

VIEWED OF ELKS

Grand Exalted Ruler Leads Big Herd to Portland.

ROYAL WELCOME GIVEN

Entertainment Lavished Upon Bills by Local Members of Order During Stay of Caravan.

A friendly army from the domains of Elkdom, led by William W. Mountain, grand exalted ruler, invaded Portland yesterday and spent the day carrying out a busy programme of entertainment, featured by a trip over the Columbia highway in which hundreds of visitors of the entire herd stretched a ribbon of royal purple between the green borders of Oregon's famous Scotch-Irish attire.

Shortly after 7 o'clock yesterday morning a caravan of special cars began to arrive at the Union station with visiting delegations. Grand Exalted Ruler Mountain and his party were met by William F. McKinney, exalted ruler of the local lodge No. 142, and a committee of past exalted rulers of the local lodge and their wives. The delegation was taken to the Multnomah hotel for breakfast, followed by a long trip over the highway, with lunch at a highway hotel.

Highway Scenery Exalted. "The Columbia highway is such a magnificent sight that its utter beauty cannot be adequately described and the Portland spirit of hospitality is splendid," said the ruler of Elkdom in summing up his impressions of his visit.

Fullmans Are Decorated. Elks from Brooklyn and the Bronx were taken for a city eight-seater tour, and during the tour special trains were transformed into a bower of flowers by committee workers who decorated the Fullmans with garlands of flowers and other blooms.

Representatives from New Orleans featured their programs with a dinner and dance at the Multnomah hotel.

The New Jersey delegation was presented with 500 choice roses donated by "Tommy" the popular tourist, who is not an Elk but who wanted to give the visitors a sample of Portland hospitality.

At 7:30 P. M. the officers of the grand lodge were serenaded in the lobby of the Multnomah hotel, and a grand drum corps of the Portland lodge, replete with 310,000 worth of new purple and white uniforms, donned for the first time.

Reception Held for Visitors. After a parade from the Multnomah to the clubrooms of the local lodge, an informal reception was held for the visiting officers. A fleet of automobiles carried crowds of Elks to Laurelhurst park for a band concert at 8 P. M.

Monroe Goldstein, Dr. Ben L. Norden and other Los Angeles convention, as well as scores of visitors, declared that Portland needed only the 1924 official invitation to bring the 1924 convention of the order to this city.

"We are practically certain of winning the big money in 1924, but we must have the support of all loyal Oregon citizens," said Monroe Goldstein. "With 10,000 Elks here a year before the 1925 exposition, we would have a wonderful medium through which to tell the world of our exposition."

Spirit of Oregon Fine. "Oregon was on the map in big red letters at the time of the exposition, and the spirit of this state was the talk of the town. The Oregon float, with Bebe Daniels, and the Oregon queen, won second prize in the floral parade, and the booster spirit of Oregon was rewarded yesterday by the publicity in Los Angeles newspapers about the wonders of the state, where other delegations received only a paragraph or two."

"Oregon headquarters received 10,000 visitors during the five-day session. The 18 Elks lodges of the state boosted Oregon as a whole. In the luxurious rooms in the Alexandria hotel, the Elks here a year before the 1925 exposition, we would have a wonderful medium through which to tell the world of our exposition."

Valuable Lesson Learned. "The lesson we learned from the Los Angeles convention was that untiring co-ordination of effort can make Oregon the grandest of Southern California."

Mr. Goldstein was secretary-treasurer of the headquarters committee, which was made up of Jay H. Upton of Prineville, Charles C. Vintler of Pendleton, and Sidney B. Vintler of the Oregon state tourist and information bureau.

Grand Exalted Ruler Mountain and his official party, with the Connecticut, New Jersey and New Orleans contingents, left for Seattle at midnight last night.

Members of Ruler's Party. In the ruler's official party are Joseph T. Farnsworth, past grand exalted ruler and secretary of the Elks war relief commission and the national memorial building commission; Fred C. Robinson, grand secretary, Dubuque, Iowa; Joseph B. Messick Jr., secretary to the grand exalted ruler; John E. Benton, grand exalted ruler, John D. Hart, Dubuque, Iowa, grand chaplain; Judge Henry L. Kennan, Spokane, member of the grand lodge; J. E. Masters, Charleroi, Pa., chairman of the committee of social welfare; F. Schrader, Allegheny, Pa., past grand exalted ruler; Knight Judge John F. Malley, Springfield, Mass., member of the judiciary committee; John C. Barrett, Omaha, member of the committee on credentials; Charles C. Bradley, Portland, past grand exalted ruler; and J. B. L. Norden, past grand exalted ruler.

