Beavers Make It Three Straight Wins.

GRANTHAM PLAYS FINE

Shortstop Declared to Be Doing Better Work Than Anyone Since Hollocher's Day.

Yesterday's Results. At Portland 7, Salt Lake 4. All other games postponed, teams traveling.

BY L. H. GREGORY.

King Kleagle or the big-footed Cyclops or some other Ku Kluxer must have held a private session with the Beavers, or else they are getting tired of reading letters about themselves. Anyway, they made it three straight wins yesterday by defeating Salt Lake, 7 to 4. It was the first time since the home talent has taken three in a row.

It would be interesting to know what King Kleagle told the boys. He must have made it a lot stronger than his talk to the city officials, for beginning with the double header they have been playing as if something were at stake. Two more straight double plays, both started by Grantham at short, helped Sye Johnson out of holes yesterday when the going looked rough.

Grantham Playing Fine.

Incidentally, Grantham is playing a whole of a game. This young fellow in the past three contests has looked better than any Portland shortstop since Chaery Hollocher. Besides his two double plays, he made a peach of a play on Gay's grounder in the fifth, when he raced for to the right after it slipped, but almost from a reclining position shot to Krug for a force-out of Strand at second.

Sam Hale likewise broke into the sensation column again by a nifty bare-handed stab of Wilhoit's foul in the first. Cactus Cravath started Hal Polson against his old clubmates and the boys made him feel right at home in the first, when Genin walked, Krug sacrificed, Hale leaned on a slow run for a triple, Sox walked and Poole then jammed a double that brought in two more. Three for the inning, all told.

Polson Has Substitute.

Polson gave way to a pinch hitter in the sixth and Kallio, another ex-Beaver, replaced him. The reception committee of home players promptly nicked Rudy for three more runs in the seventh. In the eighth Wilhoit literally knocked him out of the box by caroming a line drive off his thumb.

Besides the King Kleagle-Cyclops-Ku Klux Klan theory, another possible explanation for the Beavers' return to life is that the stars are now propitious for them. At the opening of the season, be it remembered, an astrologer predicted that they would not get started until August, but that then they would go like the dickens. Well, they are.

Duffy Lewis, the ex-Boston Red Sox world series hero, is playing left field for the Bees. Duffy smote out two hits in four times up. The score:

WINGED STARS INVITED TO SOUTH

Track Men Wanted for Meet at Sacramento.

PICKING ATHLETES HARD

Date of Events, September 9, Is Declared Bad Time to Get Team Lined Up.

Three athletes of the Multnomah Amateur Athletic club have been invited to participate in the first annual Pacific coast invitation track and field championships to be staged Saturday, September 9, at Sacramento. Of this meet is taking the place of the annual far-western track championships.

Just which three trackmen will uphold the honor of the local club in the south is not known. The committee in charge of the affair at Sacramento, of course, wanted the three best men in the northwest, but as most of the athletes in these parts have been to Oregon Agricultural and return to college, it is going to take some tail hustling on the part of the chairman of track and field affairs at the Multnomah club to find three men who could make a creditable showing in the Pacific coast meet, especially at that time of the year.

Material is Plentiful.

Multnomah club has a wealth of material to choose from. If the meet could be held earlier in the season, included in this list might be mentioned the names of Ralph Spearow, Art Turk, Sean Collins and Art Grille of the University of Oregon; Maurice Shook, Gus Simms, Glen Walkley and Chap Fowles of Oregon Agricultural college; Gus Pope and Vic Hurley, University of Washington, and Eldon Jenne, Washington state college. Then there are Moose Payne and Willard Wells, who might be considered as possibilities for the trip. The local track men are scattered far and wide right at present, however, and it would take Chairman Windnagle considerable time to get in touch with them.

Chronicle is Quoted.

The following by Fred E. Farmer in the San Francisco Chronicle explains the situation: "One of the big delights of this meet is that it will be for a year at least the supremacy of the coast in favor of either the Los Angeles Athletic club or the Olympic club. "But strange to relate, some of the regular track and field events have been left off the programme. These are the five-mile run, 440-yard hurdles, 56-pound weight throw and the hammer throw. And, stranger yet, in California, the events of the Olympic club has a man of championship caliber, while the southern club has no one who can do much of a figure in any of these four events. "Consequently, the Olympic club athletic heads do not relish the elimination of these events, for they are more than eager to put one over on the Los Angeles club and they want the fair chance to do so. "Yesterday the chairman of the Olympic club made a statement, hinting that if these events are not added to the programme there will be no wearers of the Winged O in Sacramento for this meet. On a strike as it were. Without the Olympic club team there the meet will not amount to much, but it is expected that some agreement will be reached before long. "It is known that love no longer exists between the track faction of the Los Angeles and Olympic clubs, and for this reason the local boys are far from willing to agree to anything that will not give them an even break. "Consequently the fireworks." Willard Asks for Conference.

