LUMBER MILL TO RISE

PENINSULA COMPANY TO CONSTRUCT $750,000 UNIT. Dock Facilities to Be Increased and Provision Made for Era of Great Activity.

(Continued From First Page) and yard equipment for the expeditious handling of the product from one department to another, as well as for shipment and home distribution, will be of the latest type. The Peninsula Lumber company, strictly an Oregon corporation, is attesting to the faith of its stockholders in the upbuilding of home industries and in the expansion of facilities from a central unit. As to the wisdom of such confidence the management yesterday added to its official announcement of the new plant the following: "The management of the company feels that no Portland or Oregonian should be perturbed because of existing business conditions. The conditions are far from perfect and perhaps restorative changes may seem to develop slowly, yet it appears probable that business in general, and the lumber industry in particular, has ceased its downward trend and must soon display a normal revival.

WOMAN CHANGES PLEA

Fannie Ortel, Notorious Shoplifter, Answers "Guilty" to Charge.

Fannie Ortel, known to the police of a dozen or more American cities under the aliases of Fannie Smith, Fannie Lewis, Mrs. William Ortel, Martha Ortel and Maggie Lefever, changed her plea of not guilty to a charge of shoplifting to guilty before Presiding Circuit Judge Kavanaugh yesterday morning. She will be sentenced next Thursday afternoon. Walker, detective for Lipman, Wolfe & Co., after a chase through city streets last March. She had taken a dress from the store. BAD CHECK CASES BOOKED

3 MEN PROBABLY WILL BE HELD TO GRAND JURY. Police Pick Up Suspects and Will Take Them to Municipal Court for Trial Today.

Several of the city's industrious "paperhangers" who have been victimizing merchants with strings of bad checks, probably will be held to answer charges in court as a result of captures by the police department yesterday. Philip Hunter, alias Philip Hund, alleged to have made a specialty of garages, was arrested by Patrolmen Wright and Drennen of the auto theft department. Hunter was alleged to have stolen a pair of magnets and disposed of them to a dealer. According to the police, he copied the signatures of the dealer and proceeded to make the rounds of the garages, making a small purchase and tendering a check in payment. The officers notified the number of garages to be looked out for him, and when Hunter presented a check yesterday at Martha Washington, East Forty-first and Division streets, he was apprehended. Hunter is a mechanic, about 35 years old and is an ex-shipyard worker. He was arrested in the Sic Sichel store yesterday by Inspectors Hill and Mallett. He was alleged to have presented a check for $18.75 in payment for a purchase. Allen told the police that he had been out of work and unable to find a job and has been putting out checks to pay his expenses. Police are seeking to connect him with a number of other bad checks that have been reported. Inspector Morak left last night for Jacksonville, Or., to bring back W. G. Boyd, alias W. J. Hues, who was alleged to have passed a forged check on a local hotel for $200. Boyd was alleged to have passed bad checks in Jacksonville after leaving Portland.

PLUMBERS IN SESSION

OREGON DELEGATES ARE WELCOMED BY MAYOR. Two Addresses of Importance Are Delivered; Drive Begun to Get 1925 Convention.

The Oregon State Association of Master Plumbers opened its two-day annual session yesterday at the Imperial Hotel. The delegates to the convention were officially welcomed to Portland by Mayor Baker, and the delegates were well received by William T. Finnigan before the meeting settled down to routine and trade business. One of the most important features of the present convention from a local standpoint, was the drive started by the state association, to have the national association of master plumbers convene in Portland in 1925. The slogan, "Portland, Oregon, 1925," was adopted by the state delegates and will be carried to the national convention in the drive to win the assemblage for Oregon in the world fair year.

PRISCILLA DEAN TO GO

FILM ACTRESS AND COMPANY WILL LEAVE TODAY. Interiors of Picture Which Was to Have Been Made Here Will Be "Shot" in Studio.

