

COX AGAIN LASHES CRITICS OF LEAGUE

Harding, Taft and Johnson Speeches Denounced.

OTHER PACT HELD VISION

"It Is This League of Nations or None," Declares Governor in Address at Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, Md., Oct. 21.—Governor Cox, addressing a large audience at the armory tonight, denounced and lashed vigorously the league of nations speeches yesterday of Senator Harding, ex-President Taft and Senator Johnson of California, declaring that they evinced further "wobbling" by Senator Harding upon the league issue. He also further emphasized his league policies, declaring that "helpful" reservations should be a prerequisite to ratification.

"Everyone who is against the league is against me," Governor Cox declared, insisting that Senator Harding stands for "serapping" the league. The governor also asserted that because of differences between the republican and democratic groups the election of Senator Harding could not bring ratification.

New League Held Impossible.
"It is this league of nations or no league of nations," was another doctrine he laid down. The governor asserted, quoting Judge Taft, that his new peace association of nations was impossible.

Playing yesterday's league pronouncements by Senator Harding, Mr. Taft and Senator Johnson, Governor Cox said that Judge Taft evinced confidence that Senator Harding would cause ratification and that Senator Johnson expressed equal assurance that Mr. Harding would reject the league.

"Either Johnson or Taft is wrong," he declared, "and only Senator Harding can tell the American people which one is wrong. If Senator Harding has not given private assurance to both men then his declarations are so ambiguous that Taft interprets them one way and Johnson another. It is the duty of Senator Harding to advise the American people frankly who is right—Johnson or Taft. If he fails to do it, he may be regarded as an impostor, deliberately seeking to deceive the American people."

Harding's Name Hissed.
The league here and also at Wilmington, Del., where the governor made his only other address today, virtually was his sole topic. His Wilmington audience hissed the names of Senator Harding when he referred to the republican nominee's signature to the round robin, and Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, whom the governor again denominated the "greatest conspirator" in history.

Governor Cox said tonight that today's papers carried a headline regarding Senator Johnson's address as follows:
"Insists Harding Rejects League."

That over Judge Taft's, the governor said, read:
"Harding Favors League, Says Taft."

"Senator Johnson and Senator Borah are men of independent mind and independent action," said the governor. "They are against any association of nations and they are supporting Senator Harding because they know that with his election the league of nations of any league can never be ratified."

Fourteen Flips Charged.
"It is amazing that men like Elihu Root and William Howard Taft and their associates among the eminent pro-league republicans can longer justify their support of Senator Harding in the face of the facts which they will frankly say they put party obligations ahead of their duty to conscience."

That Senator Harding, with his speech yesterday, now had taken 14 different league positions was asserted by Governor Cox. The senator yesterday, his opponent declared, "now repeats his position as that of the day on which he accepted the nomination on the platform which said the league has signally failed."

"The answer to the governor continued, 'Is that there are already 43 nation members of that league and that it is an organization now functioning.'"

Referring to Senator Harding's offer of a "reward" to anyone demonstrating that he had taken that league position, Governor Cox said he was present to show how he has attempted to sign and to claim that reward not for himself, but for the people of America.

Issue Considered Clear.
Declaring that the senator's latest pronouncement seemed clear to Senator Johnson and that the Californian insisted that Mr. Harding stood against the league, the governor continued:
"This ought to define the issue in this campaign."

"Everyone who is against the league of nations is against me. That is one thing about which there can be no doubt. A few days ago at Columbus I received the roll of the groups which had been arrayed under the reactionary banner and defined the prejudices which had been played upon in an attempt to divide the friends of peace. Among them we have a group of republicans, eminent men, who in their hearts and by their voices approved the league of nations and who still try to justify their support for the candidate who reiterates the statement that 'the league has signally failed,' and of whom Senator Johnson says, 'He has put the league behind him. He is for outright rejection.'"

Compromise Held Impossible.
"What would happen to the league should Senator Harding be elected? He is definitely against it. Therefore the mandate of the people in his election would be to reject the league. But were it to be thought that Senator Harding was fooling Borah and Johnson, that he would in the final analysis turn down the latter, even then there could be no ratification. Certainly Senator Johnson and Senator Harding would recognize the people's mandate for staying out of the league, and with his election in the senate he would have within his own party two distinct and warring groups, each of which would be fighting for domination and each of which would have an irreconcilable and uncompromising attitude toward the other."

