COLBY VISIT APPRECIATED

Wilson Said to Have Gained Lasting Hold on Affections of People of 20 Republics.

BY LOUIS SEIBOLD.

(Copyright by the New York World, Pub-The four presidents of American epublics I have interviewed during he past eight months represent enthe past eight months represent en-rirely distinct types in political thought and action. The heads of these American democracies, chosen by processes quite dissimilar to those which elevate men to monarchial thrones, are much closer to the peo-ple over whom they exercise execulive authority conferred by the peo-

Woodrow Wilson is therefore typical of the North American republic, far better known and much more re-specied than any monarch of Europe, Because of the conspicuous part played by him in the great tragedy of world-wide war, he is regarded us one of the very great men developed by democratic conditions in the West-

Nations Honor Wilson.

Domestic political considerations o not count for much in the ap-missement of Mr. Wilson's qualities is an humanitarian and executive in the opinions of the leaders of public hought in many of the American republics in Central and South Amerca. He has won and heid his place in their affections and esteem. His pussing from the presidency of the luited States after eight years of world turmoil is viewed by these men as an incident that does not affect and cannot impair the lasting hold to has secured on the popular imag-ination of the peoples of the 20 American republics.

This is my conclusion after discuss vervices rendered by Woodrow Wilson to the act with Epitacio Pesson, president of more realise United States of Brazil; Baltasar the past, Brum, president of the republic of Truguay, and Hipolito Irigoyen, ex-cutive of the Argentine Republic, In he estimation of each of these men, Woodrow Wilson, by his insistence upon the cardinal principles of democracy, has reflected the very highest redit upon all the republics of the western hemisphere. They believe for me thing that he has compelled Event pean nations to entertain greater retas than previously existed.

History's Verdict Trusted.

Some of them do not, of course, gree with Mr. Wilson's standards; if few of them are not wholly in accord with the policy of the United COUNCIL'S PROPOSALS.
