AUTOS CLASH; TWO HURT—Nurse and Physician in Hospital as Result of Collision.

Miss Marie Comport, a nurse, living at 881 Lovejoy street, and Dr. A. Tizler, same address, are in St. Vincent's hospital with serious injuries as a result of a collision between automobiles driven by Dr. Tizler and Nelson Delude, East Fifteenth street, at Seventeenth and Lovejoy streets yesterday afternoon. Delude was ordered by Traffic sergeant Frederick Freilberg pending a complete investigation of the accident.

At the hospital last night it was said that Dr. Tizler is the most seriously injured. He has a possible skull fracture as well as injuries to his left side and a laceration of the face and head. Miss Comport was injured about the left side. She also sustained severe cuts, but is expected to recover.

The automobiles are said to have come together at a fair rate of speed almost in the middle of the intersection. The machine driven by Dr. Tizler was struck for a distance of more than 30 feet and by an occurrence was hurled to the ground.

Both automobiles were badly damaged, but Dr. Delude escaped with slight bruises.

Late advices indicated that the party of Northern Pacific immigration and industry officials who were expected to reach Portland at a late hour last night will not arrive until 7:30 this morning. This change of schedule will not interfere with the entertainment programme, however, as the committee were scheduled to meet visitors at the union station at 9 o'clock.

The party, headed by E. F. Benson, manager of the recently created department of immigration and industry, includes H. W. Byerly, general immigration agent, and five traveling immigration agents from the middle west, John F. Fox, O. L. Stark, F. J. Elliott, R. E. Goodemote and George A. Jaben. The party was joined at Spokane by C. E. Arney, western immigration and industrial agent, and P. E. Bense, special agricultural agent from Toppensish, Wash.

The party will be escorted to the Oregon building, where a glimpse of Oregon's agricultural products will be afforded. At 10 A. M. a meeting will be held in the green room of the Chamber of Commerce, where addresses will be made by local representatives of the various industrial resources of the state.

Every day new dodgers are appearing and are being mailed throughout the state, heretofore the literature has dealt with the presidential candidates but yesterday a broadside was printed making an attack on R.

In the Public

Can You Imagine This?

"Yes, I had Mr. ——— operate on Mary's throat—you know he's operating for half price this week."

Can you imagine a statement like that? And yet many people will take the very same chances with their eyes and the eyes of their children by buying glasses at "any old store" just as they would sugar or coffee, knowing, or, at least, they should know, that the eyes are even more delicate than the throat and require just as highly specialized skill in examining and fitting proper glasses.

Come in any time—for advice or an examination—here, where you take no chances.

the same area are opposed to the reconstruction. This was revealed in the survey conducted by the department of public works ordered by City Commissioner Barbur in an effort to gain true sentiment among property owners of the district.

The hearing on the application for a permit to rebuild the hospital will be heard before the city council this week, it was announced yesterday. Controversy over the proposed hospital has been carried on for weeks. Recently a petition bearing the names of 114 property owners in the district favoring the reconstruction of the hospital was filed with the city council. Another petition opposed to construction of the building on its present site was presented to council some weeks ago.

Ralph R. Dunway, representing the directors of the hospital association, recently issued a statement in which he said that opposition to the rebuilding of the hospital emanated, in the main, from persons who own vacant property near the hospital, and who had false fears that rebuilding of the hospital on its present site would interfere with the sale of such property.

The unbiased canvass made by the city as announced indicates that my analysis of the situation was correct," said Mr. Dunway yesterday. "The home owners in the district are not the national committee, but the state democratic management is applying its own needs.