"Senators Borah and Johnson have nothing in common with Taft and Mr. Root, nor could Mr. Taft be expected to exercise influence and leadership over the senatorial oligarchy which nominated and controlled Senator Harding. This group of

DUTY IS AT HOME, DECLARES HARDING

Democrats Trying to Hide Issues, Is Charge.

IRON POLICIES RAPPED

Organization to Link All Peoples Declared Essential, but Wilson's Plan is Rejected.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 21.—Senator Harding, charging that the democratic party had attempted to "blind" the voters to domestic issues by diverting its campaign energies to an already rejected foreign programme, told an audience tonight that the first real duty of the nation is to "put its own house in order."

"In a world readjusting itself after the trials of war," he said, "the United States could best lend its aid to distressed foreign nations by setting an example of steadfast democracy and equal opportunity." Tersely he reviewed the programme for domestic rehabilitation, presented by him in his many campaign speeches, and declared the progressive thought of the American people to be a programme rather than concern itself longer with the Versailles league covenant.

League Position Restated.
Tonight's meeting also was addressed by Judge Nathan L. Miller, the republican nominee for governor. Earlier at Rochester Senator Harding had stated again his position on the league and had challenged democratic critics to show wherein he had been inconsistent.

Tonight's speech was the last of the campaign on Senator Harding's speaking schedule outside his home state.

In his reference to the league tonight the nominee said there was no difference between him and Governor Cox "in our realization that the American people desire to enter into some kind of an association of nations which will prevent war and interweave all peoples with the bonds of peaceful co-operation."

"But there are two marked differences between us," he continued. "The first of these is to be found in the fact that my opponent is insisting upon the adoption of the president's unchanged league."

Wilson Plan Held Rejected.
"The republican position is the exact opposite. The American people, as well as the senate of the United States, long ago rejected the president's plan, which my opponent is now trying to keep alive. Even if my opponent were elected he would be unable to put his programme into effect and America would have to wait, for many years, perhaps, before she could be held upon any policy."

"I consider it much more constructive to refrain from dictation of any international programme and to be more constructive to show a willingness to consult America, to harmonize America, to consult the best opinion of America, the senate of the United States and the will of the people. I do not find any inspiration in carrying on this campaign under the banner of a hopeless division of opinion."

Rival Programme Criticized.
"I have been unwilling to accept the democratic programme because it is not only un-American and unwise, but because it is wholly impossible of fulfillment and simply tends to keep the American people in a ferment of useless controversy. It is my duty to turn my back upon the impossible, and to set my face toward the future with full hope for a united and constructive plan in our world affairs. It is in this same attitude that nations of Europe are now found, and it is in this attitude that the overwhelming majority of our American people have fixed their determination."

"It appears that it is the duty of America and Americans to set good examples to the world. Accordingly, I have conscientiously suggested measures for the reinstatement of constitutional government to replace the false label of democracy, which has masked an unparalleled centralization of power in the executive."

Forward Policy Is Wanted.
"I have been preaching the gospel of less government in business and more business in government. I have been asking Americans to join in a policy of going forward constructively in the conservation and development of our national resources, in the upbuilding of our foreign trade and our merchant marine, in the proper measures for maintaining the health of our American agriculture and in the immediate solution of the problems which disturb our industrial peace to the detriment of all of us."

"I have been preaching the gospel of a democratic senate in order to avert the infamy of a separate peace with Germany and to save the league. They are weary of the chorus of republican katydid croaking. He did he didn't? They have finally concluded to enmesh to its friends the only plan for world peace, one agreed to by both great and small nations. They will select a four-square president instead of a human weather-vane."

Senator Harding has stopped oscillating only once, and that was when he said of the league and its reservations at Des Moines: "I do not intend any clarifying reservations. I stand for rejection."

"Senator Johnson points out that Senator Harding has 'put the league of nations behind him' and rejects not only the league but any modifications of it. The American people agree with Senator Johnson and they will vote for Governor Cox, who has put the league in front of him."

