Special Exhibit and Sale of Colorful Western Paintings by JOE KNOWLES Famous Naturalist Artist

Paintings of our own part of the world by an artist famous for his knowledge of nature and the vision and skill with which he interprets it.

A dozen subjects are represented, each one charming in color and full of western spirit.

"The Deer," a moonlight snow scene showing a deer startled by a moving shadow of a cougar.

"The Sea Gulls," a Pacific coast scene full of early winter twilight color.

"The Red Fox," silhouette against a snow-covered landscape showing against the Cascade mountains.

It is a most unusual opportunity to get a really valuable painting for a small sum—the pictures are $50 to $300 (add 10% tax).

—Meier & Frank's: Seventh Floor.

"The Hunter," or stray in the sagebrush land of central Oregon—almost Spanish in treatment and color.

Besides there are equally interesting scenes, such as a California brown bear, a wolf on a snowy peak at night, a willow vista at North Beach, a glimpse of fishing rocks with the spurge and splash of the Pacific, a clear day from the butte at North Beach and others.

Introducing the new

Chivalry Cretonnes

"Ye knights and ladies, draw ye near; And make my new friends welcome here!"

So urge the American makers of these entirely original Colonial Chivalry Cretonnes which are inspired by the daring deeds of knights of old and are adapted to a variety of present-day interior decorative purposes.

Some of the unique designs are entitled "King Arthur in the Forest," the famous castle of the Round Table called "Camelot," the fair "Queen Guenevere," the medieval "Tournament," the invasion of Britain called "William the Conqueror" and the spring-like affair titled "Primavera."

All are full of color and action and they have so much significance that every interior decorator and owner of a home is invited to see them.
