

ANOTHER LOVE NEST LAID TO STILLMAN

Banker and Mrs. Leeds Said to Have Been at Malba.

INFANT ALSO IS ALONG

Renting of 11-Room Residence, Only Half Hour's Run From Pennsylvania Station, Related.

NEW YORK, June 3.—(Special.)—A new and hitherto undiscovered "love nest" of James A. Stillman, president of the National City bank, and the woman as whose husband he was posing, Mrs. Florence Leeds, was brought to light today. It was at Malba, L. I. which is between College Point and Whitestone, within a half hour's run from the Pennsylvania station here, and by far the nearest suburban place "Mr. Leeds" (as he called himself) ever engaged. "Mr. and Mrs. Leeds," and their baby, "Jay Leeds," lived there in an 11-room house during June and July of last year, but left with two more months of their tenancy to go, because, it was said, of a quarrel between "Mrs. Leeds" and a Mrs. Glidden, housekeeper of the place. The quarrel, curiously enough, occurred over nothing more serious than the correct way in which fudge should be made.

Reading of Place Related.
According to information obtained by a reporter, a woman calling herself Mrs. Glidden, of middle age, looked over the Long Island neighborhood between Malba and College Point last spring. She said she represented a Mr. Leeds, a gentleman of wealth, who was seeking a summer home for his wife and baby somewhere near the waters of the sound. Howard H. Hamilton, a well-to-do tobacco dealer, had an 11-room house looking out upon Powell's cove in one direction and the hills of Great Neck in another. Upon being assured of "Mr. Leeds' s" manner and responsibility, he agreed to let this place out for $25 a month, or $2500 for the season. "Mr. Leeds" and Mrs. Hamilton met, agreed upon the terms, and he and "Mrs. Leeds" and the baby moved into the place.

Recognition Is Admitted.
Mr. Hamilton admitted today that he had subsequently recognized "Mr. and Mrs. Leeds" from the newspaper photographs published in connection with the Stillman case. According to what the whole neighborhood learned, "Mrs. Leeds" and the housekeeper, Mrs. Glidden, were making some fuss with a disagreeable man about the best recipe. This wound up in mutual recriminations. It was said, "Mrs. Leeds" accusing the housekeeper of gossiping with the neighborhood and Mrs. Glidden making a few retorts about the younger woman's mode of life. At all events, the Leeds outfit cleared away the next day and never was seen again, except (as the neighbors said) by their photographs as Stillman, the woman he was protecting and their child.

The purpose of the mysterious conferences in the Stillman case in New York and Yonkers yesterday, it was learned, was to iron out difficulties among counsel for Mrs. James A. Stillman and to select one of her lawyers to direct her case and John E. Brennan of Yonkers was selected and from now on he will handle the defense and direct the court fight when the hearings are resumed before Referee Daniel J. Gleason in Poughkeepsie next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Defense Is Co-ordinated.
Mr. Brennan came into the case through Stanchfield and Levy, who engaged him originally because he lives in Westchester county and is thoroughly familiar with court procedure in the second judicial district, which takes in Westchester and other counties. He represented Stanchfield and Levy in all cases in that district. At one time there were rumors that Stanchfield and Levy would withdraw from the case entirely, but these stories were not substantiated. Stanchfield and Levy will be represented by two of the young trial attorneys, Abel Smith and William M. Park.

The conference resulted in a co-ordination of the defense. Mr. Brennan will be the leader in court. George Coghill of Cadwalader, Wickersham and Taft, attorneys of record for Mrs. Stillman, has been placed in charge of all matters pertaining to Mrs. Stillman's charges against Mr. Stillman and Mrs. Florence H. Leeds. Mr. Park of Stanchfield and Levy has been delegated to handle evidence concerning "other women" and Mr. Smith has been requested to organize the material regarding the Canadian witnesses.

Way Opened for Answer.
The conferences at which these decisions were reached were attended by George Coghill, John B. Stanchfield, John E. Brennan and John E. Mack, guardian ad litem for Guy Stillman. As a result of the conferences it is expected the plan for Mrs. Stillman to ask the court's permission to serve another amended answer, naming other women besides Mrs. Leeds, will be expedited. It was authoritatively said the conferences did not point in any way to an eleventh-hour settlement. Plans were laid to go ahead with hearings without fail. Referee

SEASONAL RATES PLANNED

Hoover Would Avoid Congestion and High Prices of Coal.