The closing activities of the miniature convention will take place today when the ruler will depart for Philadelphia and 125 from Baltimore will be entertained. The Baltimore crowd will be taken on a river trip on the

VANCOUVER ENTERTAINS ELKS

Grand Exalted Ruler Speaks on War Work of Lodge.

VANCOUVER, Wash., July 20.—(Special)—William W. Mountain, O. O. grand exalted ruler of the Elks, and his party were entertained at a reception in the Elks' temple when they visited Vancouver today for little more than an hour. There were 48 in the party, including a number of past exalted rulers. Mountain spoke briefly of the work of the lodge during the war and then met a large number of the members of the order here.

FLOATING BAR REPORTED

Liquor-Laden Ship Said to Be Doing Large Business.

NEW YORK, July 20.—Assertion that floating bars were being operated off Long Island outside the three-mile limit was made today by the Brooklyn Eagle.

The Eagle stated that newspaper, a liquor-laden ship, dubbed the Flying Dutchman, has made a third visit to waters near Montauk Point, disposed of 4000 cases of craft that swarmed out from the shore, and sailed back to the Bahamas. It was alleged that the liquor had been landed by a boat from Connecticut shores and that what- ever might be said of the customers, the maritime bartender was within the law.

Federal officials professed ignorance of the visiting ship. It was said to fly the English flag.

LOGGER DASHED TO DEATH

Vernon Foster Killed Instantly When Cable Gives Way.

TIMBER, Or., July 20.—(Special)—Timber workers at the logging camp working for the Belding Lumber company of Belding, Or., on the railroad line to Tillamook, was killed instantly today when a cable gave way. The worker was working on a cable which was supporting a cage in which he was working. The cable snapped and he fell a distance of 30 feet. It is believed his head was crushed against the side of the cage by the fall.

He is said to have a mother living at Gaston, Or.

CONDITION DECLARED WORST IN TEN YEARS.

NEW YORK, July 15.—(Special)—Though more theaters are closed today than proportionately at any time in the past ten years and Broadway is in despair, it will be another six weeks before the theatrical profession realizes the truth of the situation, according to a well-known manager. The time when the facts of the present slump will be borne in upon the actors will be when they begin to look for work after the first of August.

MANY PLAYHOUSES CLOSE

Actors Not Yet Fully Aware of Situation, but Will Be Soon.

Movies Also Affected.

As long as at the beginning of Lent the managers saw what was coming and began to make their plans accordingly. There is always a Lenten slump in the theaters, but business usually picks up again Easter Monday, which is one of the big days in the theater. This year, however, was not the case. The Lenten slump was beyond the expected proportions, and the Easter Monday recovery was below the average.

Business grew rapidly worse after Easter. Many theaters closed and road shows were constantly disbanded. Result, the managers are not planning big productions for the coming season. And when the actors discover that situation they will realize what the present slump is.

Leaving his car in the garage, he had an average of 11 new productions a year will bring out only four musical shows this year. Another manager who has always produced 19 or 20 new shows will bring out three this fall, according to his present plans.

Shubert's plan is to rent, and of their theaters this year, which has not been the case in several years.

The Shubert's are one of the few firms that will have a large number of new productions this year. That is because they have so many theaters and they have their own production staff. If other managers don't want to rent them, they will have to rent them for time this year.

Movies Also Affected. In the moving picture business the conditions are somewhat analogous. The moving picture business is not doing so well as it was a few months ago. Theaters are closing temporarily, and the picture producing concerns are closing temporarily.

Another phase of the slump in pictures is the probability of an end to the fabulous salaries that have been paid to many of the players. The producers are not planning heavy cuts in the pay of the superstars, but they do expect to reduce the pay of the lesser players.

Those passing through today included a herd of 400 from New England and the advance guard of the greater New York delegation. Representatives of the St. Paul lodge and the United States when the city of Baker for burial.

BOND ELECTION IS VOTED

Walla Walla to Reconsider Issue for Water Works.

