

DRINK OF THOUSAND DEVILS, OPINION OF DRY SLEUTH.

DEATH LURKS IN STILLS

Operators Use Tomato Cans, Lead Coils, Wash Pans, Wire, Tin Cups, Zinc and Solder.

Officials were doing their best to trace a mysterious motor distillery outfit said to be operating in eastern Washington.

Drinking of a thousand devils, in the way one federal enforcement agent describes the fluids being peddled in Portland, and he bases his information on some 100 different types of stills and mashers that he has personally seized since last February.

Distilled fruit and vegetables from front-street commission houses, allowed to ferment and then run through a still made of old oyster cans or a green verdigris-infected copper work.

Fermentation Process Poisons. Distillation in the old days was an exact chemical process and whisky was made only from carefully selected ingredients.

When Alvin Estman was arrested near Drain, he was running a still that he had made from a five-gallon galvanized coffee can.

Police Scrape Off Poison. Jack Robinson and Harvey Allen, two other late operators, picked up a square galvanized tank and inside of this they had a coil of pure lead pipe through which the steam was sent from the boiling mash.

U. S. ARTISTS ACCLAIMED. Score With London Audiences.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—(Special Cable).—A man, returning to London after an absence of two months, has been the outstanding success of the current musical season.

Booze Breeds Criminals. In this regard, the finding of the San Francisco police is finding of 29 of insanity and several violent crimes.

TILLAMOOK TO ADVERTISE. Budget of Chamber of Commerce Calls for $10,000.

THE chamber of commerce in Tillamook, Or., Nov. 25.—(Special).—The chamber of commerce is making an earnest appeal to start a publicity campaign.
