

ATTORNEY-GENERAL'S OFFICE RECEIVED PRIZE

Four Aspirants Announce Themselves in Race.

FOUR MORE DUE TO RUN

Supporters Must Write in Name of Their Choice; Candidate Who Gets 3000 Believed Winner.

Aspirants for attorney-general are becoming numerous. With the appointment of George M. Brown, incumbent, to the supreme court bench, a vacancy has been caused which the voters must fill at the November election.

As Mr. Brown's resignation from the office of attorney-general came too late to have candidates circulate petitions, there will be no names on the ballot. All who wish to become candidates must urge their supporters to write in the names of those who will be the aspirant whose name has been written in the greatest number of times.

Four candidates are now in the field, with the prospect of as many more being announced. They are: Francis V. Galloway, district attorney for Wasco county, who says he will be a candidate; Frank Grant, whose name has been written in the greatest number of times; and two others who are not seeking the place, although he was once a candidate against Mr. Brown for the nomination.

It is figured out that any lawyer who can have his name written 3000 times on the ballot will win. It is not a large number of votes and will be only a fractional percentage of the number of ballots cast in the election, but past elections have demonstrated that it is a difficult task for a candidate to write a name on a ballot. The average voter simply won't take the time or else forgets writing the name until he has placed his ballot in the box.

Conservatism Johnson Policy.

Mr. Johnson, one of the latest contenders, has practiced law in Portland since 1890. He is a former state legislator of the grange and is a member of several fraternal orders. He is the son of pioneer parents and was born on a farm near Portland. He promises a conservative policy.

Mr. Galloway is a son of the late Judge Galloway and brother of the former state tax commissioner. He is a candidate for the nomination in Wasco county and is one of the leading Elks of the state. Friends of Mr. Galloway are promoting his candidacy, although he has not yet made a public announcement of his candidacy for attorney-general.

NEW REPUBLICANS INCREASE

Number of Democrats Swinging Over Surprise of Campaign.

The wonderful thing about the present campaign is the number of democrats who are going to support the republican ticket, said ex-senator Piles of Seattle while in Portland yesterday. He is a member of the Oregon campaign. Mr. Piles left for Salem yesterday afternoon, where he spoke last night.

After every meeting in this campaign I have been called upon by democrats and told they intended to vote the republican ticket this year. We welcome them into the fold because the issues in this campaign are a matter of citizenship and I find that the real, sturdy, rock-ribbed democrats who have made the history of this country are just as much concerned about and as much against the Wilsonian and Coxism as we republicans are.

I find that the people are really more interested in domestic questions than they are in the fate of the league of nations, which is regarded as a matter of foreign diplomacy and of treaty negotiation and they have faith that a republican administration and a republican senate will handle this question of the prevention of future wars to the satisfaction of all. They have faith that the republican party will rise and measure up to the present crisis as it always has in the past. The republican party saved the union in 1861, saved the cause of sound money in 1896 and will rise to the present crisis and save the republic, the constitutional government and the reconstruction of the disordered affairs of the nation.

I find that the people are tremendously interested in the subject of the high cost of living. It is true, and I believe it has come largely through the mismanagement of affairs by the democratic administration and that they have faith that a republican president and a republican congress will be able to solve the problem better than it has ever been solved before. The record of the last seven years has been strewn with monumental failures.

Mr. Piles speaks at Albany tonight and at Eugene Friday night.

PLUMB LEAGUE SLUSH DENIED

Dr. Lovejoy Says Her Campaign Receipts Are on File.

That the Plumb Plan League is hearing any part of the expense of the campaign of Dr. Esther Pohl Lovejoy, candidate for congress, is denied in an affidavit by J. A. Hannan, secretary-treasurer of that organization. This affidavit is in the hands of B. A. Green, secretary of the Oregon Popular Government League. Representative McArthur at a recent meeting made the declaration that the Plumb league was defraying campaign expenses of Dr. Lovejoy. He also said that 40,000 postal cards mailed to union men by the Oregon Popular Government League, were so libelous that the democratic central committee refused to pay for them. This Dr. Lovejoy stated in a lecture, and they were paid for in the regular routine manner by the democratic committee, she received the file on file at democratic headquarters.

MOVING PICTURE NEWS

Pat O'Malley and Agnes Ayres as two newspaper folk, who unravel a mystery in the plot in "Go and Get It."

TO-DAY'S FILM FEATURES.

Columbia—Cecil DeMille's "Something to Think About." Rivoli—Vivian Martin, "Husband and Wife." Majestic—Lon Chaney, "The Penalty." Empire—Jack Pickford, "Double Deed Deceiver." The Liberty—Marshall Neilan's "Go and Get It." Star—Tom Mix, "Three Gold Coins." Circle—Elnora Hammerstein, "Whisper." Globe—Eugene O'Brien, "The Perfect Lover."

