

THEATER ORGANISTS CITE LOCAL UNION

Affidavits Say Injunction Suit Is Ruse.

JOB SATISFIES SEVEN Hours of Employment, Wages and Conditions Such They Oppose Strike, Declare Employes.

Organists of the moving picture theaters of Jensen & Von Herberg relate the manner in which the musician's union of Portland rescinded ex-pulso orders and welcomed them back to union ranks for the purpose of making them defendants in an injunction suit to prevent them from continuing in the employ of the local theater owners in seven affidavits filed in the circuit court yesterday.

The players, well known to Portland "movie" fans, and the theaters in which they have been appearing, are: Cecil Teague, Maestri; Henri A. Keates, Liberty; Nellie Berry, Star; Nellie Kennedy, Peoples; H. Q. Mills, Columbia; Mrs. Harry Hobbs, Star; and Ernest Nordstrom, Columbia.

Organists Expelled July 15.
In all the cases, the organists say they were expelled from the union because they refused to obey a walk-out order of July 2, based on a labor dispute in Tacoma, Wash., in which they had no interest. None of them had been given any opportunity to discuss, argue or vote on the walk-out order promulgated by Elmer E. Pettigrew, president of the local union, "pursuant to an order from Joe W. Weber, president of the American Federation of Musicians."

The expulsion of organists July 15 was followed October 8, 1920, in an order, with notifications that the expulsion orders had been annulled by order of Weber and that dues were owing. None of the defendants have ever sought to resign from the union, and their affidavits aver that they know of no reason for the union's action except to make music-bio the injunction suit against them.

All Say They Are Satisfied.
All assert that during the period of their employment in the local theaters they have been satisfied with their wages, hours of employment and general conditions surrounding their employment. They also aver they had not at any time any controversy with their employers over such matters.

In one case, that of Henri A. Keates, organist at the Liberty theater, the defendant is not a member of the local union, having paid no initiation fee since his transfer from Seattle about March 15, he asserts.

In the affidavit of Nellie Berry, she receives an order from the local union to report at union headquarters "to receive instructions as to whether or not you shall go to work at said Liberty theater." Though not a union member in his belief, he answered the summons and "learned in a general way that all union employees in the Liberty theater and certain other moving picture theaters of Portland had been ordered to walk out because of some controversy or difficulty between union employes of moving picture theaters in the city of Tacoma, and their employers, and in sympathy with such employes."

Dispute Doesn't Interest Him.
"The nature of that controversy I did not then or have since learned and I am not interested therein," he continues, in an affidavit which he substantially repeats in each of the other musicians' affidavits.

"There was no meeting of the local union in progress at any time," he was at said musicians' headquarters, nor was I then or at any time advised that any meeting of said local union had been or would be called to discuss or consider the question of its membership quitting work to strike because of said Tacoma situation, and I learned only that those who run the union had ordered all union musicians in certain Portland theaters to immediately quit their work and walk out.

"I have at no time been given a vote or hearing or an opportunity to vote or to be heard upon the question as to whether or not members of the Portland local union should quit working for their Portland employers because of said Tacoma situation," relates Miss Berry in her affidavit.

Walkout Opposed.
"If I had been given such an opportunity I would have argued and voted against and produced to persuade my fellow union members to vote against any such walkout, because there was no good reason therefor. I did not, because I had neither known nor heard of any existing controversy or disagreement between employers and employes concerning wages or hours or conditions of employment of any union employes—musicians or otherwise—of any of the Portland theaters."

"This organist quit work for several days, hoping that matters might be settled shortly, but because I considered it arbitrary and unfair to order me to quit my work under the existing circumstances, and it appeared to me that the attitude of those who run the union was such that there would be no possibility of my employer submitting to their dictations and I needed the income from and did not intend to lose my position, I resumed the performance of my duties as organist at the Star theater."

Receiving notice that she would be expelled from the union if she did not cease working for Jensen & Von Herberg she continued to work. She emphatically deny that said local or any other musicians' union or any other labor union has any legal or moral right to interfere with my employment as an organist."

All the affidavits are of the same tenor.

Preliminary hearing in the injunction suit is set for next Monday before Presiding Circuit Judge Tazewell.

