Council Wants Facts Before Vacating Streets.

PLANS SO FAR NEBULOUS

Hall Chiefs Promise to Present Full Details Regarding Proposal to Commissioners Soon.

Members of the city council adopted a "show-me" attitude yesterday on the proposal to vacate certain streets in the north part of the city for the railroad tracks for the railroad roads entering Portland.

They pronounced the railroad proposal as too nebulous as yet and said that until plans were forthcoming and they knew just what was wanted they would be slow about going on record in favoring the plan. Railroad officials said they would present full details soon.

Coupled with this, the commissioners said, they would require assurance from the interested lines that their plan would be carried through and the terminal built, in event the railroad street vacations are granted. With these reservations there is no doubt of the co-operation of the council.

"I want to see the plans before I make a definite statement," said Commissioner Bigelow. "I am willing to do everything in reason to assure adequate, up-to-date plans and am willing to expedite the work as much as possible.

Roads Must Submit Data.
"We took it up with the public works department today and we ask the railroad to submit data as soon as possible, so we can study the problem at once. As soon as reports are available we can study the situation and then if we think it advisable, I for one am willing to submit it to the people in June."

"I would favor the vacation of the streets asked if the railroad people would come to us with a proposition specifically guaranteeing that the plan would be carried through, then I would be only too glad to yield the use of the streets for the purpose asked."

"It would be up to the council, in my mind, to grant the roads the use of the streets but they should have the assurance that the railroads mean business. A union terminal is one of the great things for Portland that must come in the near future and we must do everything we can to help it along."

"I want to get the cards on the table and see what is wanted," declared Commissioner Mann. "Everything so far seems to be vague and undecided."

People's Rights Paramount.
"There is no doubt that the railroads should be encouraged to put in the new terminal here, but the people's rights should be protected. I really can't tell what my position will be until I see exactly what the railroads want."

High railroad officials who made the proposal for a modern union terminal for Portland left the city yesterday morning for Seattle. The party included C. N. Gray, president of the Union Pacific system; Judge Robert S. Lovett, chairman of the board of directors; E. E. Calvin, vice-president in charge of operations; E. E. Adams, assistant to the president; R. H. Huntley, chief engineer, and J. O'Brien, general manager of the O. W. & N. O. R. R.

Maps and detailed plans are being prepared for submission to the city council. Data in regard to the proposed terminal, including the location of the tracks, the location of the lines interested and maps outlining the terminal, being considered by the rail chiefs. The return of the party is expected by the end of this week.

BEND PLANT RESUMES
Shevlin-Hixon Mill Starts Production; 100 Get Jobs.

BEND, Or., March 28.—(Special)—Production was resumed here today at the Shevlin-Hixon company mill, meaning the employment of at least 100 additional men and the beginning of logging operations in the woods one week from today.

Until the market becomes stronger, logging and a more rapid withdrawal of lumber from the yards, one-shift production will continue, J. P. Hennessy, assistant general manager, said this morning. This time the box business and the factory will be operated only to fill orders.

The shipping department is putting out from six to eight cars a day, the freight rate cut recently announced by the railroad to be taken effect with the ending of March resulting in holding up orders until buyers can take advantage of the reduction. Mr. Hennessy explained.

HOPE FOR BOY GAINING
Ray Stager Believed to Be Cabin Boy on Tropic-Bound Steamer.

YANCOUVER, Wash., March 28.—(Special)—Mrs. A. J. Stager, parents of Ray Stager, 14-year-old lad who has been missing from his home here since March 4, are gaining hope that the boy is yet alive and that he left on the steamer Irene bound for Hilo, Hawaii, about March 21. It is known he had been on the ship when it was loading ties at the DuBois dock and that he talked with a number of the sailors; that he was interested in sailing from port to port and in tales of the sea.