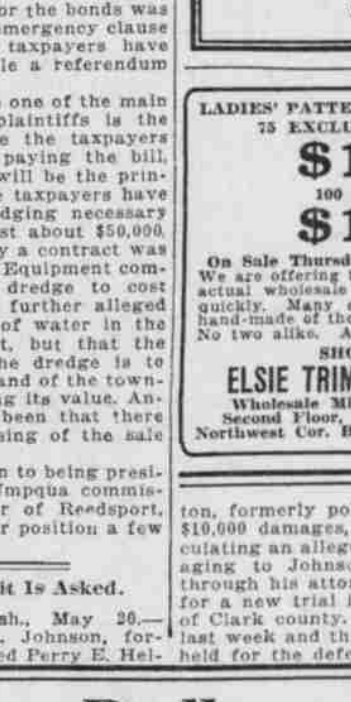

A fade-out of Stuart Paton, director, and about 20 disappointed moving-picture players on a train leaving Portland at 8:40 A. M. today for Universal City, Cal., will mark the close of the first trek of Priscilla Dean's film company to Oregon to make a screen production in this territory. Miss Dean, Peggy O'Dare and "Doc" Joss, an assistant director, will stay in the city today so that the star can fulfill an engagement to appear in person at a downtown theater. They will leave on a midnight train for the south. The decision to abandon the project here, at least temporarily, was reached by Mr. Paton, Miss Dean and their aides yesterday after a long conference. Although absence of the proper amount of sunshine kept the company idle for nearly a week, lack of suitable locations, particularly the failure of a log jam at Kelso, Wash., to fulfill expectations, was charged that it was a clandestine meeting when the ordinance for the bonds was adopted and that an emergency ordinance was attached. The taxpayers have declared they will file a referendum on the bond issue. What appears to be one of the main contentions of the plaintiffs in the allegation that while the taxpayers of the port will be paying the bill, Mr. Reed's townsite will be the principal beneficiary. The taxpayers have alleged that the dredging necessary in the port would cost about $50,000, but that last Saturday a contract was given to the Power & Equipment company for a suction dredge to cost $85,000. It has been further alleged that there is plenty of water in the channel at Reedsport, but that the purpose of having the dredge is to use it to fill the low land of the townsite, thereby enhancing its value. Another allegation has been that there was no legal advertising of the sale of bonds. Mr. Reed, in addition to being president of the port of Umpqua commission, has been mayor of Reedsport, but resigned the latter position a few days ago. New $10,000 Suit Is Asked. A thorough discussion of the plan sponsored by W. F. Woodward of the school board for the moral and religious education of school children was held yesterday at a meeting of representative citizens in the Y. M. C. auditorium. Definite action taken at the meeting consisted in the adoption of a resolution expressing the opinion of the meeting at the stand taken in the matter by the school board and the adoption of a motion for the selection of a committee of seven or more members, including representatives from the various religious faiths, to form a definite plan for religious education of school children to be presented to the school board. The skeleton plan, as expounded to the meeting by Mr. Woodward, provided for a committee of seven or more members, including representatives from the various religious faiths, to form a definite plan for religious education of school children to be presented to the school board. Company Organized in 1903

The original peninsula Lumber company, then Wisconsin corporation, was formed in 1903 with a capital stock of $100,000. In 1906 the capital stock was increased to $300,000 and in 1919 to $400,000. The company's initial investment was the purchase of the old Cone mill site, comprising a location 400 feet square. The concern soon acquired adjacent property so that it held land fronting on the river for about 1400 feet and later purchases extended the holdings on the river to 1300 feet. In taking over the operation of the Cone mill the daily output was speeded from 20,000 feet to 150,000 feet in 10 hours. The increase was brought about by the addition of resaws and such equipment. The purchase of the stock of the Wisconsin corporation in 1914 by Portland interests resulted in that company being dissolved and an Oregon corporation was formed with an authorized capital of $2,000,000. Other than stock held by the Alexander-Stewart Lumber company of Wausau, and Charles Edgar of Essex Falls, N. J., the present holdings are controlled by: Concern Expands Rapidly. The change to an Oregon-controlled organization witnessed the building of the 1000-foot export dock, the purchase of three tracts of valuable standing timber and increasing of the production of the plant from 150,000 feet of lumber in 10 hours to 300,000 feet in eight hours, equipment added to make that possible being heavier resaws and a gang saw. The next step was the buying of property on the north that increased the length of the site to 3550 feet and with adequate space assured consideration was given the expansion program that has resulted in its being paved for its realization, as announced yesterday. Records indicate that up to 1914 a major portion of the output sold away from home moved by railroad, and at present deliveries are being made via every transcontinental line in America, but provision for loading as well as manufacturing has credited appreciable gains for the plant in deepwater shipments. Investors Are Optimistic. Whole favored as to location on the river the Peninsula mill is as well situated for railroad connections. The district contiguous after the additional plant will increase its personnel to a marked degree, housing problems are not looming. During the war the Peninsula plant was in the front rank of plants engaged in supporting the fighting forces in addition to its lumber output, figuring in all manner of projects identified with the program of combat, there was maintained a shipyard on the property

GRANGE AGAINST BONDS

Action of Hood River Pomona Draws Criticism of Members. HOOD RIVER, Or., May 20.—(Special.)—The Hood River County Pomona grange has adopted a resolution in opposition to the proposed $350,000 bond issue to be voted on by electors at the June 4 election, with which Hood River county plans on joining the state highway commission in constructing a 21-mile trunk road through the Hood River valley to connect the Columbia river highway with the Mount Hood loop road. The resolution, which has drawn the criticism of numerous valley grangers, who said the document was adopted with only a relatively small number present, opposes the road on the grounds of improper location and because, as is declared, the highway will not be paved. The grange resolution offers an alternative that the county issue its limit of bonds, about $500,000, and locate a trunk road to suit the citizens here.
