

PUEBLO IS SWEEPED BY NEW TORRENT

Skagway Reservoir Out; River Again Rampant.

HEAVY RAIN IS FALLING

Downpour, Amounting Almost to Cloudburst, Is Reported in City.

DAM ALSO IS TORN OUT

Loss of Life Is Estimated Varies from 100 Minimum Up to 600.

PUEBLO, Colo., June 5.—(By the Associated Press.)—Just when Pueblo today was beginning to recover from the terrible disaster of Friday night, a dam on the Fountain river, near Colorado Springs, broke, the Skagway reservoir, between Florence and Victor, suddenly gave way, and a downpour of rain, almost a cloudburst, caused what really amounted to three new floods.

At 2:30 o'clock this afternoon the Skagway reservoir gave way and within an hour the swollen torrent of the Arkansas river again had inundated the low-lying sections of the city.

A downpour of rain again began at 9 o'clock. The downpour amounted almost to a cloudburst. Whether or not the rain followed the course of the Arkansas river above Pueblo could not be learned because of the darkness. If it did, undoubtedly another rapid rise in the river would be probable almost immediately.

At 4 o'clock this morning the waters again had reached Third street. By 8 o'clock they were receding and it was believed all danger was ended. Then Skagway reservoir broke and brought the second new flood.

The river went up to Third street on North Santa Fe avenue again this afternoon, following the heavy rain and the break of the reservoir and the dam. The waters went to Sixth street and Main street. Later they receded.

The Arkansas river at 10 o'clock tonight had reached Fifth and Court streets, the highest it has been since the flood when the water reached Fifth and Main streets.

Heavy Rains Hurt Roads.

At 10:20 the river was reported at its crest and beginning to subside. There was not the rush of water which accompanied Friday's flood.

Fear was expressed for the safety of people living in towns on the Arkansas river below Pueblo. There was no way of confirming it from here. It was impossible to get into other sections of the city or out of the city from the south.

The heavy rains again made the roads almost impassable.

J. L. Moorehead, secretary to the governor, tonight said he thought the death list would not exceed 150, although reports to him ranged from 200 to 600.

The local Red Cross set a minimum death list at 100, while old residents, familiar with conditions in the Grove and Peppersauce district, where the loss of life and property damage was greatest, insisted that final investigation would show a greater number of dead.

Troops Clear District.

Trees and masses of debris were coming down from the country above Pueblo on the crest of the new flood. Troops quickly cleared the business and wholesale districts. Citizens were prevented from coming within a block of the waters, while every effort was made to prevent loss of life from the new danger.

Governor Shoup and Colonel Patrick Hamrock, commander of the state constabulary, arrived here today to take personal charge of the situation. Immediately upon their arrival, they held a conference with Mayor Studinsky and Chief of Police Dailey, at which the city authorities approved of a plan whereby Colonel Hamrock's troops, consisting of Colorado national guard units and state rangers, will assume all responsibility.

3 RELIEF COURSES IN PUEBLO ADOPTED

ENGINEERS TO RECONSTRUCT LEVEES AT ONCE.

Immediate Relief From Water Situation and Supply of Typhoid Antitoxin Sought.

PUEBLO, Colo., June 5.—Three plans of action to take care of the situation in Pueblo were decided upon at a conference this afternoon between Governor Shoup, officials of the national guard, Colorado state rangers and city authorities. They were:

Engineering work to reconstruct the levees and protect the business section. It was believed that state and possibly government engineers would be called in so that the city might be assured against repetition of the flood.

Immediate relief for the water situation. The conference decided that something must be done at once to assure the city a supply of pure water. The present water was contaminated and sanitation was bad. Extreme care must be taken, it was declared, to guard against the possibility of an epidemic.

Securing of a quick supply of typhoid anti-toxin.

A general clean-up of the city. The streets and business houses were filled with mud, debris piled high on corners at the main thoroughfares. Bodies of some of the dead were believed to be buried in the mud that covers the city streets.

SPEED COPS TO BE NAMED

Four More Officers to Be Appointed to Enforce Traffic Laws.

SALEM, Or., June 5.—(Special.)—Appointments of four additional state traffic officers under a new law enacted at the last session of the legislature will be announced by Sam A. Koser, secretary of state, some time this week. More than 50 applications for these four positions have been filed, including a number of ex-police officers and deputy sheriffs in different sections of the state.

With the appointment of these four officers, a total of 25 are now deputized at work under the direction of the state motor vehicle department. These are in addition to T. A. Rafferty, chief motor vehicle inspector, who is in charge of the entire division.

The men will be stationed on main traveled highways in various sections of the state, and every effort will be made to curb speeding and other traffic violations, according to Mr. Rafferty.

