Case of Christian Scientists Practically Closed.

EARLY DECISION UNLIKELY

Over Years Lies With Massa-

BOSTON, Dec. 1 .- The future policy of the Christian Science church lay with the full bench of the supreme ourt of Massachusetts today. fore an audience that included persons from England and other countries the court heard the last of the arguments between factions within the church as to the construction of deeds of trust on which Mary Baker Eddy founded the organization and its publishing activities. Except for the filing of briefs, the case was declared closed. A decision is not expected before March.

The controversies within the church mine before the court for arguments in questions of law. The disputed goints largely represented exceptions taken to the findings of Judge Fredic Dodge, who, as master in the riginal suit brought by the trustees of the Christian Science Publishing ociety against the board of directors of the church, sustained the plaintiffs in their main contentions. Since the litigation began in March, Since the litigation began in March, 1919, it has assumed various phases through intervening suits, but broadly speaking, the outstanding Issue is whether the authority of the board of directors of the Christian Science church extends over the trustees of the publishing society, which publishes the Christian Science Monitor and other church periodicals. Judge Dodge held that it did not.

Two Trust Deeds Cited,

Although not consolidated, the docket contains six cases, which were heard in sequence. First to be argued was the suit of the trustees of the Christian Science Publishing society against the directors of the Christian Science church, in which the phinitiff asked that the respondents be enjoined from interfering with the affairs of the publishing society. The trustees claimed that under a deed of trust made by Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy, founder of the church, they were independent of control by the directors, who, in the exercise of is usually seen in stories of a light ande by Mrs. Eddy and in conformity ith the plan of church government hich they maintain was laid down by Mrs. Eddy in the church manual, have sought to remove Lamont Row-lands from his office as trustee.

Judge Dodge, who heard the evidence, held that the directors did not have authority to remove Rowlands,

But if the powers of the trustees are broader than is provided by the church manwal, or if the directors without joint action by the first members have not the power to declare vacancies in the trusteeship, then Mrs. Hulin asserts the right of the first members to take such action as may result in the effective exercise of the powers of the directors in removing trustees.

Charitable Trust Claimed. State Attorney-General J. Weston Allen asked the court to declare that Allen asked the court to declare that under the will of Mrs. Eddy a public charitable trust was created when the First church of Christ, Scientist, was established; that the trust was organized and existed under the usage and discipline of the church, as set forth in the Manual, for the promotion and extension of the religion of Christian Science. The attorney-general wished all issues raised in other suits tried out in this information, as the multiplicity of suits, he said, would result in a great waste of the substance of the subsidiary charitable trust and a great loss to the dominant charitable trust, the mother church. charitable trust, the mother church. Mr. Allen further asked the court to hold that the directors are the gov-orning body of the church and have power to declare vacancies in the trusteeships of the publishing society and to determine what literature shall