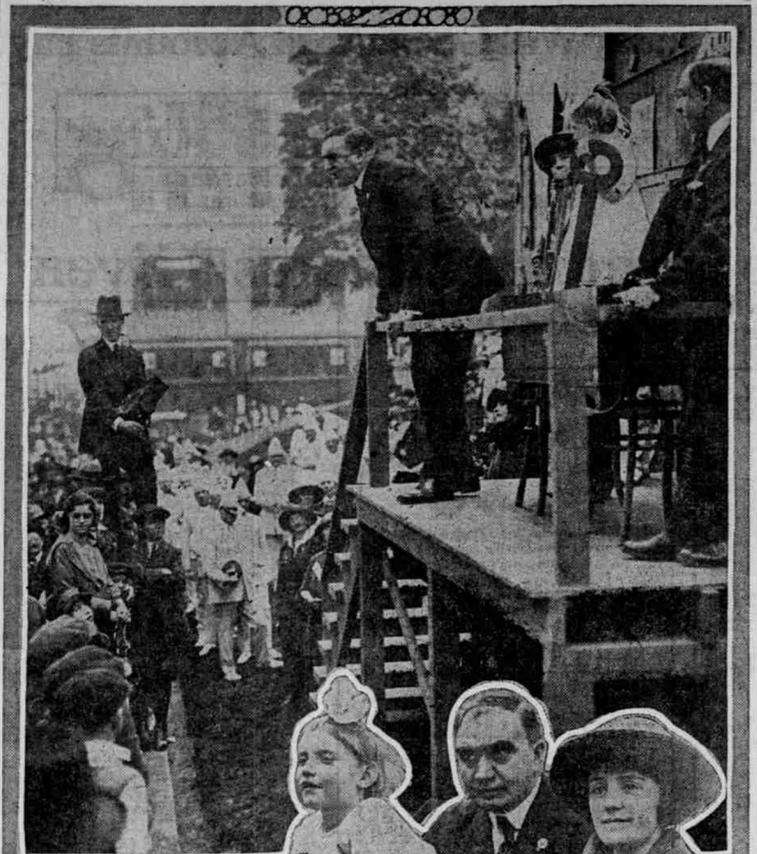

The theory his parents now hold is that the sailors on the ship coached him in what to do and how to get on the ship and sail away as cabin boy. They think he was told to throw his wheel into the Columbia river, where it was later found, and get to Astoria and sign up as cabin boy.

REHEARING IS HELD BEST
Phone Remedy Suggestion of Ex-Public Service Commissioner.

SALEM, Or., March 28.—(Special)—A rehearing of the case rather than recall of the members of the public service commission is the best remedy in reach of the public for settling the controversy now centering about the present increase in the rates of the Pacific Telephone & Telegraph company.

This was the statement made by Frank Miller of Albany, ex-member of the public service commission, in an address at the weekly luncheon of the Salem business men's association today.

tory "mopped" up long before the week-end.

Another indorsement of the community chest plan reached Mayor Baker yesterday from Akron, O., a city which has operated under the new system for two years. In a telegram signed by Theodore E. Smith, president of the Better Akron Federation administration, the following is said of the community chest plan:

"Akron operating second year of community chest. Formerly seventeen campaigns, now one. Distribution monthly to each beneficiary, including hospitals, charities and service organizations, all religions. Immense improvement in old plan. Would not go back to it."

Employees in various stores and downtown establishments were organized yesterday and partial subscriptions reported indicated that a large sum will enter the huge charity chest from this source.

Three-third of the employees of Lipman, Wolfe & Co. pledged $1280 yesterday; about two-thirds of the employees of the Hazelwood restaurants had pledged $1204 with proposals raising in excess of $1800 when all employees have been canvassed; about 50 per cent of the employees of the Northern Pacific Terminal company have added $440 to the fund; a partial report of subscriptions from the employees of Ben selling shows a total of $700, a partial report from the employees of Ira F. Powers Co. totals $324, and the employees of the Jones Cash store had pledged $200 into the chest.

School children of Portland will have an opportunity to aid in the Community Chest campaign, announcement having been made yesterday by J. Handaker, chairman of the committee on public schools, that all plans in connection with the school campaign have been completed.

Ballot boxes from the county clerk's office have been placed in the schools to receive the gifts of the boys and girls. Cards will be issued to all pupils which are to be taken home and approved by the parents. The approved card together with the gift will be returned to school and deposited in the ballot box.

Doll Clothes Passed By.
An indication of the desire on the part of the children of Portland to take part in the campaign for the needy and crippled was shown yesterday when a small girl, about 12 years old, who refused to give her name, deposited 30 cents on the committee in the chest headquarters. The small donor explained that this amount had been saved to be used in the purchase of doll clothing, but she was not willing to give it to some little girl without a "mamma to have something to eat."

With the coming of the community chest drive has also come a new fad in Portland—that of using a small red heart as a beauty adornment. These small red hearts on the cheek, forehead or dimpled chin of Portland's fair sex was a forceful argument to many to "have a heart" and aid those who are unable to assist themselves in the ballot box.

Negroes Are Included.
Some misunderstanding among the negro population of the city was adjusted last night when official announcement was made that provision has been made in the community chest budget for the care of the extensive work of the Y. W. C. A. Failure to indicate this provision in the printed booklets led some of the negroes to believe that the budget committee had not provided for this extension work.

The huge saving and elimination of duplication of effort through the adoption of the community chest system was the theme adopted by Charles F. Berg, lieutenant-colonel, speaking to the members of the typing squad on at the Chamber of Commerce.

