KLAN CHIEF STAGES OFFICIAL RECEPTION

of Secret Order Here.

Visitors Received at Multnomah Hotel Learn That Town Is Very Wicked and Must Clean Up.

With theatrical claptrap an attempt was made to impress various officials yesterday afternoon with the selfportance of the Ku Klux Klan, The sheet-and-pillowcase masquerade was held in a room in the Multnomah hotel and the hand-picked audience of officials didn't turn a hair when old King Kleagle and his side-kick, Cyclops, pranced around. And, further quoting the press agent's account: "A tall figure, gowned a little more elaborately than his companions, extended a friendly hand and said, in a southern dialect, 'How do you do, gentlemen?' He made a rather terrifying spectacle.''

Before the interview was over, old King Kleagle removed his hood, but Cyclops said he must be excused. Maybe the mayor or the chief of police or the police captain might have ecognized a member of the force. Anyway, Kleagle said, there are about

Since coming to Portland, Kleagle has come into possession of enough information concerning crime, degradation and lawlessness now going on that if it were exposed to the press that if it were exposed to the press many good citizens would be much alarmed and would not allow their wives and daughters to appear on the streets. This paragraph is an exerpt from the prepared report of the press agent. The report does not say whether the mayor, the district atterney or other officials said anything about it. Possibly they were too much terrified by the southern dialect, or Cyclops shoes.
