Alaska has been scratched merely as regards gold discoveries, and of its mineral riches the half has not been told. He said Alaska supplies the finest furs known to the world's markets. Alaska has a great seal herd with the United States brand on every one. There are 250,000 reindeer in Alaska and the territory can raise 5000,000, he said. It would not be at all difficult, he said within a few years to ship 25,000 reindeer to the Portland market in any autumn.

Resources Are Discussed.

The speaker told of many applications for homesteads filed in Alaska and for oil wells. He said the country being opened by the government railroad there is more easily farmed and not so cold as Montana. He said Alaska has great timber resources, with seven valuable woods, chief among them being spruce. He made as strong plea for more close trade relations between Portland and Alaska.