"Senator Johnson speaks with proper resentment of 'individuals and newspapers which misrepresent and misinterpret Senator Harding's words,' challenges their falsification, as he properly calls it, and says bluntly they may have their faces but not the league."

"In that list of newspapers and individuals I am sure that Senator Johnson silently puts the name of Senator Harding himself."

CARUSO SUSPECT FREED

State Recommends Man Be Exonerated After Investigation.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—Harry C. Tobeck, arrested several days ago as a suspect in connection with the $200,000 Caruso gem theft, was discharged today.

The state recommended that the defendant be exonerated after investigation had been made of his attempt to sell two women jewels which he was alleged to have represented as part of the singer's collection.

DUTY IS AT HOME, DECLARES HARDING

Democrats Trying to Hide Issues, Is Charge.

IRON POLICIES RAPPED

Organization to Link All Peoples Declared Essential, but Wilson's Plan is Rejected.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 21.—Senator Harding, charging that the democratic party had attempted to "blind" the voters to domestic issues by diverting its campaign energies to an already rejected foreign programme, told an audience tonight that the first real duty of the nation is to "put its own house in order."

"In a world readjusting itself after the trials of war," he said, "the United States could best lend its aid to distressed foreign nations by setting an example of steadfast democracy and equal opportunity." Tersely he reviewed the programme for domestic rehabilitation, presented by him in his many campaign speeches, and declared the progressive thought of the American people to be a programme rather than concern itself longer with the Versailles league covenant.

League Position Restated.
Tonight's meeting also was addressed by Judge Nathan L. Miller, the republican nominee for governor. Earlier at Rochester Senator Harding had stated again his position on the league and had challenged democratic critics to show wherein he had been inconsistent.

Tonight's speech was the last of the campaign on Senator Harding's speaking schedule outside his home state.

In his reference to the league tonight the nominee said there was no difference between him and Governor Cox "in our realization that the American people desire to enter into some kind of an association of nations which will prevent war and interweave all peoples with the bonds of peaceful co-operation."

"But there are two marked differences between us," he continued. "The first of these is to be found in the fact that my opponent is insisting upon the adoption of the president's unchanged league."

Wilson Plan Held Rejected.
"The republican position is the exact opposite. The American people, as well as the senate of the United States, long ago rejected the president's plan, which my opponent is now trying to keep alive. Even if my opponent were elected he would be unable to put his programme into effect and America would have to wait, for many years, perhaps, before she could be held upon any policy."

"I consider it much more constructive to refrain from dictation of any international programme and to be more constructive to show a willingness to consult America, to harmonize America, to consult the best opinion of America, the senate of the United States and the will of the people. I do not find any inspiration in carrying on this campaign under the banner of a hopeless division of opinion."

Rival Programme Criticized.
"I have been unwilling to accept the democratic programme because it is not only un-American and unwise, but because it is wholly impossible of fulfillment and simply tends to keep the American people in a ferment of useless controversy. It is my duty to turn my back upon the impossible, and to set my face toward the future with full hope for a united and constructive plan in our world affairs. It is in this same attitude that nations of Europe are now found, and it is in this attitude that the overwhelming majority of our American people have fixed their determination."

"It appears that it is the duty of America and Americans to set good examples to the world. Accordingly, I have conscientiously suggested measures for the reinstatement of constitutional government to replace the false label of democracy, which has masked an unparalleled centralization of power in the executive."

Forward Policy Is Wanted.
"I have been preaching the gospel of less government in business and more business in government. I have been asking Americans to join in a policy of going forward constructively in the conservation and development of our national resources, in the upbuilding of our foreign trade and our merchant marine, in the proper measures for maintaining the health of our American agriculture and in the immediate solution of the problems which disturb our industrial peace to the detriment of all of us."

"I have been preaching the gospel of a democratic senate in order to avert the infamy of a separate peace with Germany and to save the league. They are weary of the chorus of republican katydid croaking. He did he didn't? They have finally concluded to enmesh to its friends the only plan for world peace, one agreed to by both great and small nations. They will select a four-square president instead of a human weather-vane."

Senator Harding has stopped oscillating only once, and that was when he said of the league and its reservations at Des Moines: "I do not intend any clarifying reservations. I stand for rejection."

