shall seek that way.

Enemy of Fads.
I declare myself, broadly speaking, the enemy of fads, of over-government, of meddling with the legitimate control of the citizen over his business and his property. I stand for retrenchment, defining for myself and for this occasion this well-worn phrase as meaning that I shall abolish everything in the machinery of the government except what is necessary for the observance of the law, the security of property and the conduct of the proper administrative and fiscal activities of the city. On the other hand, I shall endeavor to achieve economy by demanding greater efficiency from the individual servant of the city in whatever capacity and wherever his service seems to grade below that which is demanded in private service of the highest order, there I shall effect a betterment of a change.

Next to the power and traction company, the telephone monopoly is the most oppressive in the city. It collects a charge far in excess of the cost plus reasonable profit on the value of its equipment, which is all it is entitled to, as the use of the streets was a gift to it by the people. I shall make this concern render courteous and efficient service on the basis of compensation outlined above if not prevented by the council or the courts, and if prevented I shall name the opposing forces so that the people may not understand in their own interest thereafter.

Industry Expansion Aim.
The extension of our commerce and the increase and development of our industries shall have my best efforts. The city's business shall be my only occupation. Large investments have been kept from Portland, both in industries and building, in consequence of oppressive, meddlesome and faddish regulations, or the threat of such.

I hold that business follows the easiest road to success, that all attempts to strait-jacket it or to assume the guardianship over its activities and movements which are not demanded by sound principles of safety and sanitation are detrimental and should be omitted. Our reception of new coming investors in commerce and industry and our ordinances over their business should be a reason for their coming here, not an obstacle in the way to our midst.

In the foregoing, as well as in all other questions where the interest of the city touches the special interest of private persons, corporations, organizations, then also in the securing of the city's rights, in the matter of freights on foreign shipment, recognition of our harbor and the growing importance of our port, I am bent upon using my best efforts for the city.

Independent of Parties.
I shall be independent of all parties representing special interests, serving as best I may the public in this high office, leaning on no one, but seeking the support of all and the counsel of all for the common good. For this my door shall be open in the front only and the public's business transacted in a public manner.

A statement of this kind must of necessity be brief. For some years I seem to have perceived a growing authority toward public affairs among my fellow citizens; abuses are condoned and impositions tolerated which in past years would have aroused the citizenship to action. The above named abuses are real, and there are others to which I shall in time address myself.

I tender in this my candidacy, myself, with every effort that I am capable of to rectify these and other abuses. For this purpose and in this spirit I ask for your support at the polls.

DAN KELLAHER.

DUTY TO STATE DELAYS

TRIALS KEEP ATTORNEY-GENERAL FROM NEW HONORS.

Pendleton Murder Case Must End Before Mr. Brown Resigns Present Office.

SALEM, Or., Oct. 5.—(Special.)—Attorney-General Brown, now at Pendleton prosecuting Jack Rathay and James Owen, under indictment for the murder of Eli Taylor, late sheriff of Umatilla county, will not resign his office until the conclusion of the trials, according to a telegram received at the executive offices today. "I am deeply gratified for the honor conferred upon me," said Mr. Brown's telegram to the governor. "I am in the midst of an important trial, and it seems to me to be my duty to the state to finish some very important matters before resigning as attorney-general."

Mr. Brown was recently appointed justice of the Oregon supreme court to succeed A. S. Bennett. In accepting Judge Bennett's resignation, Governor Olcott wrote: "It is with regret that I accept your resignation, but knowing your decision in this matter is irrevocable, I am herewith accepting the same as of Wednesday, October 6."

"I desire to express my deep appreciation for the splendid work which you have done upon the supreme bench. It is a source of gratification to know that the people, by the election of such men as yourself, keep the personnel of the bench up to the highest standards and while I realize the circumstances which force you to leave your duties with the state, I am certain the people of Oregon as a whole have a deep appreciation of the services which you have rendered."

"I wish you only the greatest success and happiness on your return to civil life."

All Mothers Will Find Use For This Laxative

Give Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin to a constipated child and note its quick recovery.

IN a growing family the subject of thought with the parents is how to keep the children healthy and happy, and what to do when they become ill. Most illnesses of childhood are the symptoms of constipation, such as headaches, coated tongues, flatulence, dizziness, loss of appetite and sleep, biliousness, etc.

You can surely feel safe in doing what tens of thousands of others do with good results, so give, according to the age of the child, a small quantity of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Eight million bottles were bought last year at drug stores. It is America's favorite family remedy for constipation, indigestion and similar ills, and is especially suitable for children, women and old folks as it is so mild and gentle in action.

There is no secret about Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a combination of Egyptian Senna and other simple laxative herbs with pepsin and pleasant tasting aromatics. Druggists have sold it for thirty years, and a sixty cent bottle will last for months. Experienced mothers are never without it in the house.

The world's largest user of the purest and best maple sugar offers you the new Karo Maple

A rare and delicious syrup at a moderate price. Don't worry about the high price of maple syrup. Of special interest to every mother

When you wonder how the new Karo Maple gets its delicious tang of rich maple syrup remember—

The makers of Karo Maple use annually over a thousand tons of the purest and best flavored maple sugar from the finest maple groves in Vermont and Canada.

This is one reason why over five million cans of Karo Maple were purchased by American housewives last year.

