

IMMIGRATION BILL BITTERLY ATTACKED

Agitators Blamed for Proposed Restrictions.

PASSAGE IS PREDICTED

Statement Relative to Jews Found Not to Have Been Made by Hughes but by Consul.

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 20.—The Immigration restriction bill drew fire today in the house, especially from New York members, and was vigorously urged by Chairman Johnson of the immigration committee, who declared legislation to keep out undesirable immigrants necessary.

Debate will be resumed tomorrow with a vote expected before adjournment on Friday. While confident of its passage, leaders conceded it would not receive the overwhelming vote a similar bill did at the last session.

Leading the fight on the measure were Representative Cockran, democrat; Siegel, republican; Chandler, republican, and London, socialist, all of New York; Sabath, democrat, Illinois; Stevenson, democrat, South Carolina; and Huddleston, democrat, Alabama. Mr. Cockran declared the bill marked the renunciation and abandonment of the policy which has made the position of the United States in the civilized world.

Agitators Are Blamed. Representatives charged that propaganda and skillful agitators had done much to bring about the bill. Mr. London said that the measure would "strike a blow at the heart of the war to emancipate" and charged that the bill was an expression of prejudice.

Representative Chandler declared present laws were adequate to keep out undesirable aliens. Mr. Stevenson criticized the action of Attorney-General Daugherty in permitting Eugene V. Debs to divest himself of his prison guard and come here unguarded to the house and senate immigration committees by Mr. Hughes.

Publication of extracts from the government reports on the subject of discussion today in the house, Representative Chandler, republican, New York, who formerly was consul in the United States for Latvia and Lithuania, took exception to an official government report which said the Latvians and Lithuanians seeking to leave for the United States were largely people from the slums, the vast majority of them "Jews of the undesirable class."

He declared that he communicated to this government that which is absolutely false.

Report Thought Unauthorised. "I do not believe Mr. Hughes authorized this or any similar report," said Mr. Chandler. "It came from abroad. Mr. Hughes is too big and noble minded to consent to anything of that kind."

Chairman Johnson said he thought Mr. Hughes had read all of the reports before sending them to congress and that he knew he had signed the letter of transmittal.

Representative Siegel, republican, New York, interrupted to say Mr. Hughes signed the letter in the usual course.

"FLUNK DAY" IS DENIED

Albany Students Say Faculty Orders Not Violated.

ALBANY, Or., April 20.—(Special.)—Published reports that the so-called "flunk day" at the Albany high school had become an institution recognized by the faculty because the students had succeeded in observing it are erroneous, according to a statement issued today by the Student Body association.

The only thing which could give credence to a report that "flunk day" had become an established institution, students say, is that the faculty had consented that an annual spring holiday could be observed, beginning this year. The Albany schools observe no spring vacation, as is the case in many schools at some time ago it was decided to allow one picnic day in the early spring each year. This ruling applies, however, to the grade schools as well as the high school and, both teachers and students say, was in no sense a recognition of the so-called "flunk day."

Last year most of the students of the high school did absent themselves from school one day on an unauthorized picnic. All students who did not appear for work, however, were required to make up the time lost.

NEW DRIVE BEING PLANNED

Districts Not Yet Reached Are to Be Visited for Chest Fund.

Work of reorganizing the working force in the community chest drive is proceeding rapidly and preparations are being made to follow up the first three weeks of the effort with a systematic canvass of those districts which have as yet been untouched. With this in view a check is being made of the records and a programme for further activity outlined.

In spite of the fact that practically no organized effort was put forth yesterday pending the reorganization work, nearly $1000 additional was added to the fund.

FISHERMEN TO CONFER

RECENT LEGISLATION MAY BE ATTACKED NEXT WEEK.

Objection to Assessment for State Bounty on Sea Lions Is Made and Suit Is Considered.

ASTORIA, Or., April 20.—(Special.)—The meeting of fishermen and others interested in the salmon industry will be held during the coming week to discuss the general fishing situation and particularly some of the recently enacted legislation relating to the fisheries.

This meeting was called upon at the meeting of the Columbia River Fishermen's Protective union last night, when a considerable amount of routine business was transacted, but no action was taken regarding the prices for raw fish to prevail during the coming season on the Columbia river. It is understood that the call to the attention of the mass meeting is that providing a bounty for the killing of sea lions. Some of those directly affected assert that law is class legislation and is therefore not constitutional.

BOYDSTON MAY BE HIDING

HEUNT FOR ASSAILANT OF TWO EXTENDS TO VANCOUVER.

Notes Indicating Suicide Believed to Be Blind to Give Time for Escape After Shooting.

Belief that Jess Boydston, assailant of Mrs. Mabel Baker and her husband, Thomas Baker, is in hiding near Vancouver was expressed yesterday by deputy sheriffs and police detectives after word had been received from Ben Phegley, a streetcar motorman, that he had seen Boydston board an automobile headed toward Vancouver shortly before 8 o'clock

IMPROVEMENT IS FOUGHT

STORM OF PROTEST GREETED DELAY-STREET PROJECT.

St. Johns Property Owners Lead Opposition to Extension Before City Council.

A storm of protest greeted the city council yesterday when the proposed extension of Delay street came up for consideration.

The city, acting on petitions filed some years ago, proposed to purchase a block of land at the intersection of Alhina avenue and thus obtain rights of way for the extension of Derby street. Building on the ground, which the city proposes to purchase, and the cost of the purchase is estimated at $24,900.