PRISONERS TO HOLD SHOW Salem Inmates Plan Minstrel Entertainment November 11-12.

SALEM, Or., Oct. 21.—(Special.)—The eighth annual production of the minstrel inmates, under direction of A. G. Graham, promises to be one of the most entertaining and successful shows ever produced at the Oregon state penitentiary. Exceptional soloists and a harmony chorus assure a rare treat. The minstrel numbers were written especially for the inmates by a music corporation in New York City.

Costumes will excel in beauty those used last year. Mr. Graham claims to have one of the best bass soloists in the state. The minstrel will hold forth in the prison auditorium on the evenings of November 11 and 12.

CHILDREN FOR UNFIT CHILDREN

Poor Food Blamed For Unfit Children

Lack of Parental Control Is Declared Dangerous.

Books Needed in Home
Parent-Teacher Association Told
How Neglect of Young Persons
Will Destroy Citizenship.

The questions of the malnourished child and the bookless home were two of the most important matters presented at yesterday's meeting of the annual Parent-Teacher association convention, now being held at the Hotel Benson in Portland.

"One of the most important problems of today is that of bringing back to normal the large percentage of children who are unfit," said Dean Milam of the Oregon Agricultural College, in her address during the afternoon. "The malnourished child is not the 'skinny' child, one that does not weigh enough for his height, ir-regular teeth, etc. It is the child who is brought about by lack of parental control, improper feeding, insufficient sleep and adenoids and diseased tonsils. Many children are permitted to eat whatever they like. They do not drink enough milk or eat enough fruit and vegetables."

Moving Pictures Injurious.
"I believe that the moving-picture shows are one of the principal causes of insufficient sleep for children. Parents allow their children to go to the theaters at night and as a result they go to bed too late after having seen an exciting film. The result is disastrous."

"These children of whom I have been speaking are very susceptible to the disease and form the majority of the 'repeaters' in our school system. Signs of this condition are protruding shoulders, bent knees and a serious expression of face."

Surveys in cities of this and adjoining states have shown that malnourished children are found in the west as well as in other parts of the country, stated Dean Milam.

Dangerous When Adults.
"These children grow up to be dangerous and dependent citizens," she said. "Parents should know the physical condition of their children and see that the laws of health are observed."

A bookless home is better than a home which has a collection of only poor books, declared Miss Cornelia Marvin, state librarian, in speaking of "The State Library and the Parent-Teacher Association."

"We have bookless homes all over Oregon," she said. "To those other parents which have books, it still brings the avalanche of cheap books."

"Buy fine books and give them to your children," she urged. "Read aloud in the family circle. You can't leave everything to the libraries. The large libraries are supervised and there you will find safe books for your children."

Water Project Started
Colton Company Will Tap Canyon
Creek With Pipeline.

SALEM, Oct. 21.—(Special.)—The Colton Water company of Colton, Or., has filed with Percy Cupper, state engineer, application covering the appropriation of water from Canyon Creek for domestic and irrigation purposes. The development contemplates the construction of an eight-inch pipeline, approximately two miles in length. Other filings follow:

N. S. Billings, Wallowa, water from Bear Creek, for the irrigation of a small tract of land in Wallowa county.

Robert H. Lofgren, Clatskanie, water from an unnamed creek, for domestic purposes in Tillamook county.

E. K. Pullen, Hood River, water from an unnamed spring, for the irrigation of two acres in Hood River county.

Mrs. Anne Saubert, Cushman, water from an unnamed spring for municipal purposes in Lane county.

Christian Endeavor Meeting Set.
SALEM, Or., Oct. 21.—(Special.)—The Marine County Christian Endeavor union will hold its annual convention in Salem November 6 and 7. The keynote address, "Stretching Forward to the Ideal," will be delivered by Rev. W. T. Miller, pastor of the Baptist church of this city. Other speakers will include Ralph McAfee, secretary of the federation of churches; Portland's Miss Fay Stimmetz, LeRoy Robinson and Howard Zinsler, officers of the state union.

Salem May Have Poultry Show.
SALEM, Or., Oct. 21.—(Special.)—Salem will have a poultry show this year if the plans of the local commercial club materialize. At last night's meeting of the organization the importance of this show was emphasized by several members and it was decided to stage the event late in November. Plans also were made to inaugurate a membership campaign. Entertainment features included music and readings by Mrs. John J. Roberts, Albert Gilie, Lulu Walton and Mrs. Lillian Harshbarn.

