

CAMPAIGN AGAINST JEWS CONDEMNED

Wilson, Taft and 117 Other Leaders Sign Protest.

PROPAGANDA IS TARGET

Articles Designed to Foster Distrust and Hatred Laid to Organized Campaign.

BENNINGTON, Vt., Jan. 16.—A protest against anti-Semitic propaganda, bearing the names of President Wilson, W. H. Taft, Cardinal O'Connell and 116 others, was made public tonight by John Spargo, socialist writer. It exhorted those who are "moulters of public opinion—the clergy and ministers, publicists, teachers, editors and statesmen—to strike at this un-American and un-Christian agitation."

"We regret exceedingly," the protest said, "the publication of books, pamphlets and newspaper articles designed to foster distrust and suspicion of Jewish ancestry and faith—distrust and suspicion of their loyalty and their patriotism."

Wilson Approves Protest.

"Mr. Spargo's request for my approval, President Wilson wrote: 'I am heartily in sympathy with the protest against the anti-Semitic movement. I beg that you will add my name to the signatures.'"

"I am sure you can understand why I am seeking the avoidance of undue publicity and reluctant to make public statements relating to an anti-Semitic movement. I am no less sure that you already know, and that the American people already believe, that I am giving my understanding and good will to no narrow, so intolerant or so un-American as the anti-Semitic movement. I have been preaching the gospel of understanding and good will to no one who believes in these things and hopes for the concord of America can be interested in any movement aimed against any portion of our American citizenship."

Hated Campaign Opposed.

"We protest against this organized campaign of prejudice and hatred," the signers declared, "because we are convinced that it is wholly incompatible with loyal and intelligent American citizenship."

TARTOU'S DIVORCE SUIT STIRS SCANDAL

Painter Accuses Wife, Once in Limelight Here.

WOMAN FROM ALBANY, OR.

How Former Claudia Windsor and Spurious Heir to Busch Millions 'Took' Seattle Recalled.

SEATTLE, Wash., Jan. 16.—(Special.)—Memories of one of the most sensational scandals in the social annals of Seattle were awakened last week with the news that Pierre Tartou, New York's most prosperous portrait painter, is being sued for a separation in the metropolis.

Mrs. Tartou is the former Claudia Windsor, formerly of Albany, Or., and later of San Francisco, who figured as a principal in George J. Busch's bigamy case in 1911.

It was Mrs. Tartou, or Mrs. Busch, as she was then known, who took the initial steps in the legal prosecution which led to the hemisphere-wide hunt for Busch.

The case embodied so many sensational features and it involved so many persons of social and financial prominence that it was a seven-day wonder. Busch—who, by the way, eluded the police of 20 states and a half dozen countries—was remembered by the detective department as one of the smoothest swindlers that ever operated here, and his erstwhile wife, the now Mrs. Tartou, may still be recalled with a tinge of envy by some of the Seattle women who were "buds" a decade ago.

Busch made his first appearance in Seattle in 1912, when he came here with his young and charming bride. He was polished and debonair, wore his clothes with a distinct air, talked, danced and drank like a gentleman, and, to top it all, purported to be the heir to the millions of Adolphus Busch, St. Louis brewer. She was Claudia Windsor, who has been described as the most beautiful woman in the world.

There was nothing lacking, and they took the town by storm. Mrs. Busch captivated every man she met—and, what was much more remarkable, every woman. And Busch, though careful to avoid ostentatious display, scattered largesse with a lavish hand.

A year passed, and then Busch, unaccompanied this time, reappeared on the scene. He met pretty Dorothy Campbell, daughter of Mr. J. H. Meyer of Seattle.

He explained to his friends that he had been divorced, so nothing was said, and Dorothy returned with him to Seattle a few days later from Victoria, announcing they had been married a few months later, in September, 1913, things began to happen.

The Mrs. Busch of the year before reappeared in Seattle, trying to find, as it developed later, why her husband had failed to meet certain financial obligations with her friends.

Of course the first person that she met was a woman who had met her on her previous visit, and who began to commiserate with her over her divorce.