"Go and get it," said the city editor to the reporter. So, aided by an extremely pretty miss, the hero of the newspaper photoplay showing this week at the number of hours will be in the election, but past elections have demonstrated that it is a difficult task for a candidate to write a name on a ballot. The average voter simply won't take the time or else forgets writing the name until he has placed his ballot in the box.

Edgar Allen Poe would enjoy "Go and Get It." In Edgar might claim some of the plot as his own, for inasmuch as it centers about a baffling series of murders committed by an orang-utan it greatly resembles "The Murder of the Rue Morgue." Inasmuch as it depends to some extent on a thrilling chase by airplane, it is more like an ultra modern adventure cinema. Its comedy even hints of slapstick and most of it is left to Wesley Barry, he of the many, many freckles and even more numerous successful fun tricks. No person is supposed to star in "Go and Get It," but although young Barry's role is comparatively small, audiences find his antics so amusing that they look for this young comedian. He is cast as a newspaper office boy—perhaps a bit more as a sassy, impudent and smart.

Briefly, the story of "Go and Get It" centers about the efforts of a dishonest editor to lower the selling value of his paper that he and his colleagues with whom he is in league may gain personally. A series of murders are committed and the editor is suspected of being the murderer. The editor is a former state legislator and the other a girl whom he had known in France—work out the solution to the murders and the editor is saved from disgrace, simultaneously bringing to light the treachery of the editor.

Screen Gossip. Through the courtesy of C. W. Koerner, branch manager of the Universal exchange, moving pictures of the presidential nominees have been obtained for the region. Scenes showing Senator Harding and Governor Cox as they have conducted their campaigns are a matter of citizenship and I find that the real, sturdy, rock-ribbed democrats who have made the history of this country are just as much concerned about and as much against the Wilsonian and Coxism as we republicans are.

Florence Vidor is co-featuring with House Peters in the forthcoming production, "The Magic Life." Lincoln Stedman, 17-year-old son of Myrtle Stedman, is now appearing in his third consecutive picture with Charles Ray.

Charles Maigne will direct the production of a straw vote that little city had gone republican. The picture taken in the city is a good indication of the entire county, according to Mr. Day. Harding polled more than four votes in the precincts. At 2 o'clock this afternoon the women's vote was pronounced. Harding received 38 votes to seven for Lovejoy. The women's vote for Chamberlain. It is stated that Cox is not very popular with Tillamook women.

Dr. Lovejoy Has Full Schedule. Dr. Esther Pohl Lovejoy, candidate for congress, will speak at a meeting of the business women's club at luncheon this noon and tonight she will address members of the meat eaters' union in Foresters' hall, on Fourth, between Morrison and Alder streets. At 2 o'clock this afternoon she will discuss the issues of the campaign at a meeting of the Sunnyside Woman's Christian Temperance union in the Methodist Episcopal church at East Thirty-fifth and Yamhill streets. At 8 o'clock tomorrow she will be the speaker at a mass meeting of railroad workers in Eagles' hall, Third and Madison streets.

Mid-West All Harding. "Everybody's for Harding in the middle west," says H. O. Canfield, who returned from the national Grand Army of the Republic convention in Indianapolis the latter part of September. Mr. Canfield was in Kansas City when Harding spoke there Monday evening, but he was one of the 5000 overflow who did not even get a glimpse of the republican nominee for president. Mr. Canfield represented the George Wright post at the convention.

REPUBLICAN WOMEN RALLY McArthur-for-Congress Clubs Meet at Central Library.

The McArthur-for-Congress clubs, recently organized by republican women, held a rally here yesterday afternoon at the Central library, which was attended by 100 enthusiastic women. The picture is from the McArthur-for-Congress clubs. Mrs. Vincent Cook presided and called attention to the excellent record as a congressman and recalled the fact that he is now securing women's suffrage in Oregon and submission of the suffrage amendment in Washington.

B. G. Skulason gave an analysis of the league of nations from a lawyer's standpoint and compared it to a contract and explained why it is necessary in order to insure a successful and harmonious administration of the national government. Mrs. W. J. Hawkins said that the election of congressmen was not a personal matter, but a national matter in which every citizen should be swayed by devotion to principle and desire to accomplish the best results in the national government.

"You've Got Me Pegged Right," Says Denizen of Underworld as He Pleads Leniency for Youth.

THERE is a certain code of ethics among denizens of the underworld worthy of emulation among those in the higher strata of society. There must be a faint spark of good latent though it be, for the man who refuses to "squeal" on a pal. It was in the police court yesterday morning. Bill O'Brien, reputed professional burglar and ex-convict, had been "cut" by the goods. With him was Art Miller.
