119 Citizens of Cascade Locks Appeal to Opponents to Stop "Persecuting" J. H. Dunn.

HOOD RIVER, Or., April 24,-(Special.)—Factionalism in Cascade Locks resulting recently when the school board there reinstated J. H. Dunn as principal of the school following his acquittal by a jury in circuit court here of a statutory charge involving a girl student continues. An element of the highway town sought Mr. Dunn's removal through an appeal to J. A. Churchill, state superintendent of public instruction. The latter declined to interfere, declaring that the local school board was supreme. On the heels of the appeal to Mr. Churchill the following appeared in local news-papers as an advertisement: "We, the undersigned citizens of

"Referring to the advertisement,
"Persecutors of Mr. and Mrs. Dunn." we wish to say that if this were taken at its face value it would not merit a reply or notice of any kind, as there is no persecution here of Mr. and Mrs. Dunn or anyone else. But if this advertisement refers to the hon est and sincere efforts on the part of self-respecting and conscientious citizens to clean up a condition which, as is well known to many signers of said advertisement, is not creditable to this community, then

"We, as representatives of a ma-fority of the people of this school district, strenously object to our efforts in this direction being termed un-neighborly, un-Christian and un-American, and will state that our sense of duty toward ourselves and fellow citizens will not permit us to cease in our efforts until our school district can again claim the right to be classed with other self-respecting communities of our state."

Open from 9 o'clock in the morning have been set aside by the supreme until 4 o'clock the following morning. the only question so far considered by the prosecutor is whether a retrial is possible at the present jury term, according to Judge Holden, presiding judge at the former trial.