WALLA WALLA, Wash., July 20.—(Special)—The city commissioners voted today to call a second election on the proposed bond issue for water works improvements. Bonds were voted in December, 1919, to put in a new pipeline to the city, extend the line into the Wenaha forest at a cost of $500,000.

The bonds were to bear 5 per cent interest. They were sold to the Union Trust company on an agreement to pay 6 per cent, but the attorney of the company says this will be illegal unless revised. It is considered doubtful whether the people will vote bonds at 6 per cent, especially as the proposed improvements now cannot be put in for less than $600,000.

The biggest thrill of the trip occurred at Dixon's entrance, as the eagle boat was going into Sitka. Bowing along at a speed of 17 knots, the eagle boat was struck by a whale. The lookout spotted a whale dead ahead. While a collision between a whale and a heavily loaded freighter would be a serious matter only to the whale and the heavily loaded freighter, the collision between the eagle boat and her cruise, and Lieutenant C. L. St. Clair of Portland was in command of the cruise. The complement consisted of 56 men and six officers all told.

The eagle boat is scheduled to start from Portland in ten days for Seattle, Tacoma and Bremerton. The third voyage will be to Juneau, Alaska, and will start about August 15.

SUPPER FEATURES

TODAY'S FILM FEATURES. Rivoli—Milton Sills, "Salvage." Peoples—"The Palace of Darkness." Music—"The Greys." The Man of the Forest. Liberty—Wallace Reid, "Too Much Speed." Columbia—Sir James M. Barrie's "What Every Woman Knows." Star—Hessie Barriscale, "The Breaking Point." Hippodrome—Edith Roberts, "Luring Lips." Circle—Louise Lovely, "White Lies." Globe—May Allison, "The Last Card."

HERE ARE THREE REASONS WHY

"Too Much Speed," at the Liberty is a 12-cylinder, torpedo-body, racing photoplay. The reasons are: Wallie Reid, Agnes Ayres and Theodore Roberts.

Wallie Reid is the acknowledged holder of the heart-breaking championship among screen idols, and he is at his best in pictures which put him in the wheel of racing cars. "Too Much Speed" is a picture in which he and Agnes Ayres play a story of a dare-devil speed king, thrilling race fans with real drivers at the Beverly Hills speedway, and a comedy situation, tinged with keen comedy situations.

"Overerville" comedy and the singing act of the Manhattan trio are added features of the Liberty programme.

SCREEN GOSSIP.

Mayor Baker shows marked ability as a player of the silent drama in the third feature of Screenland News, Portland's own reel of interesting events, which is a feature of the present Columbia film programme. A number of the leading spirits in the recent kiddies' picnic given by the mayor are ready to renounce their activities of the Mayor in the miniature.

OREGONIAN WANT-ADA

Complete immunity from arrest for any crime, even murder, committed in another state is enjoyed by paroled men in Oregon. This is the effect of a little-known supreme court decision which governed the action of District Attorney Evans yesterday in confessing the arrest of Louis Zukerman on a bench warrant from Seattle was illegal. The writ of habeas corpus demanded was allowed by Judge Tamm, followed by hearing of the action was not scheduled until today.

Supreme Court Decision Prohibits Extradition.

It was when Attorney Goldstein brought to the attention of District Attorney Evans the fact that his client had been sentenced to two years in the penitentiary and paroled only last week by the local court that the controversy arose. The arrest was made on behalf of Sheriff Harburt. The district attorney also telephoned Chief of Detectives Tennant and told him that it was useless to institute extradition proceedings in Oregon because the law was on the side of the man being held.

Zukerman Charged With Forgery.

Zukerman is wanted in Seattle on a forgery charge, similar to the crime to which he pleaded guilty in Oregon last week. He does not deny the Seattle forgery, saying that they were perpetrated, like those in Portland, when under the influence of a drug. The theory of the supreme court decision under which the case of Zukerman comes is that a paroled man in Oregon is virtually a citizen of the state and no other state can acquire jurisdiction. Therefore he cannot be turned over to another state for trial until after the parole granted him in Oregon has expired, raised the supreme court.

As long as the parole was in effect he could not be extradited. The parole could not be revoked unless he committed another crime in Oregon while on parole.

The governor could issue no pardon to the man if he refused to accept the pardon, was the sweeping assertion of the supreme court. Thus he could pursue his way unmolested in Oregon until he had made good his escape for parts unknown.