"Senator Johnson points out that Senator Harding has 'put the league of nations behind him' and rejects not only the league but any modifications of it. The American people agree with Senator Johnson and they will vote for Governor Cox, who has put the league in front of him."

"Senator Johnson speaks with proper resentment of 'individuals and newspapers which misrepresent and misinterpret Senator Harding's words,' challenges their falsification, as he properly calls it, and says bluntly they may have their faces but not the league."

"In that list of newspapers and individuals I am sure that Senator Johnson silently puts the name of Senator Harding himself."

DUTY IS AT HOME, DECLARES HARDING

Democrats Trying to Hide Issues, Is Charge.

IRON POLICIES RAPPED

Organization to Link All Peoples Declared Essential, but Wilson's Plan is Rejected.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 21.—Senator Harding, charging that the democratic party had attempted to "blind" the voters to domestic issues by diverting its campaign energies to an already rejected foreign programme, told an audience tonight that the first real duty of the nation is to "put its own house in order."

"In a world readjusting itself after the trials of war," he said, "the United States could best lend its aid to distressed foreign nations by setting an example of steadfast democracy and equal opportunity." Tersely he reviewed the programme for domestic rehabilitation, presented by him in his many campaign speeches, and declared the progressive thought of the American people to be a programme rather than concern itself longer with the Versailles league covenant.

League Position Restated.
Tonight's meeting also was addressed by Judge Nathan L. Miller, the republican nominee for governor. Earlier at Rochester Senator Harding had stated again his position on the league and had challenged democratic critics to show wherein he had been inconsistent.

Tonight's speech was the last of the campaign on Senator Harding's speaking schedule outside his home state.

In his reference to the league tonight the nominee said there was no difference between him and Governor Cox "in our realization that the American people desire to enter into some kind of an association of nations which will prevent war and interweave all peoples with the bonds of peaceful co-operation."

"But there are two marked differences between us," he continued. "The first of these is to be found in the fact that my opponent is insisting upon the adoption of the president's unchanged league."

Wilson Plan Held Rejected.
"The republican position is the exact opposite. The American people, as well as the senate of the United States, long ago rejected the president's plan, which my opponent is now trying to keep alive. Even if my opponent were elected he would be unable to put his programme into effect and America would have to wait, for many years, perhaps, before she could be held upon any policy."

"I consider it much more constructive to refrain from dictation of any international programme and to be more constructive to show a willingness to consult America, to harmonize America, to consult the best opinion of America, the senate of the United States and the will of the people. I do not find any inspiration in carrying on this campaign under the banner of a hopeless division of opinion."

Rival Programme Criticized.
"I have been unwilling to accept the democratic programme because it is not only un-American and unwise, but because it is wholly impossible of fulfillment and simply tends to keep the American people in a ferment of useless controversy. It is my duty to turn my back upon the impossible, and to set my face toward the future with full hope for a united and constructive plan in our world affairs. It is in this same attitude that nations of Europe are now found, and it is in this attitude that the overwhelming majority of our American people have fixed their determination."

"It appears that it is the duty of America and Americans to set good examples to the world. Accordingly, I have conscientiously suggested measures for the reinstatement of constitutional government to replace the false label of democracy, which has masked an unparalleled centralization of power in the executive."

Forward Policy Is Wanted.
"I have been preaching the gospel of less government in business and more business in government. I have been asking Americans to join in a policy of going forward constructively in the conservation and development of our national resources, in the upbuilding of our foreign trade and our merchant marine, in the proper measures for maintaining the health of our American agriculture and in the immediate solution of the problems which disturb our industrial peace to the detriment of all of us."

"I have been preaching the gospel of a democratic senate in order to avert the infamy of a separate peace with Germany and to save the league. They are weary of the chorus of republican katydid croaking. He did he didn't? They have finally concluded to enmesh to its friends the only plan for world peace, one agreed to by both great and small nations. They will select a four-square president instead of a human weather-vane."

Senator Harding has stopped oscillating only once, and that was when he said of the league and its reservations at Des Moines: "I do not intend any clarifying reservations. I stand for rejection."

