AUTOMOBILE VICTIMS IMPROVE.—Five persons, who were injured in an auto accident Thursday night, were resting easily last night, but the 16-year-old youth, Langdon Howard, who is said to have been responsible for the crash, was not able to appear in the municipal court yesterday to answer the several charges that were preferred against him. Langdon was riding a motorcycle and hit a car driven by W. J. Wallace of Clackamas, while he is said to have been traveling 25 miles an hour. The impact turned the Wallace car completely over and all of the occupants were hurt. Langdon lives at Capitol Hill. Mrs. Eva J. MR. YEON MAY ACCEPT CAPITALIST IS URGED TO BE HIGHWAY COMMISSIONER.

Builder of Columbia River Highway Told That It Is His Duty to Take Job.

John E. Yeon has been subjected to insistent urging to accept appointment on the state highway commission to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of S. Benson. Mr. Yeon, who was the first one offered the appointment, declined it, but has been informed that it is a public duty which he should take up. Although Mr. Yeon positively refused the appointment last Wednesday morning, and so telephoned Governor Olcott, he has reached a stage where he is now more giving the subject consideration.

If Mr. Yeon finally decides to accept, it will be on the ground that his presence on the highway commission is necessary, and not otherwise. There are rumblings of what might happen in the highway commission when the legislature meets unless Mr. Yeon is on the board, and Mr. Yeon does not want to see the commission "dynamited."

Governor Olcott has, for the second time, taken up the matter personally with Mr. Yeon. It is known that Mr. Yeon was endeavoring to inform himself yesterday about the construction work under way, and what work is contemplated, and what can be accomplished next year. His inquiry took a practical bent. This interest in the highway program is interpreted as an indication that Mr. Yeon may consent to serve.

As roadmaster of Multnomah county without pay, Mr. Yeon built the Columbia river highway, and gained a national reputation. He is thoroughly familiar with road construction problems and would bring his mind along this line. This is one of the many reasons why Governor Olcott on the highway commission is desired. Mr. Yeon expresses no enthusiasm over the prospect of being a commissioner, saying that he realizes the work it entails, and declaring that his business requires his presence.

LUMBER AT BOTTOM, SAYS EASTERN MAN

Further Decline Unlikely, Declares C. J. Gibson.

BUSINESS IS SLOW

Much Construction Held Back by Expectation of Lower Prices; Fir Popular in East.

That lumber prices have reached the bottom and will remain at the present level for at least six months is the opinion of C. J. Gibson, president of the Gibson Door company of Utica, N. Y., who is spending a few days in Portland on a business trip on which he is studying timber and building conditions in the Pacific northwest and other parts of the country.

"Business is exceptionally quiet in the east," said Mr. Gibson yesterday at the Portland hotel, "and there is still an acute house shortage in the principal cities of New York. Banks are not encouraging purely speculative building and those planning to construct homes are holding back in the hope that prices for materials will be much lower in the near future. It is not believed, however, that prices will drop in the next six months and after this period the market will be ruled by the law of supply and demand."

"Our company was the first to introduce Douglas fir in central New York and this commodity from the northwest is now becoming more and more popular every month with eastern dealers. Spruce is another product of the Pacific coast that is recognized for its fine quality, especially in the manufacture of pulp paper."

"The great lesson which I sincerely hope the west will take from the east is the necessity of care in cutting timber. The supply of eastern timber is nearly exhausted and the day will come when the entire country will depend on the forest resources of the west. In the early days of eastern logging millions of dollars were wasted by careless and improper destruction of trees. The woods of Wisconsin and Michigan are examples of this."

"Scientific reforestation is the policy which I believe must be carried out in this region if the coming generations are to enjoy the benefits of timber resources."

Rates Affect Shipments. "The rise in freight rates makes it almost prohibitive for eastern dealers to import the cheaper grades of lumber from the northwest, but some varieties are now used by practically every dealer in my state. This interchange of business has been a connecting link between two widely separated parts of the country."

"So far as I can learn, the result of the presidential election has not affected our business to any extent. Business men in general have declared their intention of waiting until after election before undertaking any work on a large scale. Now that the election is over, with no apparent effect on business, it can be seen that the waiting was caused by the fact that buyers are holding off from investment in the hope of a future drop in prices."

An incidental purpose of Mr. Gibson's visit here was to obtain two speakers from the northwest for the annual convention of the New York State Lumber Dealers' association at Utica next January. He extended an invitation to Frank Branch Riley, noted Portland lecturer, who is well known in New York through his public appearances in Buffalo, Albany, Rochester and New York City. The second speaker will be a lumberman with knowledge of the technical side of the industry.

Mr. Gibson will leave Portland today for Salt Lake City on his way home.
