FISHING INTERESTS FORCE AMENDMENT

Civil Administrative Code Measure Is Preserved.

HOUSE WILL PASS BILL

Marriage, Public Works Bill, Libel and State Highways Are Other Washington Legislative Topics.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Jan. 19.—(Special.)—An amendment drafted to meet the demands of the fishing interests of the state was written into the civil administrative code on second reading in the house today. Although the amendment was offered by Representative Reed of Mason, floor leader in charge of the measure, and was passed with the consent of Governor Hart, it is understood that it was not until the fishermen had made a showing of strength that threatened either defeat of the measure as a whole or material revision of some of its important features that the administration forces announced their willingness to accept the amendment.

The purpose of the amendment, as presented by representatives of the fishing interests and as announced by Reed in proposing the change, is to protect existing property rights of owners of fish traps in their present locations. The amendment provides that holders of existing fishing locations shall hold and enjoy them, with the exclusive right to operate their fishing appliances thereon under the rules and regulations of the proposed fisheries board at all times when fishing in the waters where such locations are situated shall be permitted.

House Will Pass Measure.

In offering the amendment, Reed said that this would be the only one supporters of the code would have to offer and was taken as an indication that it will be the only one permitted in the house. The house adjourned until Thursday, with three-fourths of the measure considered on second reading. It is expected that the code will be passed by the house tomorrow and taken up at once in the senate.

An effort made by Ryan of Pierce, farmer-labor member, supported by Miller of Spokane, to have the labor and industries section stricken from the code to leave the way clear for the industrial code prepared by organized labor, was defeated. Ryan was able to muster only three members in support of his demand for a rollcall.

In the house Mrs. Anna K. Colwell of Snohomish, the only woman member, introduced two measures, one making the age of majority for women 21 years and the other requiring women to be 21 years old before being permitted to enter into marriage contracts.

Tripple of King introduced a bill prohibiting the marriage of persons of white, or Caucasian, races with persons of negro, mulatto or Mongolian blood.

Eight-Hour Day Proposed.

An eight-hour day for attendants and other employes at state hospitals for the insane is proposed in a house bill, of which Ryan of Pierce is the author. He also introduced a measure providing for the establishment of municipally owned markets.

Elimination of competitive bidding on public work will be made unlawful, if the bill introduced in the house by Harrison of Skagit becomes a law. The measure is designed to prevent the practice of contractors in submitting only one bid and splitting the profits.

Articles impeaching the honesty, integrity, virtue, reputation or patriotism of any religious denomination or sect is made a general libel under the provisions of a bill by Bassett of Spokane. Under the measure it is no defense that the article was written outside the state, and directors and agents of corporations responsible for the libel are made liable.

From October 15 to October 31, inclusive, is made a closed season for upland birds in San Juan, Clallam, Clarke, Jefferson, Skagit, Snohomish, Skamania and Whatcom counties, by a bill introduced by Pearson of Skagit.

Memorial Will Be Held.

A house concurrent resolution was introduced by Rogers of Snohomish providing for memorial services in honor of the late Representative C. W. Gorham of Snohomish.

A joint resolution passed in the senate provides for the appointment of a joint committee to represent the legislature of Washington at a conference with a similar committee from the Oregon legislature, to consider legislation affecting the Columbia river fisheries. The conference will be held at Seattle on January 29.

The senate, under a suspension of the rules, passed a joint resolution providing for the selection of a competent engineer by the state highway commission to work with the state highway commission in making an investigation of the feasibility of establishing a state-owned cement plant for the production of material for road building purposes. The resolution was sponsored by the senate committee on roads and bridges. Senators Fawcett of Pierce and Coman of Spokane opposed the resolution.

Highway Appropriation Asked.

Appropriation of $4,400,000 from the permanent highway fund for the completion of work already under contracts, and for new contracts and maintenance of permanent highways, is requested in a measure introduced by the roads and bridges committee in the senate. Reappropriation of $250,651 from the permanent highway fund and $421,200 from the motor vehicle fund, for the construction and maintenance of highways already established, is provided in another bill introduced by the senate roads and bridges committee. This money represents amounts of unexpended funds for the various highways of the state.

