Board Not Expected to Make De cision, Taking at Least Month to Digest Evidence,

Devoting most of their argument to denials of the charges of waste and mismanagement made by the employes, counsel for the roads finally cast the charges aside as irrelevant and stood on their original contention that wages in outside industries and the cost of living had declined.

The board was told it should consider only the factors laid down in the transportation act in fixing just and reasonable wages by F. W. Sargent, solicitor for the Chicago & Northwestern. W. J. Lauck, the unions' economist, had asked the board to abandon those factors, he said.