"Senator Johnson points out that Senator Harding has 'put the league of nations behind him' and rejects not only the league but any modifications of it. The American people agree with Senator Johnson and they will vote for Governor Cox, who has put the league in front of him."

"Senator Johnson speaks with proper resentment of 'individuals and newspapers which misrepresent and misinterpret Senator Harding's words,' challenges their falsification, as he properly calls it, and says bluntly they may have their faces but not the league."

"In that list of newspapers and individuals I am sure that Senator Johnson silently puts the name of Senator Harding himself."

DUTY IS AT HOME, DECLARES HARDING

Democrats Trying to Hide Issues, Is Charge.

IRON POLICIES RAPPED

Organization to Link All Peoples Declared Essential, but Wilson's Plan is Rejected.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 21.—Senator Harding, charging that the democratic party had attempted to "blind" the voters to domestic issues by diverting its campaign energies to an already rejected foreign programme, told an audience tonight that the first real duty of the nation is to "put its own house in order."

"In a world readjusting itself after the trials of war," he said, "the United States could best lend its aid to distressed foreign nations by setting an example of steadfast democracy and equal opportunity." Tersely he reviewed the programme for domestic rehabilitation, presented by him in his many campaign speeches, and declared the progressive thought of the American people to be a programme rather than concern itself longer with the Versailles league covenant.

League Position Restated.
Tonight's meeting also was addressed by Judge Nathan L. Miller, the republican nominee for governor. Earlier at Rochester Senator Harding had stated again his position on the league and had challenged democratic critics to show wherein he had been inconsistent.

Tonight's speech was the last of the campaign on Senator Harding's speaking schedule outside his home state.

In his reference to the league tonight the nominee said there was no difference between him and Governor Cox "in our realization that the American people desire to enter into some kind of an association of nations which will prevent war and interweave all peoples with the bonds of peaceful co-operation."

"But there are two marked differences between us," he continued. "The first of these is to be found in the fact that my opponent is insisting upon the adoption of the president's unchanged league."

Wilson Plan Held Rejected.
"The republican position is the exact opposite. The American people, as well as the senate of the United States, long ago rejected the president's plan, which my opponent is now trying to keep alive. Even if my opponent were elected he would be unable to put his programme into effect and America would have to wait, for many years, perhaps, before she could be held upon any policy."

"I consider it much more constructive to refrain from dictation of any international programme and to be more constructive to show a willingness to consult America, to harmonize America, to consult the best opinion of America, the senate of the United States and the will of the people. I do not find any inspiration in carrying on this campaign under the banner of a hopeless division of opinion."

Rival Programme Criticized.
"I have been unwilling to accept the democratic programme because it is not only un-American and unwise, but because it is wholly impossible of fulfillment and simply tends to keep the American people in a ferment of useless controversy. It is my duty to turn my back upon the impossible, and to set my face toward the future with full hope for a united and constructive plan in our world affairs. It is in this same attitude that nations of Europe are now found, and it is in this attitude that the overwhelming majority of our American people have fixed their determination."

"It appears that it is the duty of America and Americans to set good examples to the world. Accordingly, I have conscientiously suggested measures for the reinstatement of constitutional government to replace the false label of democracy, which has masked an unparalleled centralization of power in the executive."

Forward Policy Is Wanted.
"I have been preaching the gospel of less government in business and more business in government. I have been asking Americans to join in a policy of going forward constructively in the conservation and development of our national resources, in the upbuilding of our foreign trade and our merchant marine, in the proper measures for maintaining the health of our American agriculture and in the immediate solution of the problems which disturb our industrial peace to the detriment of all of us."

"I have been preaching the gospel of a democratic senate in order to avert the infamy of a separate peace with Germany and to save the league. They are weary of the chorus of republican katydid croaking. He did he didn't? They have finally concluded to enmesh to its friends the only plan for world peace, one agreed to by both great and small nations. They will select a four-square president instead of a human weather-vane."

Senator Harding has stopped oscillating only once, and that was when he said of the league and its reservations at Des Moines: "I do not intend any clarifying reservations. I stand for rejection."

"Senator Johnson points out that Senator Harding has 'put the league of nations behind him' and rejects not only the league but any modifications of it. The American people agree with Senator Johnson and they will vote for Governor Cox, who has put the league in front of him."

