Team Boasts More Southpaws Than Right-Handers, With Lad Named Alten Best Bet.

Coast league race, but have occurred to coming along so fast of late that they are in the first division. They only broke even against Vernon last week, but the week before took Los Angeles down the line, five games to two.

With so many left-handed batters in their lineup the Beavers have looked pretty sick against port-sided flinging. Fittery of Sacramento would make almost any club look sick when he is going right, but even Niehaus got away with his game Sunday, and he is no great shakes as a pitcher. Evidently the Oaks intend to southpaw the boys to death, for their pitching staff includes no less than four left-handers. That's almost a record. In fact, the Oaks have more southpaws than right-handers. Their best bet appears to be a lad named Alten, but in addition to him they have Winn, who had both jaws broken by a line drive last season when somebody lammed one at him so fast he couldn't catch it or dodge it; Ray Kremer, who admits he has so much stuff he doesn't dare use it all for fear of killing somebody, and old Harry Krause. Krause has been pitching in this leading long time, but the old rated by many the best pitcher in the circuit, but something has happened to Buzz. He either has been knocked out of the box in every start he has made but one, or has been left on the mound to take punishment and suffer. That happened in San Francisco Sunday, when Vernom made 16 hits off him and won the game, 12 to 0. The peculiar part about it was that Arlett was that the there to take all that Vernor back the set of take all that the set of take all that Vernor back the set of take all that the set of take all that Vernor back the set of take all that Verno peculiar part about it was that Ariett was left there to take all that Vernon could give him.

This seems to lend some color to the story spread in Oakland that Ariett's ineffectiveness isn't due to a sore arm, the official alibi, but to the fact that he isn't trying to pitch. If he really had a sore arm, it doesn't seem reasonable to believe he would be required to nitch out a game like required to pitch out a game like

According to the Oakland story, Ar lett is on mighty poor terms with Del Howard and some other members of the Oakland club. Of course, he may really have a sore arm, but in any event he hasn't been pitching the ball expected of him.

Weather permitting, the series against the Oaks will start this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The usual sevengame series will be played, with a double-header Sunday. Portland hasn't met the Oaks before this season, so it's too early to say whether their visit will be a blessing or a curse.

Dutch Rock, the California Mission league pitcher who joined the club three weeks ago in Sacramento, is no longer with the Beavers. Walt McCredie released him Sunday and he took the rattler back to California. With hig Rip King on his way to join Billy Speas' Regina club in the Western Canada league, that reduces the Portland club to 18 players, two less than they can carry under the league rules. Rip will be absent only temporarily for a season's work behind the bat nearly every day will just about make a star of him. He is pretty sure to be with the Beavers next year, if he isn't in the big show by then. The big fellow is ambitious. Though he hated to leave the Coast league, he did it because he became convinced that plenty of work is what he needs to bring him around. Dutch Rock, the California Mission bring him around.

This kid Rose who plays utility outfield for Sacramento will get himself badly beaned one of these days if he doesn't restrain his rowdy tendencies. He deliberately kneed Pep Young while going into second Sunday. It was a dirty piece of work, done with full intent to injure, not the foxy interference that a skiliful baserunner will pull to prevent a double play. Young's knee where Rose hit him was badly swollen Sunday night and the youngster was kept awake from the pain. On some ball clubs the pitcher on Rose's next.

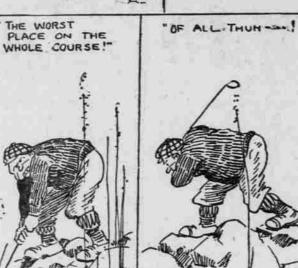

Where the Teams Play This Week, Oakland at Portland, Vernon at Seattle, Sacramento at San Francisco, Sait Lake tuga at bat would have shown him days if he doesn't restrain his rowdy turn at bat would have shown him at Los Anse his place by throwing the ball at his head just as hard as it could be heaved. Krause has been pitching in this league a long, long time, but the old boy is still there when the hot weather comes around. His fast one hasn't the hop it once possessed, so he depends a good deal on a spitter. There are so few spitball pitchers in the league that it gives an advantage to those who are permitted to use that delivery, for the batters don't see it offen enough to get hep.
