Programme of Reforestation Demanded in Report of Forest Committee:

EUGENE, Or., June 3 .- (Special.)-Sentiment of the farmers of Oregon as represented by the state grange began to crystallize late this aftermoon, the third day of the session, in the consideration of the few resolutions which so far have seeped down through the respective committees. through the respective committees. Other than complete victory for a programme of rigid economy in state and national affairs, little indication has been given in the voting, and the discussion which preceded it, as to any one definite policy being the out-come of the assembly.

Abolition of the state highway commission and the election in its place of one man, who would be paid a salary and who would be directly responsible to the electorate, is to be asked by the grange with the in-dersement of a resolution introduced by George Harrow of Washington

State Income Tax Favored.

A state income tax, the abolition of "all waste and extravagance," and the enactment of a law by the state legislature requiring all manufacturers of woolen fabric to tag their products with the percentage of virgin wool and other material represented in their manufacture, were recommended in the report of the committee on jegislation, which reccommended in the report of the committee on legislation, which recommended, among other things, the abolition of all miliage taxes after 1924, the division of the seasion of the state legislature into two 20-day seasions, doing away with two-thirds of the state committee. the state committees, and the reduc-tion of all salaries, with the excep-tion of sheriffs, 231-3 per cent, The last two were sent back to the com-mittee and the others lost. A recom-mendation calling for a restriction of the number of hills to be introduced by each member of the legislature was tabled.

Forest Planting Demanded. The entire project of the forestry programme to meet a condition of timber depletion, was adopted. "Timber for the future is simply a matter of prints future is another.
