MERMAIDS' ATTIRE IS CALLED MODEST

Reporters Inspect Bathers for Police Chief.

DRESSING ROOMS URGED

Accommodations on Lower River Beaches Are Declared to Be Insufficient.

BY W. H. PERKINS.

Always there comes a time when even a police reporter has his day in court; when, for one long-to-be-remembered day, he can look down upon even the managing editor with a smile of lofty indifference and tell him that his job may be all right, but——

For the police reporters of the several Portland newspapers yesterday completed their annual inspection of bathing suits under official appointment by Chief of Police Jenkins.

And this inspector's job, let it be indited with ink which never fades, is a portfolio which any man might well afford to take. The only disagreeable feature about the annual inspection is the finish. It's one job the city provides where the worker neither looks out for the approach of the boss nor watches the clock.

Patrol Boat Used.

No wonder editors looked with envious eyes upon their police reporters and sighed for the days when they, too, used their legs as well as their heads.

Under the personal guidance of Chief Jenkins and Inspector Klingensmith, the bathing-suit inspectors cruised the river in a harbor patrol launch from the upper harbor to the lower, and every time a good-looking one-piece suit made its appearance on the beach, the prow of the launch would point toward the shore.

In only a few isolated cases did the inspectors find a swimmin' hole where youngsters were romping about the water in one of Mother Nature's creations. And the sight of the bluecoats and cameras was an instant signal to "beat it."

It wasn't until the launch arrived at Windemuth that George O'Neal, one of the committee, lost that blase air which he feigned at the start and began to sit up and take notice. For Inspector O'Neal was the only unmarried man in the party, which gave him the right to express himself more forcefully and forcibly than others.

Mermaids Are Photographed.

"Won't you girls please pose for me so I can take your picture?" he asked a couple of laughing mermaids at this swimming resort.

"Sure, if you'll send us one," they chorused in unison.

After the camera had clicked, O'Neal, with a gracious southern smile, approached the two pretty maids with their striking one-piece costumes.

"Now, if you will give me your names and addresses I will send you each pictures," he promised.

"Say, George, get their telephone numbers for me," shouted Ben E. Titus, forgetting for a moment that he was a married man with Ben E. Jr. at home awaiting his coming.

Chief Shows Interest.

Even Chief Jenkins forgot that he was chaperone, so great was the interest at this resort. The chief needed not one whit of coaxing to stand with a pair of water-nymphs while he got his picture "took."

Arthur D. Sullivan took his job as inspector seriously at the outset of the trip. For "Sully" has a couple of youngsters of his own who will soon be big enough to swim, and he's been a police reporter for so long he seldom ever gets a "kick" out of anything. But it was different yesterday.

"If the paper wants any police news this afternoon they will have to send the office boy down to get it," quoth the exuberant "Sully" after the inspection had been under way less than half an hour. "I'm going to stick right here and let the rest of you inspectors finish the job."

Had it not been for Inspector Klingensmith and the fourth member of the party the annual inspection would have been a dismal failure. For "Kling" had a hard time in keeping the party intact.

"Just take an old man's advice and stick to the ship," he advised them.

Suits Declared Modest.

So far as the inspection was concerned, the critics found nothing which was in any way objectionable. These one-piece bathing suits now worn by women are in no way immodest, was their edict. In fact, the only criticism they had to offer was that there were not enough on the river to be inspected.

"Not nearly so immodest as these skirts which swish around baby-blue garters just below the knees," stated the inspectors in their official report to Chief Jenkins.

Every conceivable kind of bathing suit was found along the east river bank, both above and below the old Portland flouring mill, where there was a long stretch of sandy beach alive with bathers, young and old. Here and there could be found mothers with from one to four little tots splashing in the water, while beneath the protecting shade of an umbrella some neighborhood belle in an attractive suit would be surrounded by a bevy of youthful admirers.

Boys Tease Inspectors.

But the youngsters along this lower beach cared not a bit for either the chief or the inspectors. As the inspectors' boat glided in toward the shore these little sun-browned swimmers would dive beneath the water and come up to the surface with fingers outstretched from the nose.