Women's Activities
The alumni of Reed college will give a reception to the members of the Delta Gamma sorority at the home of Mrs. J. O. Holt in honor of Mrs. Walter E. Gray of Portland, who is her house guest. The palm room of the Osburn hotel decorated in marigolds, formed a delightful gathering place for the guests, who enjoyed the afternoon with needlework. Clever hand-painted cards bearing mother goose rhymes were matched by the guests to select partners for the tea tables which were placed in the tea room. Miss Virginia Pearson, Miss Laura Rand, Miss Margaret Beatty and Miss Jessie Lewis assisted in serving. The guest list included Mrs. W. E. Gray, Mrs. Frank Chambers, Mrs. L. H. Johnson, Mrs. M. Miller, Mrs. A. E. Robinson, Mrs. E. Parks, Mrs. Morris Starbuck, Mrs. George Stewart, Mrs. E. O. Immel, Mrs. P. J. Anderson, Mrs. O. H. Foster, Mrs. N. F. MEDICAL MEN IN SESSION WHITMAN COUNTY SOCIETY ADDRESSED BY VISITORS.

Tuberculosis of Kidneys and Septic Disorders Are Discussed by Well-Known Physicians.

FULLMAN, Wash., Oct. 21.—(Special.)—Fifty-two physicians and surgeons, several of them from the western part of the state, attended the regular meeting of the Whitman County Medical society held here the first of the week. Among the visiting physicians and surgeons who took part in the programme were Dr. Noble Wiley Jones of Portland, Dr. George W. Swift of Seattle and Dr. George C. Bryan of Walla Walla.

"Tuberculosis of the kidney," was the subject of a paper by Dr. Bryan. He especially emphasized the fact that there are three different classes of tubercular kidneys and cited treatments for each case.

Dr. Jones dealt with "End Results in Treating Cases of Chronic Septic Arthritis, Mollusks and Neuritis." He said there were many places where local infusions might result in inflammation of the joints, enumerating the teeth, tonsils, appendix, gall bladder and ear, as well as pus in the sinuses of the head and constipation.

The work of the Washington League for the Convalescent of Health was explained by Dr. Swift. Other authorities of the northwest who addressed the society, were Dr. E. L. White of Lewiston, Idaho; Dr. S. E. Lambert of Spokane, Dr. John Corkery of Spokane, Dr. H. P. Marshall of Spokane, Dr. Joseph Aspin of Spokane, Dr. P. D. McCormack of Spokane, and Dr. C. E. McKernan of Spokane.

Salem Rotary Delegate Chosen.
SALEM, Or., Oct. 21.—(Special.)—H. S. Gile, president of the Salem Rotary club, has been named delegate to attend the international convention of Rotary clubs in Edinburgh, Scotland, next year. Mr. Gile will be accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Gile, alternate until Rev. Mr. Anderson, William McGilchrist and J. F. Hutchason.

At next week's meeting of the local Rotary club C. K. Warne, field executive of the northwestern district of Rotary clubs in Edinburg, Scotland, will deliver the chief address.

Salem Pastor Will Resign.
SALEM, Or., Oct. 21.—(Special.)—Rev. Thomas S. Anderson, for several years pastor of the Presbyterian church of this city, announced last night that he was preparing to resign his charge because of failing health. He has not yet selected a location, but probably will move to Southern California. His successor will not be named until Rev. Mr. Anderson files his formal resignation with the church board of directors.

THE FLORSHEIM SHOE

A NEW Florsheim style—you'll like it if you desire the latest shape—it's a square toe effect (not too pronounced). Florsheim certainly understands how to make shoes that are in good style and in good taste—at a price that will save you money in the long run. We can fit your feet with Florsheims.

"All prices substantially lower to conform with recent price reductions."

FOR THE MAN WHO CARES

NAPOLEON
ITALIAN
OLIVE OIL

A good habit in winter time is the daily use of "The Golden Oil." Its health-giving qualities will promote strength and good spirits.

Start your dinner every day with a "Napoleon" cocktail—a tablespoonful in some fruit juice.
