

TERMINAL DECISION UP TO COMMISSION

Interstate Board Is Sent Details of Quarrel.

OSTER DELAY SOUGHT

Civic Clubs Committee Will Dispatch Representative to Washington if Need Arises.

Portland's railroad terminal situation is now up to the interstate commerce commission, the public service commission of Oregon and the city having wired a brief outline of the case, and full details are on the way by mail.

The vital feature now is to obtain a stay of execution of the ouster order, served on the Great Northern and the Spokane, Portland & Seattle lines by the Northern Pacific Terminal company, 60 per cent of the stock of which is controlled by the Southern Pacific and Union Pacific systems.

On behalf of the state commission, Fred G. Buchtel, chairman, last night wired to City Clerk B. A. Hitchison, a member of the interstate commerce commission, and to John L. Benson, general solicitor at Washington, D. C., urging the council, and great importance of an emergency restraining order. Mr. Buchtel wired Mr. Hitchison personally, not only because he is in intimate touch with the situation here, but because he feared some of the other members might be away from the capital on vacation, and he is of the opinion that Mr. Hitchison will make a special effort to get the facts before the members at the earliest possible time.

Injunction Sought.
It is to obtain such an injunction to prevent the execution of the ouster notice, effective December 21, that the members of the state commission and the city council, including Mayor Baker's special civic clubs committee, are now directing their efforts. The time is so short that they are urging the council and the interstate commission by telegram. A reply is expected at any time, and it is believed that the restraining order will be granted by the council in relation to it will be held, either here or in Washington, D. C., and that it may be necessary to send personal representatives to go into full details.

As previously published, Fred G. Buchtel, chairman of the state public service commission, last night took up the city's terminal case when it was first submitted to the commission last week, leaving State Commissioner Corry and the city in charge of the case hearing, which is in progress, in order to give the terminal subject full attention. Data were compiled by the commission staff and the full brief dispatched to Washington by registered letter yesterday. In addition telegrams carried a brief outline and stressed the urgency of a restraining order to save the public great confusion and inconvenience should the terminal tenant roads be permitted to oust the non-tenant lines December 21.

Special Committee Meets.
Mayor Baker's special committee, of which H. E. Van Duzer, president of the Chamber of Commerce, is chairman, met at noon yesterday, heard a statement from City Attorney LaRoche, committee secretary, on the recent developments in the case, and voted to send, if necessary, one of its own members to Washington, D. C., to supplement any others the city or state might send and to show the interest of the city's civic organizations in the case.

The clubs represented on the committee by their presidents also will back up the officials in the case in creating sentiment, it was voted.

Telegrams are Sent.
Telegrams were sent to the interstate commission yesterday by Mr. Van Duzer, chairman of the mayor's committee, and by Mr. LaRoche as city attorney. Mr. Van Duzer wired: "This committee, representing all of the civic organizations of the city of Portland, urges you to grant the petition for a preliminary order preventing the present status quo matter of public service commission against Northern Pacific Terminal company, filed with you, so that the matter may be fully investigated on its merits."

Mr. LaRoche's telegram was as follows: "City of Portland desires to intervene in public service commission of Oregon against Northern Pacific Terminal company and others and requests present situation be preserved until you can pass on merits of petition. Therefore, urges favorable action on application for preliminary order as this action is vital to interests of Portland."

CALIFORNIA ASKS FOR DATA
Information as to Portland Terminal to Be Used in Oakland.

SALEM, Or., Dec. 20.—(Special.)—The California public service commission has written to the Oregon public service commission asking for information with regard to the status of the Portland terminal, joint use of which is in controversy at the present time. Information to be furnished by the Oregon commission will be used, according to the letter from the California officials, in settling a dispute involving the Oakland Pier terminal, which is being used jointly by the Santa Fe and Southern Pacific railroads.

Fred G. Buchtel, chairman of the Oregon public service commission, said today that it was his understanding that the controversy at Oakland was somewhat similar to that involving the Portland terminal.