"Hey, chief, lookey!" they'd yell, and then dive, with kicking feet, beneath the dater.

One woman of mature years and who long ago became more than "plump" did her bathing on the lower beach in a flowing Mother Hubbard.

"These one-piece suits are all right for the girls, but I prefer to take my swimming a little more sheltered," she explained to the inspectors.

Tim Abearn and A. T. Austed, skippers of the police launch, had just about run out of gas before the inspectors, with sincere regret called it a day. They had given the bathing suits the once-over, the up-and-down and the close-up, and still they were looking for more.

The inspectors in their official report to the chief suggested that dressing rooms be fitted up on the lower beach near the flouring mill for the accommodation of the hundreds who take to the water daily.

And having finished their assignment the reporter-inspectors went back to headquarters. It was the one day in the year that they are at peace with the world and satisfied with their jobs.

BEND HOST TO EDITORS

STATE ASSOCIATION CONVENTION OPENS TODAY.

All-Night Stay at Elk Lake Feature of Gathering—Women to Be Entertained.

BEND, Or., July 21.—(Special.)—On the eve of the annual state editorial convention, the business and social programme for the newspapermen's gathering was announced late this afternoon.

Registration and organization will start the convention at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, and the return of the editors Sunday afternoon from an all-night stay at Elk lake will bring the yearly meeting to its close. At Elk lake the annual banquet will be held Saturday night.

A get-together dinner will be served to delegates and townspeople at the Pilot Butte Inn tomorrow evening, and at noon the same day the editors will be guests of the two Bend newspapers at luncheon. The women attending the convention will be entertained the same afternoon by Mrs. H. K. Brooks, wife of the general manager of the Brooks-Scanlon Lumber company.

The business session will open tomorrow morning with an address of welcome by Mayor Gilson and a response by C. E. Ingalls, president of the state association. Speakers in their order are: Guy Lafollette of Prineville, Joe D. Thomison of Hood River, Hugh D. Ball of Hood River, C. J. McIntosh of Oregon Agricultural college, Collin V. Dyment of the University of Oregon, George Huntington Currey of Baker, Ernest W. Hardy and A. E. Koen of Polk county, Lee Drake of Astoria, George B. Aiken of Ontario, B. W. Bates of Roseburg, D. M. Botsford of Portland, E. M. Reagan of Albany, Ray Pennell of Portland, Lynn F. Cronemiller of Klamath Falls, E. E. Brodie, president of the national association; Edgar B. Piper and B. F. Irvine of Portland.

Election of officers will precede the trip to Elk lake.

Tillamook Invites Editors.

TILLAMOOK, Or., July 21.—(Special.)—The Tillamook chamber of commerce has sent an invitation to the Oregon State Editorial association to hold its next annual convention in Tillamook City, promising the editors a good time if the invitation is accepted. The business men of this city have been anxious for several years to have the association meet in this county, where they can obtain first-hand information in regard to co-operation in the manufacture and marketing of dairy products.

ROCK IS TAKE-OFF POINT

Damaged Plane Gets Out of Meadow Near Crater Lake.

EUGENE, Or., July 21.—(Special.)—By taking off on a rocky meadow near Crater lake, Lieutenants E. C. Batten, of the 91st aero squadron, on duty at Eugene with the forest fire patrol, successfully piloted the damaged DeHaviland airplane from where it was forced to land a few days ago to the base at Medford. It is being repaired there and will be brought to the Eugene base in a few days.

The lieutenant said it appeared doubtful whether or not he would be able to get the plane out of the mountains as the bare spot where it landed is not large and is full of rocks. Eleven small fires were spotted by the patrol today.

LABOR SITUATION BETTER

Farms and Berry Industry Summon Workers Into Action.

SALEM, Or., July 21.—(Special.—C. H. Gram, state labor commissioner, left tonight for Pendleton, Baker, La Grande, Huntington and other eastern Oregon cities, where he has a number of complaints awaiting investigation.

