

IRRECONCILABLES SO FAR ARE SATISFIED

Attitude, However, Is One of Watchful Waiting.

WAR DANCE UNCERTAIN

No Trouble Likely Unless President Tries to Submit Treaty or Any Part for Ratification.

BY MARK SULLIVAN. (Copyright by the New York Evening Post, Inc. Published by Arrangement in Washington, D. C., May 10.—(Special.)—The best judgment is that the irreconcilable senators won't make any trouble for President Harding about what he has done in Europe. So far, the irreconcilables say they have no protest to make, but, looking to the future, their attitude is one of extremely watchful waiting.

A few democratic senators, like Senator Reed of Missouri, will poke fun at the republicans, but the republican irreconcilables, who compose the only group that President Harding needs to concern himself about, aren't going to do anything for the present. They say they have no cause to complain when a man who was their confidant and inspiration and their spokesman—namely, George Harvey—is the one chosen by President Harding to sit in the supreme council. But there can readily arise a question of degree which will start the tug-of-war between the White House and the irreconcilable senators all over again.

The truth is that if we are asked our views we will give them purely as informal views, and you probably have what is for the present the entire extent of the administration's intention.

Force to Be Only Moral. If Germany procrastinates about agreeing to pay every cent that she possibly can pay in the way of reparations for the damage she has done, then the United States will undoubtedly say that Germany's course meets with our disapproval. If, on the other hand, France should show a disposition not to be satisfied with gaining adequate reparations out of Germany, and if France should embark on a course of rendering Germany economically impotent, just for the sake of making Germany impotent, then undoubtedly the United States would express disapproval of the course.

ACCEPTANCE HELPS ALLIES

GERMAN SITUATION BELIEVED CLARIFIED BY AMERICA.

Presence of United States' Envoys at Conferences Expected to Help Entente Position.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 9.—Acceptance by the United States of the invitation to have representation on the councils dealing with world economic settlements is regarded by some diplomats as strengthening the allies' hand in their dealings with Germany and clearing away doubt as to the attitude of the United States. President Harding, in his message accepting the invitation, made it clear, these diplomats say, that the administration, while re-stating its determination to abstain from participation in purely European affairs, proposes that the United States lend its aid in effecting readjustments. The presence of American representatives on the supreme council, the conference of ambassadors, and the reparations commission, they believe, will facilitate the settlement. The situation is believed better than it has been since the yenote failed to ratify the treaty of Versailles.

BERLIN LIKELY TO AGREE

(Continued From First Page.) be meeting today and was given a seat at the right of Jules Cambon of France, the president of the council. The problem of Upper Silesia was the subject of the deliberations of the council this forenoon. Roland W. Boyden, who formerly sat with the allied reparations commission at its sessions, has received his instruction from the state department to resume his seat with that body. Even if the Germans accept the allied reparations ultimatum, the troops mobilized for the occupation will be held in readiness for action in case Bavaria does not disarm before June 20, the time limit fixed by the allies for completion of the disarming process, it was stated in official circles.

ACCEPTANCE IS ADVISED

Robert Friedlaender Says Nation's Fate Is in Good Hands. BERLIN, May 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—The advice which Robert Friedlaender, industrialist and financier, today gave his countrymen after an examination of the allied ultimatum and protocol, was this: "The fate of Germany and her future good name are in our hands; let us go to work. The document has been drawn up by sober-minded, calmly calculating business men, who have weighed the prerequisites on which their conclusions are based." Herr Friedlaender expressed the belief that the allies' terms were acceptable, because they are reasonable and can be fulfilled under conditions which might be taken for granted and which, indeed, would be incorporated in the treaty. He set for the things necessary to Germany's ability to carry out the protocol as "the return of Germany's industrial capacity, inventive genius and enterprise to the pre-war basis at least, and that no integral parts of her territory be detached, thus causing irreparable damage to the borders." He commended the authors of the reparations document and the ultimatum for wisely having refrained from projecting the questions of guilt or moral responsibility for the war into the issue. He tells his countrymen they have a thorny, rocky road ahead, but that acceptance now will remove "the paralyzing burden of uncertainty" and enable Germany's economic organization to settle down to producing the surplus needed to meet the terms. He conceded that the result of the efforts in this direction probably will not be visible for the first two or three years.

GERMAN BOND ISSUE LIKELY

Prospect Occasions Considerable Speculation in Paris. PARIS, May 9.—The possibility of the issue by Germany of bonds for 12,000,000,000 gold marks bearing 6 per cent interest for the benefit of the allies has started speculation in financial circles regarding eventual issue to be floated by the allies with the bonds as a guarantee. It was said at the ministry of finance today that this was among the possibilities. Rumors are current here of a projected loan by France in the United States, but the ministry of finance declares no such project is under consideration. Bankers and treasury officials do not expect the dollar to go back to 16, but look for fluctuations due to changing conditions in the exchange market. The general opinion is that it may stabilize between 19 and 23.

GERMANS ARE MORE SULLEN

Temper of Population Seems Also to Be More Nervous. DUESSELDORF, May 9.—(By the Associated Press.)—As the day approaches for the final occupation of additional German territory by the allies the temper of the population seems to be growing more nervous and sullen. Leaves of officers and soldiers have been reduced and fewer troops are visible in the streets. French headquarters has informed the burgomaster that the artillery would fire at the first outbreak of rioting.

PARTY LINES BREAK IN TARIFF DEBATE

Senator Moses Charges Big Lobby With Pressure.

KNOX MAKES REJOINDER

Attitude Not Based on Views of Future Needs of Government in War, Is Reply Given.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 9.—Party lines were broken in the senate during debate on the emergency tariff bill today. Senator Moses, republican of New Hampshire, delivering a scathing denunciation of it and Senator Ashurst, democrat of Arizona, warning his colleagues not to let "the folks back home" learn they stood for free trade. Senator Moses charged that a great lobby was pressing for passage and attacked the leadership of his party for its part in seeking to enact such legislation. It was not a republican measure, he said, and had no support from the entire house insofar as it proposed to continue the war-time restrictions on importations of dyes.

Mr. Moses' drive against the lobby, which he said was "the largest, most highly organized, best paid and most arrogant of any this capital has seen," brought a rejoinder from Senator Knox, republican of Pennsylvania, who sponsored the amendment restricting dye importations. Mr. Knox argued that the senator's attitude was not based on the views of future needs of the government in time of war. Mr. Moses submitted what he described as a statement of expenditures by the American dye institute covering its activities in behalf of the tariff bill and totaling approximately $104,900.

Mr. Knox, republican of Pennsylvania, who he described as enjoying a large measure of control over the dye industry in the United States. Recalling that he had opposed the bill in the previous congress, Mr. Moses said he had hoped when its reconsideration was begun by the senate finance committee that he would be able to "swallow even though holding my nose while voting for it." Its appearance, however, did not justify his hopes, he said.

PEACE OFFICERS TO MEET

Organization for Identification of Criminals Is Proposed. SALINAS, Cal., May 9.—Organization by peace officers of California, Oregon, Nevada, Washington, Idaho and British Columbia of an association for identification of criminals will be considered at the seventh annual convention of the California state division of the International Association for Criminal Identification to be held here May 11 to 14 inclusive. Peace officers of the far west, by working together in identification of criminals, leaders of the movement for a coast organization say, could perfect a scheme to watch all undesirable and men with prison records who move from one state to another. The association could arrange for speedy exchange of finger prints and other marks of identification.
