

PREMIER LIVESTOCK SHOW IS ASSEMBLED

Tenth International Largest Ever Held in America.

FINEST BREEDS ENTERED

Pedigreed Aristocrats Among Cattle, Horses, Sheep and Swine—Here to Compete for Honors.

There is a barnyard medley in North Portland, with hundreds of pedigreed performers groomed and stabled, for tomorrow morning will witness the opening of the tenth annual Pacific International livestock exposition— not only bigger and better than it was last year, to use the trite old phrase with justice, but actually the largest exhibition of pure-bred stock ever held on the continent. The closing day will be Saturday, November 20.

Among the more recent arrivals were eight cars of fine Holstein dairy stock from Tillamook, the property of Holly W. Watson, a reformed newspaper man, and valued at $100,000. Members of this herd had their own way with the judges at the recent state fair, and experts say that the present delegation will win at least several ribbons.

California Sending Exhibits. Seven carloads are expected today from southern California pointers—Holstein, Guernsey and Jersey thoroughbreds in the dairy division, and Hereford and Shorthorn in the beef breeds.

The largest single exhibition class will number 34 Jersey cattle, with other classes in the dairy division represented as follows: Holstein, 255; Guernsey, 169; Ayrshire, 85.

In the beef breeds the entries are numbered as follows: Shorthorn, 265; Hereford, 185; Aberdeen-Angus, 85.

Two hundred draft horses will be an exhibition, with its fancy show animals—gaited horses, jumpers, hunters and light harness entries.

There are 600 entries in the sheep division, 600 in the swine and 75 in the goat divisions.

Chicago Show Is Eclipsed.

The National Dairy show at Chicago last year, for example, boasted 550 entries. In the present Pacific International exposition the entries in the dairy division alone are recorded at 854.

At the recent National Jersey show, held in Louisiana, there were 215 entries from 26 breeders. The Jersey entries in North Portland tomorrow will number 224 from 45 breeders, and some of the exhibits traveled 1,000 miles to be present.

One series of entries in which local breeders are keenly interested is the Holstein herd from Essendale, British Columbia, Colony farm—the prize dairying post of the Dominion government itself.

Tempting cash prizes, aggregating $75,000, have summoned entries in all classes from near and far and have assured the presence of the finest stock on the continent. Yet the exhibition is more than a mere display of purebreds and has been named a "livestock university."

GIFT OFFER EXPLAINED

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS HAVE SURPLUS FOR MONUMENT.

Funds, Says Statement, Are Apart From Those Necessary to Carry on Soldier Welfare Work.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—National Headquarters of the Knights of Columbus has issued a statement explaining the motives actuating the organization's offer of $50,000,000 to the American Legion for the erection of a permanent war monument in Washington.

The statement was in reply to the public declaration of Marvin G. Sperry, national president of the Private Soldiers' and Sailors' Legion, that such use of funds collected by subscription for other purposes would constitute "a moral breach of trust and an act of injustice."

After completing its war work abroad and conducting educational and employment work for the benefit of ex-soldiers in this country, the statement declared, the organization "still has funds apart from those necessary to maintain its reconstruction work to devote to the soldiers' welfare."

"In giving this building to the nation through the American Legion, the veterans' organization of broadest constituency and largest membership," the statement said, "the Knights are providing free to the nation a monument that otherwise would be erected through taxation, another of the much-dreaded 'drives.'"

DRAINAGE PROJECT URGED

Salem Commercial Club Seeks to Reclaim Valley White Lands.

SALEM, Or., Nov. 11.—(Special.)—The Salem Commercial club at a meeting last night launched a movement looking toward drainage of the so-called white lands in the Willamette valley, so that they may provide additional homes for the many people coming to this section from eastern states.

C. L. Lewis of the Oregon Growers' Co-operative association, in reviewing his recent trip to California, declared that the white lands of the Willamette valley looked just the same as when he came to Oregon 35 years ago, while in the southern state the lands had been improved and made productive. Dr. Lewis advocated an organized effort to get a drainage law through the legislature and told of results that had been obtained in Illinois, where land that once was worthless is now selling at $400 an acre.

Nurse Speaks at Chehalis.