WASHINGTON, D. C., June 3.—Plans for a voluntary agreement between the railroads to establish seasonal rates on coal in Europe was discussed today by President Harding and his cabinet. Latest reports regarding conditions abroad are understood to have been reviewed, but there was no indication of any definite decision. It is understood that one of the principal troubles encountered by the railroads is the problem of looking too much to the government for relief.

Administration officials are said to have consulted private business concerns that they first must do everything in their power to take care of themselves before appealing to the government.

SELF-HELP IS SUGGESTED

Too Much Expected of Government, Officials Declare.

BOND SUIT INSTITUTED

Willamette Valley Irrigation Issue of $100,000 Is Involved.

SALEM, Or., June 3.—(Special.)—The Title & Trust company of Portland today filed suit in the circuit court here to fix the amount due on the $100,000 bond issue of the Willamette Valley Irrigated Land company.

The suit alleges that section 27 particularly violates subsection 6, section 9, article 1, of the United States constitution. The subsection provides that no preference shall be given by any regulation of commerce or revenue to the ports of one state over the ports of another state.

TOWNS FACE DESTRUCTION

filled, according to a report received here at 10 o'clock tonight by a telephone company from the Pueblo office. The report said the police had ordered the streets cleared of both pedestrians and traffic.

Flood calls sounded at five-minute intervals of the Pueblo city streets. Eighteen families in the bottom lands of the west part of Pueblo were rescued by the police.

The Arkansas river was running over the protecting levee at two points near the state insane asylum. The Pueblo gas and electric plants were expected to be flooded any minute.

Troop C, Colorado national guard, has been called out for guard duty along the banks of both the Arkansas and the Fountain rivers.

Torrential rains draining into the Fountain river, which runs through Pueblo toward the east, were devastating. The levee west of Pueblo has not broken, but the water was reported at the top of it.

Train Service Held Up.
CASPER, Wyo., June 3.—A cloud-burst which struck Douglas last night and carried out railroad and highway bridges and approximately 1500 feet of roadbed on the Colorado & Southern about 100 miles north of Cheyenne, held up train service into Casper from the east for 12 hours last night and today on both the Burlington and the Chicago & Northwestern. The Yellowstone highway bridge, one mile east of Douglas, was swept away, but a detour was made which permitted traffic over the road today.

Babies Should Be Bathed Six Times a Day.

But Not in Water.
"If babies were ducks," I would write a well-known nurse, "I would urge mothers to sponge them thoroughly at almost regular intervals, and as it is, I advise at least one soap and water bath a day—but nature never intended humans to be aquatic animals."

"Still, the salts and acids in baby's perspiration make it necessary for Mother to constantly cleanse, purify and soothe the skin."
"So I have devised a dry bath—that can be used half a dozen times a day without the slightest danger of injury and with assured beneficial results."

"I sprinkle my baby with Johnson's Baby Powder under the arm pits, in the groin and between the soft folds of flesh. Johnson's Baby Powder is more than a mere talcum. It contains beneficial antiseptics which cleanse and purify."

MERCANTILE MARINE ACT TEST PROPOSED

Alaskans Hold Section of Law Unconstitutional.

CARGO TRAFFIC INVOLVED

Measure Barring Diversion From U. S. to Canadian Ports for Shipment North Assailed.

JUNEAU, Alaska, June 3.—Action seeking to have set aside section 27 of the mercantile marine act of 1920, prohibiting diversion of American cargo to Canadian ports for shipment to Alaska, was instituted in federal court here yesterday by Attorney General Rustgard in behalf of the Alaska territorial government and the Juneau commercial association.

The attorney-general alleges section 27 violates section 3, article 1 of the federal constitution. Petition for a permanent injunction against the collector of customs here, restraining him from interfering with cargo shipped in violation of the section, will be filed Monday, Mr. Rustgard announced.

A "test" cargo was shipped from a Canadian port to Juneau yesterday. Application for a temporary order to restrain the federal government from interfering with the cargo will be made the basis of the action for a permanent injunction, according to Mr. Rustgard.

The test suit alleges that section 27 particularly violates subsection 6, section 9, article 1, of the United States constitution. The subsection provides that no preference shall be given by any regulation of commerce or revenue to the ports of one state over the ports of another state.