CITY LABOR WALKS OUT

Strikers at Great Falls Induce Non-Union Men to Quit.

GREAT FALLS, Mont., June 5.—Representatives of the local central trades and labor council yesterday induced half of a force of 50 men, hired by the city in place of employees now out on strike, to abandon work. Mayor Armour declared the city would not recede from its position that $450 was a fair wage for common labor and $5 sufficient for teamsters.

Heads of city departments announced that they would continue to give work to applicants without question as to their union affiliations.

MINERS ARE DISCOMFITED

Lloyd George's Ultimatum Causes Consternation Among Leaders.

LONDON, June 4.—(By the Associated Press.)—Premier Lloyd George's statement that the government has no further proposition to make to the miners, coupled with the announcement that the offer of a grant of 10,000,000 pounds to aid the coal industry will not remain open longer than a fortnight if a settlement is not reached, fell like a bombshell in the camp of the miners' executives.

The effect was indicated by the decision of the executives to adjourn until Monday in order, as one miner expressed it, that "we may sleep on it and be in a better frame of mind to decide what action to take."

100 BODIES RECOVERED

Large Part of State Highway Fund Is Expected to Be Used in Repairing Roads, Bridges.

PUEBLO, Colo., June 5.—(By the Associated Press.)—Approximately 100 bodies had been recovered tonight from Friday night's flood, according to figures available at the headquarters of the Red Cross medical relief in the courthouse.

The entire city was under martial law. One hundred and fifty troops were patrolling the city with orders that all persons were to be kept out of the restricted district and to report if necessary.

Five hundred persons were in temporary hospitals as a direct result of the flood, according to J. L. Moorehead, secretary of the governor.

Cases of typhoid, pneumonia, diphtheria and one or two cases of infantile have been found. Centennial hospital has a contagious ward where 10 to 15 cases of chicken pox are quarantined.

Visitors to Be Barred.

Troops will be stationed tomorrow on the Colorado Springs automobile road with orders to prevent all visitors from entering the city. Lieutenant-Colonel Paul P. Newton, in command of the city, in a statement declared that Pueblo was unable to care for any visitors. No persons, not members of the national guard, or coming here for the purpose of enlisting in the national guard, will be admitted.

The Red Cross today cooked a carload of meat to keep it from spoiling and will be distributed to the needy.

Canteen Is Established.

A canteen of the Red Cross has been established in the courthouse and all day the building was thronged with persons asking for food and clothing. Colonel F. J. Pierce, head of the Red Cross medical relief work, told the Associated Press tonight that the Red Cross was able to care for all the needy and issue food and clothing.

A field hospital unit from Fort Logan will be here sometime tomorrow. (Concluded on Page 2, Column 1.)

DECORATION FOR FETE IS URGED ON CITIZENS

CITY WILL DON GALA TODAY AND TOMORROW

Officials Request That Flags and Bunting Be Displayed to Make Portland Attractive.

Portland will complete the Rose Festival decoration today and tomorrow, and the appearance of the city when the fete opens promises to be all that could be desired.

Officials in charge urged yesterday that all business houses, as well as private citizens, do their full share toward placing decorations and thus making the city as attractive as possible. Display of flags and bunting, it was urged, should be general.

All entries for the floral parade Thursday afternoon should be in today, at the latest. It was announced so that no last-minute hitches will be occasioned. It was believed, yesterday, due to the favorable weather for bringing out roses of fine size and coloring, that the floral pageant this year would be one having few, if any equals in the history of the annual fete. The board of directors of the festival will meet today noon to complete any final details remaining.

The reception committee to welcome the naval officers who are bringing the unit of the Pacific fleet, consisting of the U. S. S. Frederick and six destroyers, will board the steamer Dix this afternoon and go down the river to welcome the visiting sailors.

John S. Beall, admiral of the festival regatta, has ordered his staff to report in uniform at his headquarters on the mezzanine floor of the Multnomah hotel Thursday morning at 10 o'clock for complete instructions. The staff was also directed to assemble at the same place at 10:45 A. M. Friday.

Friday night at 9 o'clock, the admiral's ball will be given at the Multnomah hotel. This affair will be limited almost wholly to the visiting officers of the Pacific fleet and their partners, the admiral's staff and their partners, together with the queen, her attendants, and officials of the festival and their partners.

FIRE BURNS FARM HOME

J. S. Evans Residence Near Goldendale Is Destroyed.

GOLDENDALE, Wash., June 5.—(Special.)—The home on the farm of J. S. Evans, on the Maryland road, two miles south of Goldendale, was entirely destroyed by fire about 7 o'clock Saturday morning. The fire started in the woodshed in the rear of the house where a gasoline pump and plant was situated.