The roads and bridges committee reported the McCoy bill providing for the expenditure of the county's share of interstate bridge tolls by the county for the purpose of hard surfacing highways leading to the bridge, with the recommendation that it pass.

A resolution by the state reclamation service, requesting the legislature to make a full and complete investigation of the work of that department since its creation by the 1919 legislature was referred to the committee on reclamation.

Investigation Will Be Made.

The committee later announced that the request of the state board would be granted and that the committee would recommend the appointment of a joint legislative committee to make the investigation. The action of the state board in asking the investigation is the result of attacks made on the activities of the board by a Spokane newspaper.

Senate joint resolution No. 4, by the roads and bridges committee, providing that the state highway board shall make a survey of the state highway system with a view to determining what revision, if any, is advisable, and to make report of its findings to the next session of the legislature, and that until such survey shall be completed no new state highways shall be established, was made a special order of business for 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon after an attempt was made to pass the resolution under suspension of the rules.

ALLEN ASSURED OF PLUM

SEATTLE MAN LIKELY TO BE STATE PRINTER.

Action of Fred Kennedy Said to Have Made Way Clear for King Representative.

OLYMPIA, Wash., Jan. 19.—(Special.)—All doubt as to who will get the best paying appointment Governor Hart has at his disposal, that of state printer, is apparently resolved in favor of Pliny L. Allen of Seattle, representative from the 43d district in King county, by refusal of Fred Kennedy, director of the School of Journalism and printing superintendent at the University of Washington, to accept indorsement of the state newspaper institute which recently met in annual session at Seattle. Kennedy declined to be considered when he heard that Allen was a candidate for the place, and so far as known this clears Allen's way.

In state house estimation the place has been Allen's for a matter of several months and the change is slated to take place April 1. Frank Lambourn of Tacoma, who by appointment of the late Governor Lister in 1913 has handled the state printing office for eight years, is known to have declined to make any wage agreements with the printers he employs for longer than March 13.

Nobody but the state printer himself actually knows what the place pays, as much of the profit depends upon close and accurate shop management, but the lowest estimate made is equivalent to a salary of $10,000 a year.

BUREAU CHANGE PROTESTED

Child Labor and Welfare Departments Under Debate.

STATE HOUSE, Salem, Or., Jan. 19.—(Special.)—Protest against placing the administration of the child labor bureau and the industrial welfare department under the state labor office was made by a large number of persons appearing before the labor and industrial committee of the house tonight.

Mrs. Sarah Evans, speaking for the women of the state, held that the work of the child labor bureau and the industrial welfare bureau was welfare work and should not come under the heading of labor. Although she admitted that there was some overlapping in authority, nevertheless she held that there was no waste of funds nor overlapping of work.

Representative Kay, author of the bill proposing the consolidation of the various commissions, contended that the work among children and women of the state should either be entirely under the two commissions or under the labor department. Action on the matter was deferred.

House Asks Fort Be Hospital.

STATE HOUSE, Salem, Or., Jan. 19.—(Special.)—A memorial addressed to congress urging that Fort Walla Walla in Washington be set aside as a hospital to be operated by the United States Public Health service was introduced in the house today and referred to the resolutions committee.

Road Opening Celebrated.

VANCOUVER, Wash., Jan. 19.—(Special.)—Scores of automobiles from Camas paraded today over the North Bank highway in celebration of the completion of that road and after parading through the business section of Vancouver a meeting was held in the Commercial clubrooms, where Mayor Kiggins, John H. Elwell, president of the Commercial club, and J. W. Shaw, representing the Prunarians, welcomed the visitors. Arthur Thayer of Camas, president of the North Bank Highway association, responded for the visitors. Tonight 100 or more from Vancouver went to Camas to attend the banquet in the Crown-Willamette inn, where a programme was held.

Floods Drown Many Rodents.

ALBANY, Or., Jan. 19.—(Special.)—The recent high water in this section of the state has accomplished one beneficial result, in that the floods directly and indirectly destroyed many rodents. Hundreds of rodents were drowned and in some localities farmers waded out into the edge of the swollen waters, or went out in boats, and killed scores of gophers driven from their usual haunts and swimming about. The rodent population in some sections has been materially decreased as a result.