"The administration of the community chest fund, which includes the salary of a permanent secretary, rent of the chest, and the cost of the chest, will be reduced from $260 to $33 a day for eight hours' work. The employees later decided to resign the cut, but today notified the employer that they would submit a resignation of their differences. Mr. Spaulding was given until 5:30 o'clock tonight to

A few days ago Mr. Spaulding served notice on his men that wages would be reduced from $2.60 to $3 a day for eight hours' work. The employees later decided to resign the cut, but today notified the employer that they would submit a resignation of their differences. Mr. Spaulding was given until 5:30 o'clock tonight to

MAJORS REFRESH 'WITNESS' MEMORY

Hedderly Attorneys Question Right to Produce Paper.

EVIDENCE NOW ALL IN

Argument in Widow's Action for Damages Is to Begin Today.

Police Chiefs Testify.

Introduction of notes taken at the Multnomah county grand jury hearing in September by Tom Maguire, formerly deputy district attorney, now assistant United States attorney, caused something of a sensation in federal court yesterday afternoon in the Lena Hedderly damage suit against three federal officers for the death of her husband who was fatally wounded while attempting to escape arrest September 10, 1920.

Use of the notes by Barnett H. Goldstein, attorney for the plaintiff, to refresh Mr. Maguire's memory on testimony tending to impeach the testimony of William D. Morris, one of the officers involved in the shooting, brought forth swift rebuke from defense attorney Veatch and Elton Watkins, attorneys defending the officers, declared that the notes taken before the grand jury were confidential and not subject to use by other than members of the district attorney's office.

Notes Are Identified.
The notes were related to the testimony of Morris before the grand jury and contained the statement "didn't answer" relative to the wheels of the car driven by Hedderly at the time he was shot. Mr. Maguire identified the notes as those he had made and stated under cross-examination that he had no knowledge in any manner in which Attorney Goldstein had obtained possession of them. Goldstein stated that they had been turned over to him by Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Pierce.

According to District Attorney Evans the notes such as those taken by Mr. Maguire before the grand jury are kept in the files of his office for confidential information and are not supposed to be given out for the use of lawyers in other cases.

Counsel for both sides rested at the close of court. Arguments will be made when court convenes this morning and the case is expected to go to the jury sometime today. Ex-Chief Justice Johnson and Chief Justice Wood were called by the defense and testified regarding the character of Hedderly. Both testified that they had never seen Hedderly and that he was a dangerous man and that care must be exercised in making his arrest.

Impeachment Is Attempted.
Delazon C. Smith and W. R. Wood, the three defendants from whom Mr. Hedderly is seeking to collect $7500 for the death of her husband, testified relative to their escape at the time he was fired upon. Smith was about a block away and fired once, according to his testimony. Wood testified that he was one of the officers of the party were in the street immediately in front of Hedderly's machine, attempting to cut off his escape at the time he was fired upon.

PICTURE BRIDE SUES AT OREGON FARMER

"One Look Enough," Sobs Disappointed Miss.

DREAM OF ROMANCE ENDS

Girl Says Photograph Misrepresents Sco Man Who Paid $400 for Journey to America.

As a prospective "picture bride" Olga Bankova, buxom Bohemian girl, 22 years old, lived up all advance representations, but Anton Liskl, 65-year-old Bohemian farmer of Scio, Or., did not play Cupid's game as she determined to remain until she makes her decision as to her next step. One thing is certain, she says, Anton Liskl can return to his farm any time he desires, but Olga Bankova, late of Bohemia, has renounced all intention or desire to change her name to Olga Liskl.

CHEATING FIANCES CHARGED
Many Picture Brides Never Intend to Marry, Is Declaration.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 28.—(Special)—Hundreds of European girls who come to the United States ostensibly to be married never carry out their avowed intention. Such cases become a problem both to the immigration service and the travelers' aid society.

"In many instances," said Mrs. Suzanne Gomez, secretary of the Travelers' Aid society, "circumstances indicate that the girls never intend to marry the men who helped them get to this country. Living conditions are bad in Europe and many girls apparently have induced fellow countrymen in America to help them across the ocean. Young women without relatives here are not allowed to immigrate to America unless they can assure the immigration officials that they intend to marry at once."

"But the immigration service keeps some check on these young women. Just now we are investigating the request of the immigration service the cases of several who came to California to marry and did not. Other Pacific coast states are experiencing the same problem with girls who gain entry to the country in this manner and then on one pretext or other remain single."

Youth Admits Forgery.
Nicholas Frischoff, aged 22, pleaded guilty yesterday before Circuit Judge Tucker to forging his stepfather's name to a pay-check and was paroled on a sentence of one year in the penitentiary. The check was for $30 and was found by the young man at a bureau drawer in his stepfather's room. It was a first offense.

