DRINK SELLERS FINED

Rivalry of Merchants Lands Them in Net of Prohibition Law.

Commercial rivalry between Jim Cocas and Lewis Mitchell, soft drink dealers, Fifth and Burnside streets, was adjudicated yesterday in federal court by Judge Wolverton, when both were arraigned on the charge of selling grape juice with an unlawful potency. Deputy Federal Attorney Fiegel, for the prosecution, presented the gov-ernment's contention that both dealerior slooholic content of their grape was said to be common knowledge on Burnside street.

All controversy over the respective merits of the unlawful drink sold by the two defendants was set at rest when Judge Woiverton fined each $250, thus registering judicial opinion that the market has that the contest had been a tie.