"Senator Johnson speaks with proper resentment of 'individuals and newspapers which misrepresent and misinterpret Senator Harding's words,' challenges their falsification, as he properly calls it, and says bluntly they may have their faces but not the league."

"In that list of newspapers and individuals I am sure that Senator Johnson silently puts the name of Senator Harding himself."

DUTY IS AT HOME, DECLARES HARDING

Democrats Trying to Hide Issues, Is Charge.

IRON POLICIES RAPPED

Organization to Link All Peoples Declared Essential, but Wilson's Plan is Rejected.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Oct. 21.—Senator Harding, charging that the democratic party had attempted to "blind" the voters to domestic issues by diverting its campaign energies to an already rejected foreign programme, told an audience tonight that the first real duty of the nation is to "put its own house in order."

"In a world readjusting itself after the trials of war," he said, "the United States could best lend its aid to distressed foreign nations by setting an example of steadfast democracy and equal opportunity." Tersely he reviewed the programme for domestic rehabilitation, presented by him in his many campaign speeches, and declared the progressive thought of the American people to be a programme rather than concern itself longer with the Versailles league covenant.

League Position Restated.
Tonight's meeting also was addressed by Judge Nathan L. Miller, the republican nominee for governor. Earlier at Rochester Senator Harding had stated again his position on the league and had challenged democratic critics to show wherein he had been inconsistent.

Tonight's speech was the last of the campaign on Senator Harding's speaking schedule outside his home state.

In his reference to the league tonight the nominee said there was no difference between him and Governor Cox "in our realization that the American people desire to enter into some kind of an association of nations which will prevent war and interweave all peoples with the bonds of peaceful co-operation."

"But there are two marked differences between us," he continued. "The first of these is to be found in the fact that my opponent is insisting upon the adoption of the president's unchanged league."

Wilson Plan Held Rejected.
"The republican position is the exact opposite. The American people, as well as the senate of the United States, long ago rejected the president's plan, which my opponent is now trying to keep alive. Even if my opponent were elected he would be unable to put his programme into effect and America would have to wait, for many years, perhaps, before she could be held upon any policy."

"I consider it much more constructive to refrain from dictation of any international programme and to be more constructive to show a willingness to consult America, to harmonize America, to consult the best opinion of America, the senate of the United States and the will of the people. I do not find any inspiration in carrying on this campaign under the banner of a hopeless division of opinion."

Rival Programme Criticized.
"I have been unwilling to accept the democratic programme because it is not only un-American and unwise, but because it is wholly impossible of fulfillment and simply tends to keep the American people in a ferment of useless controversy. It is my duty to turn my back upon the impossible, and to set my face toward the future with full hope for a united and constructive plan in our world affairs. It is in this same attitude that nations of Europe are now found, and it is in this attitude that the overwhelming majority of our American people have fixed their determination."

"It appears that it is the duty of America and Americans to set good examples to the world. Accordingly, I have conscientiously suggested measures for the reinstatement of constitutional government to replace the false label of democracy, which has masked an unparalleled centralization of power in the executive."

Forward Policy Is Wanted.
"I have been preaching the gospel of less government in business and more business in government. I have been asking Americans to join in a policy of going forward constructively in the conservation and development of our national resources, in the upbuilding of our foreign trade and our merchant marine, in the proper measures for maintaining the health of our American agriculture and in the immediate solution of the problems which disturb our industrial peace to the detriment of all of us."

"I have been preaching the gospel of a democratic senate in order to avert the infamy of a separate peace with Germany and to save the league. They are weary of the chorus of republican katydid croaking. He did he didn't? They have finally concluded to enmesh to its friends the only plan for world peace, one agreed to by both great and small nations. They will select a four-square president instead of a human weather-vane."

Senator Harding has stopped oscillating only once, and that was when he said of the league and its reservations at Des Moines: "I do not intend any clarifying reservations. I stand for rejection."

"Senator Johnson points out that Senator Harding has 'put the league of nations behind him' and rejects not only the league but any modifications of it. The American people agree with Senator Johnson and they will vote for Governor Cox, who has put the league in front of him."