Mr. Gram said today that labor conditions had improved somewhat during the past few weeks, due to the demand for workers on farms and in the fruit industry. He declared this employment was temporary, however, and that he expected a very unsatisfactory labor market next fall.

AUTOISTS LIKE NEW PARK

Motorists Visit Oregon City in Increasing Numbers.

OREGON CITY, Or., July 21.—(Special.)—The Oregon City automobile park near Canemah, formerly known as Canemah park, is one of the most popular resorts near this city for motorists who are touring the country. Each motorist is registered at the office.

Never before in the history of Oregon City has there been a greater number of motorists passing through the city. A large majority are from various sections of California, and making their first visit to Oregon.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Johnson of Ukiah and their sons Willie and Louis stopped here on their way to Portland, and after visiting that city will proceed to eastern Oregon. It was in 1888 that Mr. Johnson made his last visit in Canemah park. He noted many improvements in the park as well as in Oregon City.

DANCE INJUNCTION ASKED

COLUMBIA BEACH CONCESSION INVOLVED IN LITIGATION.

Montrose M. Ringler Brings Suit to Restrain Joseph M. Rieg From Operating Barge.

An injunction against the operation of the new dancehall at Columbia beach is sought in an action filed in the circuit court yesterday by Montrose M. Ringler who holds that the dance concession was leased him by the management, whom he accused of trying maliciously to put him out of business.

The action is brought against the Sand Island Amusement company and Joseph M. Rieg, owner. Ringler avers that Rieg offered him the exclusive dance concession at the beach April 14, 1919, for five years and that a hall on the grounds was purchased for $1000, fitted up at a cost of $4500 with hardwood floors and decorations. After the money had been spent, Ringler asserts that Rieg refused to deliver the lease, but that in an injunction suit brought in the circuit court in July, 1920, Rieg was ordered to deliver the lease. Ringler asserts that Rieg still refuses to deliver the lease and now has floated a barge to the grounds nearer the approach to the beach than Ringler's hall and opened it for dancing last Sunday.

Ringler's hall was inundated for six weeks this spring, but since high water he has spent $500 on it in repairs and it is now ready for use, it is asserted. He contends that Rieg sold tickets to the barge dance at the entrance to Columbia beach last Sunday and that no one could obtain tickets to the Ringler hall unless specifically mentioned at the gate.

NEVADA COMPANY BARRED

Reno Financial Concern Excluded From Business in Oregon.

SALEM, Or., July 21.—(Special.)—Both the banking and corporation departments of Oregon have rejected the application of the Security Savings & Loan association, with headquarters in Reno, Nev., to operate in this state as a building and loan association.

Application originally was filed with the corporation department, which, on investigation, held that the applicant was not in fact a building and loan association in that it did not have any stock for sale, but was selling its securities; also that in the opinion of the corporation commissioner the association was transacting a banking business.

MURDERER MUST HANG

Slayer of Wrong Man Cannot Escape Death on Gallows.

SANTA FE, N. M., July 21.—Antonio Carpio must hang at Silver City August 19 for the murder of Efren Rios at Central, N. M., August 14, 1919, according to the decree of the state supreme court, which today affirmed Carpio's conviction and set the date for his execution.

Carpio, the evidence showed, jealous of attentions paid by a rival to a girl at a dance, shot to kill Casimiro Lucero, and the bullet hit Rios, a second shot wounding Lucero.

The court held that shooting the wrong man did not exempt Carpio from crime.

Educator to Address Editors.

CORVALLIS, Or., July 21.—(Special.)—Another feature has been added to the programme of the State Editorial association, which will be in session at Bend tomorrow and Saturday. Robert Fry Clark, president of Pacific university, will discuss "The Newspaper as an Educator." Mr. Clark is on the programme for Saturday. Replies received from various newspapers in the state indicate that there will be a good attendance.

BRUMFIELD REWARD INCREASED TO $2000

Douglas County Court Acts in Murder Case.