IDAHO LEGISLATURE TAKES UP FINANCES

State Institutions Get Attention of Solons.

ONE OFFICE IS ATTACKED

Fight to Abolish Commissioner of Education Is Revived by Providing No Salary.

BOISE, Idaho, Jan. 19.—(Special.)—The finance committee of the senate and the committee on appropriations of the house named subcommittees today, consisting of members of both houses, to make investigations of the charitable and penal institutions of the state. Governor Davis, in his message, recommended building programmes for these institutions, but as the general policy of the present legislature is that of retrenchment it is desired by the members that a thorough investigation be made of the institutions before any definite appropriation is adopted for them.

The committees which have been named are:

Soldiers' home and penitentiary, Hailey, Monson, O'Dwyer and Cannon.

Asylum at Orofino and feebleminded institute at Nampa—Disney, Porter, Harding, Miller and Anderson.

Insane asylum at Blackfoot and children's home finding society—Christenson, Smith, Hunt, Severson and Egbert.

Land Improvements Exempted.

Improvements on land not to exceed $1000 in assessed valuation to any one family, are made exempt from taxation in a bill introduced in the senate by Senator Van Hoesen of Adams county. The purpose of the bill is to encourage home ownership. It is the first measure introduced this session by a minority member of the upper house.

An unexpected attack on the office of commissioner of education was sprung today. It is contained in house bill No. 59, introduced by the house committee on education. On its face the measure purports to fix by statute the salaries of the heads of the various state educational institutions, taking that discretion from the state board of education. And it does contain just that provision, but it extends further.

The bill amends section 797 of the compiled statutes, which empowers the state board of education to employ directing heads, instructors and other employes at the educational institutions and a commissioner of education, and to fix their salaries. The amendment names the positions that shall be filled by the board of education, but eliminates from the list the commissioner of education.

It fixes the salaries of the others as follows:

Measure Fixes Salaries.

President of the university, not to exceed $6000 per annum.

President of the Lewiston normal school, $4000.

President of Albion normal, $3550.

President of Idaho technical institute, $4500.

Superintendent of the school for the deaf and blind, $2400.

Superintendent of the industrial training school, $3600.

By the expedient of not mentioning the office, the education committee seeks to abolish the office of commissioner of education. Twice in the last five years the people of Idaho have defeated proposed constitutional amendments to abolish the elective office of state superintendent of public instruction.

The present house committee on education, its chairman, Hall, of Oneida, declares, feels that it is time to remove the appointive office of commissioner of education.

COAL PRICE FIXING URGED

City Council to Ask State Delegation in Congress to Act.

Frank Grant, city attorney, was instructed by the city council yesterday to communicate with Oregon's representatives in congress urging that the interstate commerce commission be directed and empowered to fix prices for coal.

The action was taken in accordance with a letter received from the city officials of Brockton, Mass., urging that immediate measures along that line be taken by the municipal authorities.

"Brockton is one of the largest shoe manufacturing centers in the country, and as the price of shoes hasn't dropped appreciably, we might amend that to include shoes," remarked Commissioner Bigelow.

"Yes," added Commissioner Barbur, "and put in there 'act quick.'"

COOPERAGE TO BE BUILT

Work on Industrial Plant at Vancouver to Start in 60 Days.

VANCOUVER, Wash., Jan. 19.—(Special.)—The California Barrel company, which has bought a site for a cooperage plant below the G. M. Standifer Construction corporation shipyard on the Columbia river, will begin work within 60 days, if present plans carry. Representatives of the company appeared before the county commissioners and asked about having the river road leading to the plant put in shape so that big trucks could use it when ready for building.

The commissioners gave assurance that the road will be covered heavily with gravel and rolled.

STATE TO PROBE SCHOOLS

ANTI-AMERICAN PROPAGANDA SUGGESTS INVESTIGATION.

Senate Bill Provides for Inquiry Where Financial Assistance Is Given by Oregon.

