SHIPS TO HAUL LUMBER

INCREASED RAILROAD RATES TO FORCE CHANGE.

Publisher Declares Water Competition Will Ultimately Gain Timber Traffic.

Increased railroad freight rates which have had the effect of temporarily crippling the lumber industry of the northwest will ultimately be taken care of by water competition, according to a prediction made by George M. Cornwall, publisher of the Timberman, in an address delivered at the luncheon of the Progressive Business Men's club at the Benson hotel yesterday noon.

Mr. Cornwall predicted that the high rates by rail would result in the greater use of the water route for the handling of cargoes, especially those destined for the Atlantic seaboard, and that ultimately a large share of the lumber business would be carried by steamers.

"The principal handicap at the present time," he said, "is the lack of facilities at eastern ports for the handling of lumber in large quantities."

Mr. Cornwall said, however, that this phase of the problem was being taken care of and that Baltimore already had a terminal especially designed for the handling of lumber.

The speaker cited the great factor which the lumber industry of this country has been in the development of the territory.

He said the building of logging railroads had especially been a big feature in the country's unbuilding and that at the present time there was such an extensive system of logging railroads between Portland and Astoria that the construction of but 50 miles of additional line would give a new direct route to Astoria from this city.

Mr. Cornwall declared that in the near future it would be necessary for the country to provide laws for a systematic reforestation.

He cited the fact that the production of timber in the country had been gradually decreasing and expressed the belief that this was partially due to the fact that renters were going on the farms.

"No man was ever known to fight for a boarding house and likewise no renter is interested in building up the houses and barns on the farm which he rents," he said.

R. P. Irvine spoke on the State Marketing bill declaring that the bill should pass at the coming election.

SORGHUM YIELD GOOD

Hood River Grower Hopes to Manufacture Molasses.

HOOD RIVER, Or., Oct. 14.—(Special.)—A. R. Cooper, formerly member of the warehouse force of the Apple Growers' association and later an apple inspector here for the O.-W. R. & N. Co., has harvested a fine yield of sorghum stalks, the juice of which is rich in sugar.

Mr. Cooper pressed a small quantity of juice by grinding the stalks on a meat chopper. He intends to get a sufficient sorghum cane acreage to justify apparatus for the manufacture of molasses.

RENT CHARGES AIRED

R. W. PRICE REITERATES STATEMENT ABOUT GORDON.

President of Hotelmen Declares Candidate for Mayor Misunderstood or Misquoted Him.

Reiteration of charges that Herbert Gordon, candidate for mayor, advised apartment house owners to increase rents while a member of Mayor Baker's rent investigation committee was made yesterday in a statement issued by R. W. Price, president of the Hotelmen's association and also a member of the rent committee.

The statement by Mr. Price was made in answer to an interview issued by Mr. Gordon denying that he informed apartment house owners to withhold information from the rent committee. Mr. Price's statement is as follows:

"In a recent interview Herbert Gordon, candidate for mayor, asserts that at the dissolution meeting of the rent investigating committee I stated that he had advised apartment house owners not to furnish the committee with information regarding their income and pronounces the statement untrue.

"Either Mr. Gordon misunderstood my remarks or purposely, for some reason, misquoted them, for I made no such statement. What I said was that I had confidential information that Mr. Gordon advised apartment house owners to raise their rents.

"Because of the reliability of the source, I was convinced of the truth of the information when I made the statement to the committee, and I am still so convinced.

"In connection with his interview Mr. Gordon submitted an affidavit by F. W. German, president of the Portland Realty Board, who secured Gordon's appointment to the committee and was instrumental in prevailing on him to become a candidate for mayor.

"It is to the effect that I had stated at the commencement of the committee's investigation that I had been tipped off, and raised the rental of the Hotel Mallory, and that I did not care what the committee did.

"This statement is without any

PEOPLE TO HAVE SAY

Medford Citizens Testify to Character of Postoffice Candidates.

MEDFORD, Or., Oct. 14.—(Special.)—That the people of Medford will have much to say in the selection of a postmaster to succeed the late Colonel G. P. Nims is made evident by the actions of members of the civil service commission board, C. W. Paine of Seattle, district secretary of the commission, and T. G. Rowan of Seattle, postoffice inspector of that district, who arrived here Tuesday.

They are calling in as a part of the investigation into the character, reputation and qualifications of the candidates for the position about 50 prominent business men and citizens to testify.
