If ever a boxer made an impression it was the world's heavyweight champion last night. He darted in and out, hitting Keller at will and blocking almost every punch Terry started. The champion was in a happy mood and smiled frequently at Keller's efforts

Dempsey got a wonderful hand when he entered the ring. Several youngsters clambered through the ropes to shake his gloved mitt. The two started off at a merry pace, but a few punches that were not meant to be hard slowed Keller up to a walk. Game as they make them, Keller shook his head after every blow and kept dancing in trying to make It a real go as much as possible.

Jack Shows Everything.

Jack showed the boys about everyshow. He shaped up like a champion in his ring togs and boxed like one jabs came near putting Terry down for the evening, but when Jack would send one a little too hard he would pull Keller in and shake him up.

From a standpoint of interest the Dempsey-Keller exhibition was a better fight than the Frank Farmer-Bob Devere mill. Referee Lougitt raised Farmer's hand in token of victory at the end of ten rounds of pull-and-ting milling. It is hard to say which of the two did more hanging on. Referee Loutitt cautioned Devere repeat.
