HEALTH LEAGUE PLANNED

Organization of a league for the onservation of public health will be discussed at the meeting of the City and County Medical society in the Portland hotel next Wednesday night. The meeting will be the annual one held by the society to elect officers. The health league has been organized in Washington and California and physicians have been considering for some time the organization of similar one in this state. Discussion of the new project is expected to at tract an unusually large number of physicians to the meeting Wednesday night, although the annual as sembly for the election of officer always has drawn a good crowd. An orchestra will furnish music for the occasion, and a quartet will sing sev-cral selections. The objects of the health league.

as announced by the doctors who favor it, will be to collect and publish data concerning the protection of public health. The physicians intend to appoint committees of specialists to study and report on the causes and effects of specific diseases, and con-ditions that constitute community health problems.