FALSE CLEW STIRS CITY

District Attorney in Statement Requests Patience Until More Details Are Cleared Up.

ROSEBURG, Or., July 21.—(Special.)—Acting upon the findings of the coroner's jury last night that the headless body in the morgue was that of Dennis Russell, the county court increased the amount of the reward for the capture of Dr. R. M. Brumfield to $1000, making $2000 which has been offered for the return of the missing dentist.

There was a flurry of excitement late tonight following the finding of a hand and foot near the scene of the Brumfield automobile wreck. Investigation by the officers proved the hand to be from the body of a man and the foot to be from the body of a woman. Both evidently had been preserved in a solution for many months and had then been discarded.

Chimney Sweep Makes Find.

The two portions of human bodies were found by a chimney sweep, who stopped at a rubbish pile near the scene of the Brumfield wreck. He was looking for a can and, seeing a good one, emptied it, turning out the gruesome objects.

He went on to Coquille and reported the discovery to the Coos county sheriff, who notified Sheriff Starmer. The hand and foot were found where the chimney sweep left them. They had no connection with the case, but in spite of this fact the rumor spread that portions of another body had been found and considerable excitement was caused until the affair was explained.

Statement Is Issued.

In a formal statement tonight District Attorney Neuner asked the friends of Dennis Russell and Dr. Brumfield to be patient until the mystery can be cleared up. There are a great many things connected with the case that have not yet been solved, and the officers declared that it might be some time before the full details are known. In his public statement the district attorney said:

"I have not had time, really, to regain my normal equilibrium. I arrived here the morning of July 18 and within a few hours was taking testimony at the inquisition, and while the testimony was voluminous, the coroner's verdict was absolutely justified by the testimony adduced at the hearing.

Evidence Not Revealed.

"I had no theory and had reached no conclusion as to the details of the unfortunate affair as the details were not given in the press of California, and consequently I had only a general press report. My sincere desire was and now is to get the truth of the matter, and if a person is guilty of the crime that he be brought to justice.

"I am not making any statement for publication as to my theory or opinion as to the guilt or innocence of any person connected with the murder of Dennis Russell. It is evident that some person committed the deed. While I have other evidence in my possession, it would not be public policy at this time to make a detailed statement of all that we have.

Thanks Is Given to Press.

"I am very thankful to the press and officers throughout the state for the co-operation given the local officers, and sincerely hope that within the next few days something will develop that will throw a clear light upon the subject.

"Knowing Dr. Brumfield as I did, I appreciate the feeling of his warm friends in the matter, but I hope they will be patient as well as the friends and relatives of Dennis Russell, and all co-operate, and I am sure that the truth will out. That is all I ask and will expect nothing less."

The body of Dennis Russell was delivered to the relatives today by Coroner M. E. Ritter and it was buried at Myrtle Creek at 6 o'clock this evening.

CHASE IN DESCHUTES ENDS

County Officials Give Up Hope of Capturing Brumfield.

BEND, Or., July 21.—(Special.)—Deschutes county officials gave up hope today of effecting the capture of Dr. R. M. Brumfield, Roseburg dentist wanted on a charge of murder, who was believed to have driven through here early in the week.

Guards were withdrawn from the roads and only forest rangers were still on the lookout.

LARGE PARTY WILL HIKE

MAZAMAS' ANNUAL OUTING ATTRACTS MANY PERSONS.

Trip to Crescent Lake and Side Jaunts, Including Mountain Climbing, Are Features.

Registration for the Mazamas' annual outing trip to Crater lake, which will begin here July 30, includes a number from Eugene and Seattle and one man from Pittsburg, Pa. The committee in charge of the arrangements, consisting of Roy W. Ayer, Martha Nilsson and Charles Morton, is desirous of informing the public that any who wish to take the trip may do so, regardless of whether they belong to the Mazama organization.