The complaint Laugaard worked out, an assessment plan which embraced a district extending into St. Johns. It was the St. Johns property owners who made the principal protest. The assessment in this district averaged from $2 to $4 per lot.

The property owners held that they would derive no special benefit from the improvement and urged that if the extension was necessary, the entire tax-paying body in Portland bear the cost.

The council, upon suggestion of Commissioner Barbur, deferred action until May 11.

At the Theaters.

HELLIG.

BY JOSEPH MACQUEEN. MINGLED pleasure and regret—much of the former and a little of the latter—was expressed by the large audience that attended the concert last night in the Hellig theater of the Portland Symphony orchestra. Pleasure because of the musical treat afforded by the concert and the violin solos of Louis Persinger, and regret because the event was the last concert of the symphony series for 1921-22. These concerts have pleased the friends who have been bright spots in the musical life of this city.

Nearly all the finely arranged programme is well known to the musical public and the only novelty was a flute quartet played by Robert E. Knight, Frank V. Badollet and J. C. Abbott. There was a good deal of curiosity expressed about the concert appearance of Mr. Persinger, who is concert master and assistant conductor of the San Francisco Symphony orchestra, and by his brilliant violin playing in Bruch's concerto in G minor, Opus 26. He fulfilled all the enthusiastic things said in advance about his artistry. A violin student of the great Eugene Ysaie and a graduate of one of the most famous musical conservatories in Europe, Mr. Persinger's violin art is remarkable for its splendid, shining tone, well-grounded technique, gift of rhythm and fine, instant intonation. He played a concerto of tremendous difficulty, but did so quietly and easily. He accentuated and brought into being all the different voices that are created to speak his impressive message, and made them all vocal. His interpretations also were noted for polish and finish. The concerto takes about 24 minutes to play, and all this time Mr. Persinger played so ably that he held the rapt attention of his audience. He is easily one of the best native-born violinists of this country. When he finished the concerto the audience gave him a hearty round of applause.

Flute quartets are rare at symphony concerts or any other concerts. The selection chosen for rendition last night, "Kuhliu in G minor," was one remarkable for its beauty and general attractiveness and it was played with fine sympathy, purity of tone and good ensemble finish. A rousing encore was its welcome, and the quartet replied by playing the "Rondo," or last movement of the same composition. The Goldmark "Rustic Wedding" suite—it is not properly a regular symphony in the sense that the Tschakowsky "Fateful"—is lived again in its gay, colorful beauty and joyous wedding-bell gladness. It took 40 minutes for rendition. The "Prelude" (Wagner's "Mastersingers") with its full, opulent scoring and richness of orchestration, was a joy to hear. It was fairly well played.

Carl Denton conducted with much success and he held his orchestral forces well together. The orchestra announces a concert at the University of Oregon, Eugene, May 7, with David Campbell, piano soloist.

REPEAL OF PENALTIES CONFIRMED.

ABERDEEN, Wash., April 20.—(Special.)—Official notice that the order providing restrictions and penalties on United States shipping board vessels for entering Grays Harbor had been repealed was received here Tuesday. The restricting order was published last November. The order was issued on the contention that vessels often were harbored, H. M. Delany, representing the Aberdeen chamber of commerce, said this was not true and showed that delays here were not greater than in other coast ports.

CITY'S GROWTH IS NOTED

LANG SYNE SOCIETY CELEBRATES PORTLAND'S BIRTH.

Laying of Foundations for Big Business Enterprises Recalled.

W. D. Wheelwright Speaks.

One hundred members of the Lang Syne society gathered yesterday noon in the Tyrolean room of the Benson hotel to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of Portland. As the men chatted during luncheon they recalled the days when there was only one street car in Portland, the days when they started the foundations of their business enterprises which have grown with the city.

Most of us are entitled to be called builders of this beautiful city and we are proud of it," declared Dr. Norris R. Cox, president, in opening the program. "We have the same ambitions and hopes as the newer-comers here and we are filled with the same confidence in the future of the city."

W. D. Wheelwright, who made the principal address at the meeting, recalled famous men whom he had known directly or indirectly, and related many humorous incidents of their lives.

Mr. Wheelwright explained that he spent many years in Boston and its vicinity and so came to know men who have gone down in history. He recalled the early days of the civil war, when he was an adjutant in one of the first United States regiments to enter Baltimore.

The society sent greetings to Frederick V. Holman, who was reported by Dr. Cox to be out of danger now. Frank Dayton arranged the luncheon.

POULTRY HELD NUISANCE

RESIDENTS ASK CITY COUNCIL TO ERADICATE NOISE.

But Cock May Crow and Hens Cackle Until Investigation Proves Them Annoying.

Roosters may crow and hens cackle in Portland without restraint applied by the city council. The city fathers are not ready at this time to pass legislation aimed at noise from poultry breeding was under consideration yesterday, and the council agreed to view the premises and, if conditions prove as bad as the complainants described, to take suitable action.

L. M. Lepper, attorney for some of the protesters, told the city council that one rooster near his home had crowed 37 times in 30 minutes yesterday morning. He said that at times 100 roosters were kept on the property against which the protest is directed.

"If one rooster will crow 37 times in 30 minutes, just think of the noise that 100 roosters make," said Mr. Lepper.

The property owners who protested told the city council that they could not sleep with open windows because of the noisy chickens and roosters. City Commissioner Barbur will continue his investigation into the general subject of crowing roosters and cackling hens within the city limits.