"Senator Johnson speaks with proper resentment of 'individuals and newspapers which misrepresent and misinterpret Senator Harding's words,' challenges their falsification, as he properly calls it, and says bluntly they may have their faces but not the league."

"In that list of newspapers and individuals I am sure that Senator Johnson silently puts the name of Senator Harding himself."

EXTRA!
Sale of Gloria
Aluminum Sauce
Pans and
Preserving
Kettles
At $1.49 Each

In our Basement at this low price we place on sale a limited number of four-quart covered Sauce Pans in lifetime quality; also six-quart Preserving Kettles in Gloria quality. While any remain Friday at..... $1.49

BAR PINS AND NECKLACES
On Sale
Friday at..... 49c

At this special sale price you have choice from five different styles in White Stone Bar Pins with silver front and Platinoed Bar Pins; also 54-inch imitation Pearl Necklaces. Good, well-made jewelry considerably under 49c priced at.....

Butterick—Publisher
The Delineator ($2.50 a Year) Everybody's Magazine ($2.75 a Year) The Designer ($2.00 a Year)

Robert's Bros
THIRD & MORRISON

EXTRA!
Sale of Gloria
Aluminum Sauce
Pans and
Preserving
Kettles
At $1.49 Each

In our Basement at this low price we place on sale a limited number of four-quart covered Sauce Pans in lifetime quality; also six-quart Preserving Kettles in Gloria quality. While any remain Friday at..... $1.49

BAR PINS AND NECKLACES
On Sale
Friday at..... 49c

At this special sale price you have choice from five different styles in White Stone Bar Pins with silver front and Platinoed Bar Pins; also 54-inch imitation Pearl Necklaces. Good, well-made jewelry considerably under 49c priced at.....

Butterick—Publisher
The Delineator ($2.50 a Year) Everybody's Magazine ($2.75 a Year) The Designer ($2.00 a Year)

Robert's Bros
THIRD & MORRISON

THE LOWEST PRICES GUARANTEED WITH EVERY CHANGE OF MARKET

Principal Portland Agents Butterick Patterns. All the New Styles Are Here in All Sizes.

Start Saving!—Profit By Our 1041st

Bargain Friday Sale

Come, Join the Great Host Who Continually Join With Us in Making Friday the Banner Day for Value Giving; Who Never Fail to Profit Extraordinarily by the Fine Offerings Found Here. Read These Items:

Women Who Attend Friday's Sale Can Purchase Fashionable Serviceable Coats That Are Well Tailored and Finely Finished Throughout in Velour, Bolivia and Polo Cloth, at a Price Lowering of Greatest Importance—

For Autumn Days and Winter wear these splendid Coats are most appropriate, for they are fashionable, serviceable and will furnish the necessary warmth for these chilly days and Friday's price reduction should induce immediate selection.

About 50 Coats in this special offering in all sizes from 16 to 44 in such popular materials as Velours, Bolivia and Polo Cloths in the best colors. Particularly attractive are those models in 48-inch length finished with collar of Sealine Fur and belt and fancy silk lined—but there are many other styles that will appeal to those who would purchase a very desirable coat at considerable less than real worth. Your choice from the entire assortment

Bargain Friday at..... $29.85
..... $3.15 Friday's Special Price for Fine Silk Flounce Petticoats $3.15
..... In Various Styles and Colors—All Sizes.

EXTRA! Just Half Price! For Just 115 Pairs of EXTRA!

Cotton and Wool BLANKETS

Samples and Odd Lots Gathered for Bargain Friday's Sale and Offered at Exactly ONE-HALF the Marked Regular Selling Prices.

Included are cotton, wool mixed and all wool Blankets in white, gray, tan and plaid styles—all sizes, all weights and all good qualities that were splendid values at our regularly low selling prices, but because these blankets have become more or less soiled from display or handling the entire assortment, consisting of 115 pairs, will be closed out Bargain Friday at HALF PRICE.

Not a pair in the lot damaged or imperfect in weave or finish. Not more than two pairs to any one purchaser—No phone or mail orders and none sent C. O. D. Come early and secure first choice at an extraordinary saving.

Linen Lawn For Handkerchiefs 1/2 Price 50c Yard