Disintegration of a fill comprising part of the roadbed of Milwaukle avenue from Insley avenue for about Wash, July 29.—(Special.)—Frater-nity men and women made higher 500 feet south is causing a serious problem for the department of public works. The city engineer estimates that it will cost $30,000 to rebuild the road and insure its permanency. The fill has begun to slide out from under the roadway along the course of the bluff line above the river. A wooden sidewalk on the west side of the avenue has become unsafe for traffic and portions of the street have been barricaded to prevent automobiles from passing avenue.

The city engineer has decided that a cement retaining wall is needed to save the road from giving way. A cement sidewalk also will be needed to replace the wooden structure. The property immediately adjoining the cave-in will not stand the cost of the improvement as it is river banks and bluffs, and Commissioner Earbur says that he does not wish to establish the precedent of taking the money out of the general fund. It is planned to map out a large improvement district, extending south along Milwaukie avenue to the city limits to bear the cost of putting in the retaining wall. The cost will probably be $7 to $8 a lot.