Mr. Evans had just started his gasoline engine preparatory to pumping water for the day, and was unable to explain just how the fire was ignited. The flames gained headway so rapidly that he was unable to control the blaze and succeeded in saving only a small portion of his household effects. The loss was estimated at $5000.

HARDING OFFERS HELP

Sympathy Is Sent to People Who Suffered From Flood.

DENVER, Col., June 5.—The following message from President Harding was received this afternoon by Governor Oliver H. Shoup:

"I am deeply distressed to read of the loss of life and destruction of property in the valley of the Arkansas river. It is most reassuring to know how nobly your state has met the great emergency.

"If the federal government can be of aid to you, pray do not hesitate to advise, because all the people of the United States are touched by the sorrow and distress which has come to the people of Colorado. (Signed) "WARREN G. HARDING."

Main Benefit to Crops.

GOLDENDALE, Wash., June 5.—(Special.)—Several days of warm weather in the Klickitat valley were followed by general rains. The rain will do much toward insuring a full crop of grain.

HARDING PLEDGES AID TO HUMANITY

Higher World Plane in Future Glimpsed.

AMERICA'S SUN JUST RISING

Tribute Is Paid to Spirit of Valley Forge.

CANNON ROAR WELCOME

President Proclaims America's Purpose to Keep Independence and Help Other Nations.

VALLEY FORGE, Pa., June 5.—(Special.)—In his speech at the Washington memorial chapel at Valley Forge, President Harding pledged today that America will assume its share in helping humanity to a higher plane. The president made clear his conception of a present-day international responsibility created by the commanding world position America has attained. The solution of the world's great problems, he said, depends on America's influence and example.

The president spoke from manuscript, but when he had finished his formal address, in which he paid tribute to the valor of Washington's army and expressed pleasure at recalling the hallowed ground on which it camped, he dealt extemporaneously with other inspirations the day had brought him.

"I like to say to you—perhaps you like me to say it," he said, "because I am answerable to you for the policy of the republic; I believe I speak what is in your hearts and in the hearts of all America when I say that we ought to have the courage, the appreciation, the resolution, the conscience and the judgment to maintain unendangered the inherited foundations of our fathers and, ever mindful of their sufferings, still play our part to humanity in the generations to come. I can think of an America that can maintain every heritage and yet help humanity throughout the world to reach a little higher plane. But when I pledge our America to world helpfulness, at the same time I exact the pledge that America will cling to her own independence of action and to her own conscience."

America's Position Tomorrow.

"Who can say what tomorrow has for the world? We are only a century and a half from Valley Forge and a century and a third from the adoption of the constitution and yet I can say without boasting that ours is a commanding position in the world today.

"The world could never settle its present-day turmoils and complications without the helpfulness of American influence and example.

"Who shall say if we hold the helpfulness of American influence and example, who shall say if we hold fast to the traditions of Valley Forge, what the future shall have in store?"

"I want an America of preserved conscience; I want an America of preserved righteousness—aye, an America clinging to the religious devotion which has been the anchorage of our civilization. Who shall say if we cling to these things what we may accomplish? We are already up in the world, but the sun of our national life has not fairly approached its meridian. It is only morning in our national life. What is a century and a third of national life? It is only a snap of the finger. Who can imagine in quaffing the cup of national American optimism what the future may be in store?"

High Achievement Predicted.

"I can well believe that long before the sun of our national life has passed its meridian, with maintained foundations, the 100,000,000 of today will be the myriads of the future. I like to think of them all as loyal Americans with face to the front, marching on and on to achievement, clinging to their traditions and joining in a great, swelling chorus.

"Glory be to God in the highest, on earth peace, good will to men."

The president addressed about 10,000 persons gathered in the open air after attending the chapel services with Mrs. Harding, Senator and Mrs. Knox, whom he is visiting here; Brigadier General Sawyer, Harding's physician; George R. Christian Jr., his secretary, and Mrs. Knox's secretary, Warren S. Martin. The chapel stands a quarter of a mile from the edge of the camping ground, overlooking the entrenched hill and the fort erected by Washington to command the Valley Forge approaches.

Guns Roar Salute.

The crowd had gathered two hours before the president's arrival, due to the inception of daylight-saving time in Pennsylvania communities today. The congregation in the chapel was ready for services an hour before the president planned to arrive. The doors were closed and the extra hour was spent in waiting, with the crowd outside increasing constantly. The day was ideal.

Mr. Harding's appearance was dignified by a salute of 21 guns from an American Legion post at Norris-town. Immediately after the regular Episcopalian service.