A Friend of the Family

Over fifty years ago a young physician practiced widely in Pennsylvania and became famous for his uniform success in the curing of disease. This was Dr. R. V. Pierce who afterwards established himself in Buffalo, N. Y., and placed one of his prescriptions, which he called his "Golden Medical Discovery," in the drug stores of the United States so that the public could easily obtain this very remarkable tonic, corrective, and blood-maker. Dr. Pierce manufactured this "Discovery" from roots and barks without alcohol—a corrective remedy, the ingredients of which nature had put in the fields and forests, for keeping us healthy. Introduce pure red blood into the system, and health is assured. When you feel run-down, out of sorts, blue and despondent try the energizing influence of this reliable tonic. You can obtain Golden Medical Discovery in tablet or liquid form at all drug stores, or send 10c for a trial package to Dr. Pierce's Laboratory in Buffalo, N. Y.

According to Hoyle and thereby lost out as the prospective husband of the girl from Bohemia. The girl, however, Liskl ran into the police detective bureau Sunday saying that Miss Bankova, to whom he was to be married yesterday, disappeared from her room at the Mathieson hotel early Sunday morning. He was certain that the girl had fallen into the hands of evil companions.

Girl's Dreams Shattered.
Investigation yesterday by Joe Morak, police detective, disclosed that the girl had sought refuge at the home of C. A. Sawyer, a man of means in America had been rudely shattered.

"I took one look at him and nearly dropped dead," the girl said, "and the detective in German, through an interpreter.

It then developed that Liskl had been dealing from the bottom of the deck in love's gambling game. He procured the girl's promise to marry him through correspondence and through the exchange of pictures.

But Liskl is 55 years old and shows his age. His hands are gnarled. His face is weatherbeaten and filled with wrinkles. His eyes are sunken and falling and his fast-thinning hair is turning gray with the passing years.

Picture of Young Man Sent.
The picture he sent me was of a young man and good looking. I was soothed by the picture of the sympathetic detective. "But when I got here and saw him, I was shocked. He was a punctured man with a suggestive shrug of the shoulders."

Liskl tried vainly yesterday to win back the disappointed girl as she sobbed out her story to the sympathetic detective. "But when I got here and saw him, I was shocked. He was a punctured man with a suggestive shrug of the shoulders."

Liskl tried vainly yesterday to win back the disappointed girl as she sobbed out her story to the sympathetic detective. "But when I got here and saw him, I was shocked. He was a punctured man with a suggestive shrug of the shoulders."

"I am sure there must be some mistake," he insisted. "The picture I sent her looks much like I do today, although—and here he squirmed back his shoulders in an effort to hide his age—"It was taken a few years ago."

During her trip across the continent Miss Bankova has been guided by the "Travelers' Aid society, and she had on her letter from the Travelers' Aid at Chicago notifying Portland officials that if the young woman's romance is not fulfilled through her meeting with Liskl, the Chicago organization will send the money for her return to that city, where it will watch over her until she is able to return home, or able to take care of herself.

Thoughts of Marriage Worry Girl.
Miss Bankova told Detective Morak that she remained awake nearly all Saturday night trying to decide what to do. Every time she got a mental picture of Liskl she wanted to flee, she cared not where, although she realized that she had expended a goodly sum to bring her to America.

But when Sunday morning came and brought her to a realization that in another day she was expected to marry the Scio farmer, she crossed the Rubicon of blighted romance. She burned with indignation as she thought of Liskl's duplicity in the matter of the photograph exchange, and decided to run away. She was so sick of it all that she forgot and left her personal belongings in the little drab hotel room which Liskl had procured for her.

A kindly disposed pedestrian guided her to the Y. W. C. A. and there she BRITT WOOD, as usual, wears the blue ribbon on the new bill at Pantages. Britt always takes first prize and all the others in competition know it the minute they find themselves running on the same bill with the lazy entertainer. If Britt Wood isn't from the south, he has lived there a lot, or has good inclinations in that direction. He sings in a clothes-looking lad in old haysed shirts and big old shoes, but a merry twinkle in his eye bespeaks the fun imprisoned within.

He tells about his trip to Chicago, and then takes out a mouth organ and plays "Turkey Tunes." Urged further, he plays on a banjo the while he plays also on the mouth organ, and then he steps off a few steps. His good humor and ability to stay in the character and at the same time entertain are worth noting.

A very fine comedy act that takes a prize "Pulley-Pulley" which derives its name from the signals "Pulley Pull" uttered by one acrobat and completely disregarded and misunderstood by his partner. With one serious partner in midair the other will call "Pulley! Pulley!" and down the acrobat goes. The act is put on by a remarkably clever pair, Permans and Shelley, and