It is predicted that about 90 persons will make the trip, which will last two weeks. The itinerary calls for the journey to Bend by railroad, thence by automobile to Crescent lake, where the party will make the ascent of Diamond peak and visit Lake Odell. From Crescent lake the camp will be moved to Diamond lake, and thence to Crater lake. A number of side trips are included in the schedule for those who do not wish to make the numerous mountain-scaling trips which are planned.

The cost of the trip is $65 for Mazama members and $70 for non-members, and the registration is now going on at the Mazama headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce building. The following have already registered to go:

Eugene—A. E. Caswell, J. H. Collins, Bessie Day, Mrs. J. H. Collins, E. E. DeCou, Bertha F. Comings, W. K. Newell, Edith Crocker, Rudolph H. Gjelsness, Catherine Winslow, W. C. Yoran and Nellie Helser.

CROWDS AT SYMPOSIUMS

GLADSTONE CHAUTAUQUA PROGRAMMES ATTRACT.

Concert Is Given at Auditorium by Jugo-Slav Orchestra — Australian Soldier-Poet Heard.

OREGON CITY, Or., July 21.—(Special.)—The success of the symposiums at the Gladstone Chautauqua form a striking tribute to the notable characters of the county and state who are appearing on the programmes. The building, in which the symposiums are held under the direction of Mrs. Emery Dye, has been crowded every afternoon.

The symposium hour today was devoted to talks upon the world of books. John T. Hotchkiss, manager of the book department of J. K. Gill's of Portland, and Miss Vivian Cooley of the book department of Meier & Frank, lectured on this subject.

In the afternoon a concert was given at the auditorium by the Jugo-Slav orchestra.

Tom Skeyhill an Australian soldier-poet spoke tonight. His subject was "The Babylonian Finger Writes Again." Skeyhill told an interesting story of Russia. Denied passports by the soviet government he passed a winter in the Siberian country. He told of his interviews with the bolshevik leaders.

Skeyhill's lecture was preceded by a short concert by the Jugo-Slav orchestra. During the afternoon the Multnomah branch of the Women's Christian Temperance union held a medal contest awarding a prize for the best reading, judged upon a basis of memory rendition, gesture and interpretation.

The silver medal was won by Nora Belle Pratt, 11-year-old daughter of Dr. and Mrs. George Pratt, 1007 East Fifteenth street North, Portland.

The organization of Chautauqua into a small-sized municipality with permanent streets—a veritable city laid out in city style, is the purpose of the Campers' association which was organized Wednesday night.

The picnic Wednesday night was in the nature of a general get-together. A final picnic for the year with a big bonfire, has been planned for Saturday night, immediately after the close of the programme.

J. H. Zehrung of Portland heads the club as president, Mrs. W. W. Amburn of Portland and Mrs. George Harding of this city are first and second vice-presidents, respectively.

POLICEMAN REGAINS JOB

J. J. FORKAN IS REINSTATED BY MAYOR BAKER.

Action Taken After Evidence Tends to Show "Frame-Up" Was Attempted by Pool Hall Men.

J. J. Forkan, Portland policeman, who was suspended about a month ago by Chief of Police Jenkins on charges of accepting bribe money, was reinstated yesterday after a hearing before Mayor Baker. Evidence was produced tending to show that Forkan had been the victim of a frame-up by Weinstein & Lyovich, proprietors of a pool hall at First and Caruthers streets.

The two pool hall men had informed Chief Jenkins that Forkan had placed them under arrest and had released them on the way to the station after he had accepted a bribe from them. They told the same story before the mayor. Their testimony became confused and contradictory under examination. Forkan declared that he had arrested Weinstein for allowing minors in the pool hall. He said he detained one 16-year-old boy and was going to take the proprietor to the station when Weinstein pleaded off on the pretense that he was about to sell his establishment and his arrest would cause him to lose his license. The 16-year-old boy corroborated Forkan's testimony.

Mayor Baker dismissed the case and declared that Forkan would be reinstated after the two complaining witnesses failed to agree or to corroborate statements made in an affidavit to Chief Jenkins. Deputy City Attorney Myers conducted the examination for the city and Barge E. Leonard appeared for Forkan.

