ISLAND FERRY IS DENIED

Produce That Should Come to Local Market Will Be Shipped to Seattle, Say Growers.
Lack of funds was given yesterday by Multnomah county commissioners as reason for refusal of the request of families living on Government island for a ferry service to the mainland. The residents agreed to operate the ferry themselves if ferry and landings costing in the neighborhood of $18,000 were furnished them. They said that produce valued at between $70,000 and $80,000 was grown on island annually and marketed in Portland.