DRAINED CANAL GIVES UP BODY OF YOUTH

MOTHER IS GRIEF-STRIKEN AFTER LOSING 5 CHILDREN.

Waters Reduced and Discovery Made at Spot Where Hundreds of Farmers Made Search.

PROSSER, Wash., June 5.—(Special.)—After draining the Sunnyside canal, the body of the 3-year-old son of Henry Carner was found near Grandview late this afternoon only a few feet from where his hat was discovered, near the Carner ranch. The mother is said to be grief-stricken, having but one child left of six, the others having recently met untimely deaths, two of them from influenza.

It was over the protest of many farmers whose crops were jeopardized and in the face of crop damage from lack of water that may amount to many hundreds of thousands of dollars that the government officials in charge of the Sunnyside project consented to drainage of the canal. The water was turned off this morning, and the depth at Grandview had been reduced from six to two feet when the body was found.

Hundreds of farmers had helped drag the canal for a distance of 20 miles below the scene of the drowning and search had been particularly thorough at the very spot where the body was found.

STRIKE INJUNCTION UP

Hearing on Marine Walkout to Be Held Here Today.

A special hearing will be held before Federal Judge Woverton today at 2 o'clock on the marine strike injunction proceedings in which attorneys for the government have demanded an injunction against striking seamen interfering with shipping board vessels in the Portland harbor. Attorneys for the strikers have demanded that the proceedings be dismissed.

United States Attorney Humphreys filed a series of affidavits with his petition for an injunction in which members of the Marine Engineers' Beneficial association were charged with acts of violence against non-union men. The defense in its answer denied the charges.

NOTE AVIATRIX KILLED IN FALL

Laura Bromwell, Loop Champion, Is Dead.

PLANE GOES WRONG IN AIR

One Turn Completed at Altitude of 1000 Feet.

SECOND JUST STARTED

Record of 100 Somersaults Is Established on May 15 Before Large Crowd.

NEW YORK, June 5.—(Special.)—While thousands of spectators looked into the clear sky above Haeberst field, near Garden City, this afternoon, watching a demonstration by Miss Laura Bromwell, the noted flyer and holder of the woman's record for looping the loop, her Curtiss biplane went into a tail spin as she was starting her record loop at an altitude of 1000 feet, and the machine, with Miss Bromwell tightly belted into her seat, fell straight downward and crashed upon a stone roadway fronting what used to be Camp Hill.

The nearest of the horrified onlookers reached the tangled, spinning mass that a few seconds before had been a graceful ship of the air, they found Miss Bromwell dead.

Flier Only 23 Years Old.

She was only 23 years old, a pretty, charming girl. She was affectionately termed, in flying circles, the "Lovely Lady Looper." She came from Cincinnati to this city last year and became a demonstrator and saleswoman for the Curtiss concern.

On Sunday, May 15, last, she ascended the aviation world by looping the loop 100 times, a record that no woman, and few men, had ever approached.

Miss Bromwell's fiancé, George Davis, was among the spectators. He had driven down to the field with her from New York, and kissed her before she took off from the ground.

Tail Spin Is Taken.

The young man fainted when those who had gone to the pile of wreckage on the road told him sadly that the girl was dead. Several women, who saw the yellow machine come shooting downward at terrific speed, likewise collapsed.

Military observers declared that the motor stopped abruptly as the plane was making the upward turn of the loop. The machine fell backward into a tail spin and dropped like a plummet.

Aviators declared that the girl's apparent inability to manipulate the control levers to right the plane was probably due to her being swung from the seat so she could not reach them.

Theories Are Advanced.

Just what went wrong with the plane was not determined positively. One of several theories might have happened.

That a seat cushion fell from the machine at the top of the loop (this was found later on the roof of the loop) was dead. Several women, who saw the yellow machine come shooting downward at terrific speed, likewise collapsed.

That something went wrong with the Curtiss biplane—she may have fainted, her heart might have given out. There seemed to be some ground for the supposition in the fact that she was not seen to right her machine during the long drop of 2500 feet, and apparently made no move to do so.

Of course, if her elevators were jammed she would have been compelled to sit helplessly and face, throughout these brief seconds, the terrible end that she knew awaited at the finish of that breathless downward rush.

The machine was splintered to bits and the motor was rent asunder, so it may never be known just what happened, but the Curtiss people intend to make an investigation and will examine minutely the wreckage. It was said the control wires were intact—although it could not be told if they had jammed.

One Killed in Crash.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Cal., June 5.—One person was killed and eight were injured today when an airplane engaged in stunt flying crashed on the beach here in the midst of a throng of spectators.
