

ROLPH SAYS BAKER SHOULD BE ELECTED

San Francisco Mayor Thinks Portland Executive Big Man.

HARDING VICTORY SEEN

California Will Go Republican by Big Vote, Is Prediction, and Waste Is Denounced.

"Mayor Baker is one of the ablest and most fearless men in public life today and is a man who is possessed of peculiar characteristics that make him an excellent executive," was the glowing tribute paid to Portland's mayor yesterday by James Rolph, mayor of San Francisco, who was in Portland on business. Baker in Washington, D. C., continued Mayor Rolph, "during the governors' and mayors' conference called by the president. If your people could have watched Mayor Baker in action there they would have seen the reason for the high regard and respect for him that is held by the big men of the country.

Re-Election Is Urged.
"Mayor Baker has a punch and kick in him that are worth while. Portland is to be congratulated in having a man like him in the mayor's chair, and if he is willing to continue to serve the people in that capacity, your people surely ought to keep him on the job."

A complete republican sweep will result on November 2 in California, according to Mayor Rolph. The Bear state is solid for Harding and Coolidge.

"California has a republican registration of about 6 to 1, and the general feeling prevails that the entire republican ticket will be successful. Although business men throughout California are optimistic over the future, the Mayor said, the present policy of the United States shipping board in the operation of its ships is causing a tremendous disturbance in business channels.

Great Waste Is Charged.
"This nation and its people will awake some morning faced with a colossal deficit due to the waste of funds in the operation of the ships of the shipping board. If men were to shovel $20 gold pieces into the manhole of the Portland sewers as fast as they could be turned out of the United States mint the waste would be no greater.

"Unless some definite policy is adopted by the shipping board for the operation of its ships, every private ship owner will go broke," Mayor Rolph said that the average business man in California was looking toward the change in the national administration next March for the return of stability in business conditions, not alone on the Pacific coast, but throughout the United States.

JAIL ENDS BRIDAL JOY

Bad Checks Lead Scio Woman to Sue for Divorce.

ALBANY, Or., Oct. 22.—(Special).—That her husband has ostracized and banished society and friends was an allegation of Florence Taylor of Scio in her divorce suit against Nelson J. Taylor of Echo, which was tried before Judge Bingham in the state circuit court here yesterday.

Mrs. Taylor testified that a few days before their marriage at San Diego, Cal., March 3, 1917, her husband bought an automobile, and four days after the wedding Taylor was in jail at Santa Ana, Cal., because the check he had given for the car had been returned. She said his relatives came to his rescue and made good the check and that Taylor was paroled and they came to Oregon. The wife said, however, that Taylor later began issuing checks without funds to cover them, and his parents at different times made them good.