TOPEKA, Kan., Aug. 2.—Jesse Willard of Lawrence, Kan. former heavyweight champion, tonight sent two telegrams to New York asking Tex Rickard, promoter, and Ray O. Archer, Willard's business manager, to hold a conference. The telegrams were in response to Rickard's message last night asking Willard how long it would take him to get into condition to fight.

DO YOU REMEMBER?

WHEN the hardware for Corbett & Faling's stock house at Front and Oak streets was moved to the basement of the First Presbyterian church, Third and Washington streets, now occupied by Ladd & Tilton's bank, because of the rising flood, and before it was all moved the big water of 1881 filled the basement.

How the leading business men of the city used to be seen every noon at Joe Penny's saloon on Front street, between Corbett and Washington, at the most delicious luncheon ever set out in Portland, all for 25 cents, or 30 cents if you had a glass of beer.

The old waffle man who made such delicious waffles, and sprinkled them for you with powdered sugar? The old bridge across Front street at the intersection of Jefferson? When Edgar E. Daly left Portland to open a cigar store in Dawson?

When "Kit" Carman was ace among the railroad men at the foot of Washington street? EX-RAILROADER. When Hammond was conducting a revival in the old skating rink, Fourth, Pine and Fifth streets, and how he and some of the gang threw rocks on the roof, whereupon some of the worshippers thought the building was falling and jumped out through windows and doors? O. C.

When a patient was being examined before County Judge Catlin on a charge of insanity, and it came out in the testimony that the patient read The Oregonian regularly, the Barrister Poley asked the witness, "What other evidences of insanity did you observe?" J. A. C.

When Harry Holland used to slide out a big one for 5 cents and when you bought Joe Singer always ordered "Fou' Roser"? M. W. B. When Dr. Harry Lane was considered the city's leading mushroom expert? W. M. G. When Art Krueger played center field for Portland and saved himself from having to work by judging where the balls would drop before ever they were hit? D. G.

Finding Max Guder for innumerable hits and ten scores in the eighth inning, the Elma baseball team walloped the Aberdeen Stars, 13 to 4, Sunday at Elma. Barring the fatal eighth, the Aberdeen twirler pitched a good game and kept the hits well scattered. Read The Oregonian classified ads.

PORTLANDERS TO GO NORTH

Local swimmers to enter events at Victoria August 20.

The programme for the Pacific Northwest association outdoor swimming and diving championships to be held at Victoria, B. C., Saturday, August 20, is of interest to local aquaticists, as Portland will be well represented in the meet by swimmers and divers from both the Multnomah Amateur Athletic club and Douglas Aquatic school at the Broadway natatorium.

Neither Jack Cody, swimming instructor at the Multnomah club, nor George Douglas, swim mentor at the Broadway nat, have made their selections for the trip, as there is considerable time before the meet is held and much will depend on the condition and speed the local swimmers show in their workouts.

The 50, 100 and 440-yard free-style swims, 100-yard backstroke, 200-yard breaststroke, fancy diving from the ten-foot board and high diving plunge for distance and water polo are the events listed for the men.

For the women there will be the 50, 440 and 880-yard free-style swims, 200-yard breaststroke, fancy and high diving, plunge for distance and water polo. There will also be two events for junior boys, one being the 50-yard swim for boys under 14.

Close Figuring

The Scotch and the Jews have the reputation of being two races of people who are hard to beat on close figuring.

As this is true, my Scotch parentage may have something to do with my success in the clothing business, for the wholesale clothing industry, which is one of the largest in the United States, is practically owned by Jewish manufacturers, and I have to say I have found them, in most cases, reliable, honest business men of a high type.

SHOW THEM THAT YOU SELL YOUR GOODS CLOSE and they will figure close with you. My upstairs plan is to sell three suits of clothes on a short profit instead of one on a long profit. I BUY FOR CASH AND SELL FOR CASH. A credit business means the expense of extra bookkeepers and collectors, besides the losses of those who don't pay, and I figure these losses have to be made up by the customer who does pay. I SAVE THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS ANNUALLY because I am on the second floor instead of the ground floor. Naturally, all this close figuring for savings BENEFITS YOU. COME ONE FLIGHT UP—SEE THE