OFFICE MISUSE CHARGED

Assistant United States Attorney at San Francisco Under Fire.

WASHINGTON D. C., July 21.—Charges of misuse of office, details of which have not been disclosed, against Thomas Lennon, assistant United States district attorney at San Francisco, are under investigation by the department of justice. Attorney-General Daugherty said today he had authorized District Attorney Silva to dismiss Lennon if facts warranting such action were developed.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 21.—Thomas Lloyd Lennon, son of Thomas J. Lennon, a state supreme court justice, has resigned from post No. 1 of the American Legion here, following an investigation by the post of a forged telegram from Chicago withdrawing the name of Charles H. Kendrick as a candidate for post commander, the post announced today. Although the telegram was signed Charles H. Kendrick, the accusation was made and denied by Lennon that the telegram was sent by Mrs. Lennon at the request of her husband.

SHEEP CAMP IS BURNED

BAKER, Or., July 21.—(Special.)—The McCorrigall sheep camp on China creek, about three miles from the Whitney-Unity road, was destroyed by fire yesterday, according to information received by the Whitman national forest officer here today.

The fire was sighted first by the lookout on Huckleberry mountain between Whitney and Sumpter, the report said. Fireman Gibbon of the lookout station, with the aid of ranchmen, got the fire under control.

The timber fire, which is the largest reported to the Whitman office this year, was said to have started from a fire left in the camp stove by the herder. Eighty acres of timber were destroyed.

CONVENTION FUND AMPLE

State Labor Session at Vancouver Costs Local Unions $538.12.

VANCOUVER, Wash., July 21.—(Special.)—Total expense of the State Federation of Labor convention to the unions of Vancouver was $538.12, leaving a balance of $12.37 in the treasury as profits from the convention, it was announced at a meeting of the central labor council.

Claude Moran, president of the union labor club, asked a vote of appreciation for the work of the finance committee in handling the expenses of the convention. The vote was unanimous.

Mrs. Hugh M. Jones, of the women's union labor auxiliary, asked that the council assume an $80.50 debt still owing on the purchase of a piano for the labor temple. She explained that the membership of the auxiliary had dwindled until the remaining members could not make the payment. The council voted to pay the bill, which falls due October 20.

LOWER RATES ARE SOUGHT

Willamette Valley Southern Would Increase Its Business.

SALEM, Or., July 21.—(Special.)—The Willamette Valley Southern railway, through its traffic manager, has filed an application with the Oregon public service commission asking that it be allowed to put into effect reduced week-end rates between points on its lines and Portland and Oregon City.

A fare of one and one-third for the round trip was set out as the proposed charge in the new tariff.

Woman Leaves $34,000 Estate.

SALEM, Or., July 21.—(Special.)—Emma Hughes, who died here in January, left an estate valued at approximately $34,000, according to articles filed in the probate court here today. She had five heirs.

Three Divorce Decrees Entered.

TILLAMOOK, Or., July 21.—(Special.)—At a special session of the circuit court, Judge Bagley granted three decrees in divorce suits. They were Grace Elenor Williams versus Preston Williams, Coral L. Pollock versus Lyle V. Pollock, and August E. Grekey versus Leona R. Grekey. Jay Houser of Wheeler was arraigned and pleaded guilty to two charges of larceny by bailee. He was sentenced to 12 months in the county jail on the first charge and to pay a fine of $100 on the second. The judge paroled him on paying $50 and costs, amounting to $100.

Lowland Pasturage Good.

GANTS PASS, Or., July 21.—(Special.)—Feed for cattle on the low lands of Josephine county is reported to be excellent. The cattle are in fine condition for this time of year and are being driven to the higher ranges. The good feed also will insure plenty of game for the hunting season this fall.

Posts Bought for Vineyard.

HARRISBURG, Or., July 21.—(Special.)—Ralph Kern, who is visiting Si Lowell of this city, came from Macfarlane, Cal., on a visit. Yesterday he motored to Maple and ordered 200,000 fence posts for use in his vineyards.