STATE HOUSE, Salem, Or., Jan. 19.—(Special.)—Appointment of a committee to be composed of three members of the house and two members of the senate, for the purpose of investigating the schools to which the state contributes any financial assistance, to ascertain whether any doctrines, theories or matter of any kind is taught or promulgated, directly or indirectly, which may be inimical to the present organized government of the state of Oregon, and the United States, is provided in a senate joint resolution introduced by Senator Hall of Coos county.

"It is highly improper," said the resolution, "for the state of Oregon to financially contribute to any agency which may assist in spreading the teachings or doctrines of revolution, or spread or assist to spread the propaganda of revolution, socialism, I. W. W.ism, bolshevism or other like radical groups, or which may teach or propound any method, theory or doctrine which are likely to be conducive to the overthrow of organized government."

Provision is made in the resolution that the committee shall have the power to subpena witnesses and require their attendance to testify under oath, require the production of books, papers and other matters of evidence in any manner bearing upon the question under investigation.

The report of the committee shall be filed with the governor, who, under the resolution, shall transmit the same to the legislature at its next session.

MEMORIAL FUND FOUGHT

Spending State Money for Two Statues Is Objection.

STATE HOUSE, Salem, Or., Jan. 19.—(Special.)—Strenuous objection to the appropriation of $25,500 for the placement of bronze statutes of the Rev. Jason Lee and Dr. John McLaughlin in the "hall of fame" by members of the house today for a time threatened the indefinite postponement of the resolution, which was reported upon favorably by the resolutions committee.

After considerable discussion by members of the house, however, it was discovered that objection to the resolution was based upon the expenditure of the state's money, with the result that the resolution was referred back to the resolutions committee, where it will be amended to urge placement of statutes of the two Oregon pioneers in the "hall of fame" without expenditure of state funds.

Senate Consents to Accident Bill.

STATE HOUSE, Salem, Or., Jan. 19.—(Special.)—The senate has given its unanimous consent to passage of the bill providing that whenever the unexpended balance of the rehabilitation fund is greater than $75,000 the state industrial accident commission shall temporarily reduce the percentage of total monthly receipts to be transferred to said fund or suspend such transfer. The said fund, under the act, shall be invested in the same manner as the money in the segregated accident funds invested, and all interest earnings shall be credited to the industrial accident fund.

UPTON RESOLUTION REVIVED

Senate Adopts Measure Providing for Reapportionment Committee.

STATE HOUSE, Salem, Or., Jan. 19.—(Special.)—Without a dissenting vote, the senate today decided to reconsider the Upton resolution calling for a joint committee to handle reapportionment legislation. The resolution has been made a special one for tomorrow and will be adopted then without protest.

The group of senators who succeeded in defeating the resolution Tuesday afternoon held a caucus last night and concluded to "lay down." They have agreed that continued opposition might give the appearance of questioning the integrity of President Ritner, who, under the resolution, is to appoint five members on the joint committee. This being the case, the senators decided to withdraw their objections and depend on President Ritner's judgment in selection of the special committee.

It also has dawned upon senators that being on the reapportionment committee will be far from a pleasant job, for the committee will be the target for criticism. Motion to reconsider was made by President Ritner and seconded by Senator Lachmund, who opened the fight in the session yesterday.

Refund Is Proposed.

STATE HOUSE, Salem, Or., Jan. 19.—(Special.)—Persons in Oregon who have obtained automobile mechanics' licenses under the automobile mechanics' law which has been declared to be unconstitutional will receive a refund of the money paid into the state treasury if a bill proposed by Representative Lynn is passed. The total money collected under this law is $6160.

Larger Powers Proposed.

STATE HOUSE, Salem, Or., Jan. 19.—(Special.)—Additional powers to county board of equalization, whereby such boards may require the attendance of witnesses, would be granted by a bill introduced by Representative Beals today.

Bill Would Raise Salary.

STATE HOUSE, Salem, Or., Jan. 19.—(Special.)—Under a bill introduced by Senator Joseph the salary of the county school superintendent of Multnomah county would be increased from $2500 to $3600. Salaries of the other officers of Multnomah county are not affected by the proposed law.