This is a greater sale, by far, than any kind of maple syrup offered.

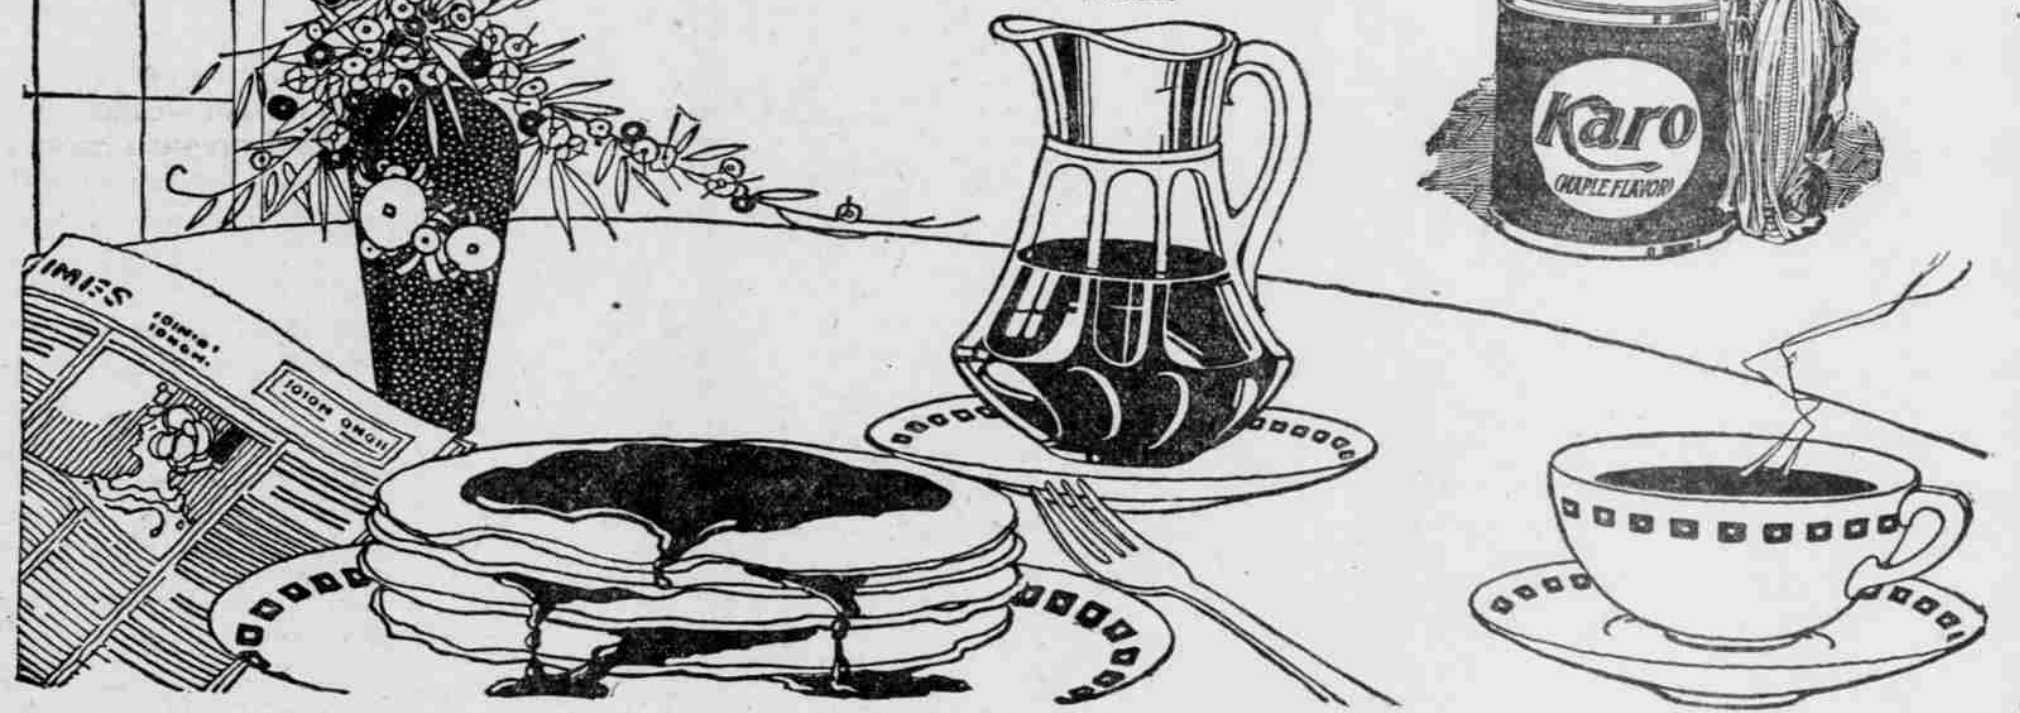

The moderate price of Karo Maple is also an attraction—it costs less than any other syrup of approaching quality and flavor.

Go to your grocer today and get a can of Karo Maple, in the Green Can. Try it just once—on biscuits, waffles or pancakes—or as a spread for buttered bread or toast.

Compare it for price and flavor with other maple syrups. If you are not satisfied return the balance of the can to your grocer, and get your money back.
