WINDUP OF CHEST

8.000 Persons Contribute Fund, but $300,000 Still Needed; Checking Begins Today.

With directors and all workers determined to bring the community chest drive to a successful close this week, efforts will be centered on the completion of the Portland Service eague canvass of residential districts and a quick windup of the work of all other departments. Although the drive is still more than $590,000 short of the required total, eight times the number of persons who formerly contributed to the support of the 60 public welfare and charitable institutions have already pledged their aid. To date 18,000 persons have contributed to the chest. Directors of the work hope to reach 40,000 with the appeal in the intensive

A new source of revenue as yet untouched is opened up in the business houses in the residential and outlying sections which are in the territory assigned to the league's workers. It is estimated that at least 400 estab-lishments of this kind remain to be solicited and returns above the average contributions are expected from Rivalry Is Developing. The burden of responsibility soon will be thrown largely on the shoul-ders of the Portland Service league workers who are covering the resi-dential sections. The work of the tracts insects and imprisons them in league is resolving itself into placing its hollow pitcher-like stalk. Samples the campaign as a civic responsibility ing the insects which the plant had trapped were shown.

Oregon wild flowers now in bloom were described and named in the various districts. A large number of the higher officers of the league who are in direct and the control of the higher of the league who are in direct and the control of the league who are in dire league who are in direct control of sectors are active community uplift workers and officers in their local civic clubs. Rivalry for thoroughness and rapidity in covering sections and in the proportionate returns is already de-veloping. Unofficial reports and in-complete returns from the residential sectors are encouraging, according to the league oficials, but no report has been made to the chest as yet, and the funds collected by the league are yet to be added to the total.

System of Competition. SALEM, Or., April 10 .- (Special.)-That road construction and bridge building under the supervision of the state highway commission is much sought by contractors, is attested by the large number of proposals received at the meeting of the commis-sion held in Portland April 5 and 6. Tabulations of these bids were com-pleted by the highway department here today.

The wide variance in the amount of the proposals also is an interesting study and indicates that the state has saved many thousands of dollars through its policy of competition. In the bids received for one job of 17 miles of paving the difference be-tween the lowest and highest proween the lowest and highest pro-posals was $64,000.
