JOSEPHINE ANGLERS BLOCK ROGUE PEACE

Sportsmen Who Live on River Believe They Were Slighted.

BEST TERMS ACCEPTABLE

Senator Smith and Representative Johnson Instructed to Close Stream Entirely.

Just when all the other factors in-terested in the Rogue river fish con-troversy had agreed to a tentative compromise which presaged peace on the stream for two years at least the Grants Pass sportsmen registered a prodigous kick.

The sportsm.n's league of Josephine county has instructed Senator Smith and Representative Johnson to have the legislature close the Rogue river to commercial fishing for four yours. However, the hands of Senator Smith and Mr. Johnson will not be tied, for the league has instruct-not be tied, for the league has instructed the delegation to make the best terms possible on regulating fishing in the river, provided they fail to close the stream entirely.

With this leeway to work on, the Josephine county delegation will be in position to negotiate with the anglers of Medford and the Maclear interests at the mouth of the Rogue. The viewpoint of the Josephine county sportsmen is that they, who live on the fiver, were not taken into consideration when the compromise agreement was drafted and they feel the slight.

More Fish Wanted Released.

More Fish Wanted Released. Henry O'Malley, chief of the Pacific coast division of the United States bureau of Fisheries, and Hugh Mitchell, superintendent of hatcheries for Oregon, Washington and Idaho, have insisted on increased release of fish at the mouth of the Rogue river for the benefit of the hatcheries at Trail and at Provelt, on the Applegate river. The steelhead hatchery is at Provelt and the salmon hatchery is operated at Trail.

For wears the Medford anglers, and

For years the Medford anglers, and there are about 206 in Jackson county, have been at war with the commercial fishing industry at the mouth of the river. This summer two representatives of the Jackson county anglers camped at the mouth for a fortnight and came away with a different viewpoint. They are now of the opinion that the commercial fishing industry. that the commercial fishing industry is entitled to some consideration. Medford has an idea that Grants Pass should not use nets, but conceded this point in the compromise measure.

In considering the proposed compromise the Losenhia county and the compromise compromise the considering the proposed compromise the considering the county and the considering the county and the county and the county are considered.

promise, the Josephine county eports-men's league admitted that shortening the season in the spring is a good thing, but they were even more par-cicularly interested in the agreement to abolish seines.

anglers. The drift nets are to have a mesh not less than eight and one-half inches, which is large enough for all fish to escape through except salmon. But while these proposed remedies are good, the Grants Pass anglars prafer a complete aholition of commercial fishing.

As the Jackson county delegation the government of the governmen

As the Jackson county delegation is friendly to the compromise and so are the government hatchery officials and members of the state fish and game commission, the Josephine county delegation will find it an impossible task in all probability to ty delegation will find it an impos-sible task, in all probability, to force the closing of the river and in the end the Josephine delegation may submit to the compromise agreement.