CENTRALIA, Wash., Nov. 11.—(Special.)—Mrs. Laura Norton, Centralia's Red Cross community nurse, Tuesday addressed a meeting of the Cascade Parent-teacher association in Chehalis, telling of the progress of a health campaign she has inaugurated in local schools. A movement is on foot to employ a community nurse in Chehalis.

Eugene Schools Enroll 2568.

EUGENE, Or., Nov. 11.—(Special.)—The total number of pupils enrolled in the Eugene public schools so far this year is 2568, according to the monthly report of E. F. Carleton, city superintendent. Of this number 1249 are boys and 1319 girls.

NEGRO EARNS BIG WAGES

LABORER GETS $148 IN WEEK FOR CARRYING RAIL TIES.

Money Is Spent on Pinery for Wife and High Living, With Little on Deposit in Bank.

CARBONDALE, Ill., Nov. 11.—(Special.)—Charles Ghant, a negro employed in a factory here which makes a specialty of treating railroad ties chemically, jumped into national notoriety when he broke all the records for high wages in this section recently, drawing one week's check for $148. To earn it he had carried 527 ties, weighing about 150 pounds each, a distance of from 10 to 45 feet. As he worked a nine-hour day, he carried more than 100 ties an hour.

Since he has been drawing high wages, Ghant's wife has been indulging a desire for dress, and a goodly portion of the strong man's earnings go for silks and expensive finery. Ghant himself usually takes a few days off now and then for a spree.

In spite of Ghant's large earnings, or perhaps because of them, he has only a small bank balance and is not inclined to decrease his living expenses by diverting some of it to a savings account.

The plant in which Ghant is employed has difficulty in getting men to do similar work, although it advertises for them constantly. Most white men have not the physical endurance to stand the monotonous work of carrying the heavy ties. Negroes, it is said, are often well fitted for the work, but they are hard to get.

HUN BOND DRIVE ALLEGED

BANK EMPLOYEES QUIZZED IN EVENING MAIL CASE.

Transactions of German Financial Agent Are Dragged Into Trial of Dr. E. A. Rumely.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Questioning of bank employees by government counsel in an effort to connect the alleged German purchase of the Evening Mail with a German bond drive before America's entrance into the war was a feature in the trial of Dr. Edward A. Rumely, formerly publisher of the newspaper, who is charged with making false statements regarding its ownership to the alien property custodian in 1917.

Testimony in this connection, admitted by the court after objections by the defense, led to the examination of witnesses in regard to the financial transactions made here in 1915 and 1916 by Heinrich F. Albrecht, Germany's financial agent. The prosecution announced it would attempt to prove that the alleged transactions were carried on between the defendant and the German agent through a man employed for the purpose, and that Dr. Rumely received funds from the German agent without actually taking part in the negotiations.

T. Raymond St. John, a member of the law firm of Hays, Kauffman & Lindheim, testified that George Renner, an employe in the German agent's office, brought sums aggregating $250,000 to his office, which he in turn handed over to Walter Lyon, the alleged "go-between." Attorneys Kauffman and Lindheim are co-defendants with Dr. Rumely.

The Angelus Artrio

—Most Wonderful of Reproducing Pianos

Fancy a home in which dwells constantly such world-famous pianists as Leopold Godowsky, Tina Lerner, Yolanda Mero, Ossip Gabrilowitsch, Harold Bauer and a dozen others. Picture to yourself the joy, the privilege of hearing at your own sweet will, the works of the world's greatest composers, played by these artists with all the rare beauty and poetry of interpretation that has made them world famous, with all the magic grace and fluency of technique that has made you gasp with astonished delight.

Fancy, also, the happiness of hearing at will the melodies that you have ever loved, those soulful, touching harmonies of your favorite opera, the ballads of your youth or the splendid tuneful beauty of a magnificent Strauss concert waltz rendered as is possible only to the divinely gifted few.

All this and more the Angelus brings. The Angelus is different. Different in the truthfulness with which it records the playing of the greatest artists, different in the fidelity with which it reproduces his renditions. It is different in the gentle deftness of its touch in softer passages, in the gradual rise of its crescendos, in the sudden crashing force of its fortissimos and it is vastly different in the charm and beauty of its colorful effects.

You should hear the Angelus. Hear it if only to know to your own complete satisfaction that the world's greatest pianists dwell at your very elbow, to be heard, to be enjoyed at your pleasure. A most cordial welcome awaits you.
